State of Union Message Will Be Given February 2

Allies Take Beating in Raid

Lawmakers Face Busy Schedule

Billion Dollar Budget, Other Vital Issues Discussed by Dewey and Aides

No Tax Hike Seen

State Plans to Balance Money Program With No Additional Fees

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 26 (AP)—Gov. Dewey conferred privately today with his top aides and legislative chiefs on the billion dollar plus budget he will send to the Senate and Assembly later this week.

The governor and the lawmakers also drafted Republican strategy on other legislative issues, including Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's $218,700,000 tax program for hard-pressed New York city.

Meanwhile Senators and Assemblymen streamed back to Capitol Hill for one of their busiest weeks in the current session, after a recess for President Eisenhower's inauguration.

In major developments over the weekend:

1. Creation of a permanent, three-member state agency to keep an eye on crime, political corruption and local law enforcement was recommended by the State Crime Commission. The proposal stemmed from the agency's probes in St. Lawrence, Columbia and Richmond counties.

Budget in Two Parts

2. Dewey's budget writers made final changes in the proposed spending program for 1953-54. This year for the first time, Dewey will announce the fiscal plan in two parts, one to cover the state tax revenues returned to localities as financial assistance and the other to detail the state's operating expenses for the year beginning April 1. The first part will be revealed Tuesday, and the second Thursday.

3. Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore worked on the Dewey administration's answer to Mayor Impellitteri's request for new fiscal powers for New York city. Moore, who has handled city-state negotiations for Dewey hopes to release his analysis of the mayor's plan late this week.

4. The Democratic legislative chiefs, Sen. Francis J. Mahoney and Assemblyman Eugene F. Bannigan, announced the minority would propose that the Legislature urge Congress to rewrite the McCarran - Walter Immigration Act. They said the "obnoxious national origin quota feature" of the bill should be eliminated.

5. Sen. Thomas C. Desmond, Newburgh Republican, proposed that heads of all state departments be required to make annual, oral reports on their units' activities before a joint session of the Senate and Assembly.

Dewey's new budget is slated to climb several million dollars higher than the current years' appropriations of $1,109,000,000. But Dewey proposes to balance the program without new or higher taxes.

Dewey is releasing the budget in two sections this year to emphasize that about 55 per cent of the state's tax revenue is returned to localities in state aid for

Permanent Agency Against Crime Is To Be Requested

Would Have Authority to Require Reports of Officials on Prosecutions

Albany, Jan. 26 (AP)—The state crime commission tonight will urge the Legislature to set up a permanent crime-busting agency to help break "a stranglehold" it says the organized underworld has clamped on law enforcement in some areas.

The commission, which has spent more than $600,000 since March, 1951, on a state-wide search for crime and political corruption, said the proposed three-member agency should have authority to require district attorneys and other state and local officials to report on their crime-fighting activities.

Initial Report Handed Up

The recommendations were contained in the commission's initial report to Gov. Dewey and the Legislature. It was released by Dewey last night, without comment. He said the Legislature would receive it tonight.

The group contended that various crime probes in past years had only driven mobsters, gamblers and other offenders under cover.

"The aftermath of such limited action too frequently has been a recurrence of basically evil conditions," it asserted.

"It is the strong view of this commission that the creation of such a permanent Commission of Investigation would be a long step forward in destroying the stranglehold which organized crime has had in various areas upon the administration of the criminal laws," the report asserted.

The commission said that " despite understandable zeal to destroy a grave and insidious evil, there should not be, if it can be avoided, a sacrifice of the principle of local self-government."

The governor termed the idea of a watchdog agency a "brand new concept" in handling the- state local relationships of law enforcement. But he said he would make no personal recommendations until the commission had submitted reports on other phases of its work. Those reports will cover the agency's inquiry into conditions on the New York waterfront, the need for any new laws to combat crime and allied recommendations.

The first report, based on the commission's investigations in St. Lawrence, Columbia and Richmond counties, reviewed the highlights of testimony at those inquiries. This material, which indicated the existence of organized gambling, vice and corruption, was made public previously in commission hearings in Ogdensburg and Hudson, and on Staten Island.

Fighter-Bombers Smash at Communists After Ground Units Are Repulsed

Seoul, Jan. 26 (AP)—Allied fighter-bombers ripped into Communist battlefront positions today after UN troops took a licking on the western Korean front in an elaborately-planned "program" raid.

Sabre jets swept north and tangled with Communist MIG-15s near the Yalu river. The U. S. Fifth Air Force said three Red warplanes were damaged.

The 4½ hours raid was the heaviest ground action of the new year. Allied infantry, tanks, flamethrowers, artillery and planes were thrown into the unsuccessful assault on Spud Hill.

High brass and correspondents —provided in advance with a pamphlet describing each phase of the attack—watched from nearby bunkers. Called "Operation Smack," it had been planned since Jan. 19.

But the Chinese Reds were ready. They caught the charging UN infantrymen in a deadly crossfire.

Then the allied troops tried to burn out the Reds with flamethrowers. However, in many instances, the flamethrowers ran out of fuel. AP Correspondent Forrest Edwards reported from the scene—at the southern end of T-Bone Hill—that a hail of artillery shells and napalm (jellied gasoline) also failed to dislodge the Communists.

Needed Flamethrowers

One of the allied wounded told Edwards:

"If we could only have had more flamethrowers we could have burned right through them. We were doing a good job but suddenly there weren't any more flamethrowers."

Another wounded man told AP Photographer Fred Waters that the flamethrowers ran out of fuel and added grimly:

"And so did the guy who was shooting it."

Planes Blanket Front

After the raid, Fifth Air Force and navy carrier planes swarmed over the entire front. The navy reported that planes from the carriers Kearsarge and Oriskany knocked out 300 yards of Communist trenches, nine bunkers, two gun positions and destroyed 36 trucks and 44 buildings.

Fourteen Okinawa-based B29s last night blasted a 30-acre military staff installation at Yangdok and the lateral rail line to Pyongyang.

The U. S. cruisers Los Angeles and Rochester pounded the northeast port of Songjin and Communist supply lines.

In continuing air battles, U. S. Sabre jets destroyed one MIG-15 and damaged another Sunday. The air force said that brought the January total to 39 Red jets destroyed, six probably destroyed and 39 damaged.

AEC Has New Spring Tests On Program

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced today it will test "new and improved nuclear devices" at the Las Vegas, Nev., proving grounds beginning in March.

The announcement did not go into detail about the nature of the new series of tests. It said only:

"The new series of tests is designed to advance development of new and improved nuclear devices and will provide additional weapons performance data essential to military and civil defense effects studies."

Troops to Participate

The AEC said troop maneuvers and training exercises will be part of the testing program. It estimated 18,000 members of the army, navy, air force and marines will take part.

It has been widely expected that the program will include the first field tests of atomic artillery shells for use in the army's new super cannon developed at the Aberdeen (Md.) proving grounds.

This cannon, capable of shooting atomic or conventional missiles 20 miles with pin-point accuracy, was announced late last year and was shown to the public in the Eisenhower inaugural parade last week.

During atomic tests at the Las Vegas proving ground last spring, eight atomic explosions were reported. They brought to 20 the total atomic blasts there since the Nevada site was first used in January, 1951.

The AEC announcement said the Department of Defense, the Civil Defense Administration and other federal agencies will take part in the Las Vegas lests.

And, the agency said, it expects "many secondary results" from the testing program. It said these will help in research and in assessing the atomic program for its value to other government and public programs.

The building of test structure at Las Vegas was begun last fall, the AEC said. The construction included new facilities for "instrumentation work in the technical areas and additions to the permanent establishment at the proving ground."

The testing site is at Yucca Flats in the Nevada desert, not far from the California state line. The city of Las Vegas is 65 miles from Yucca Flats.

Floods Sweep Ceylon

35 Applications Made

The city clerk's office reported a total of 35 completed application forms for the civil service examination for appointment of patrolmen, have been received. The examination is to be held Feb. 14 for the appointment of about 15 new patrolmen prior to the start of a 40-hour work week for the department. Jan. 23 was the deadline for filing applications.

Polio Show Is Slated Tonight at 8 in KHS

The variety show, replacing the regular March of Dimes ball, is scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight in Kingston High School auditorium, featuring talented performers interested in raising money to fight infantile paralysis.

The doors will open at 7 p. m. and tickets will be available for those who need them. Two children will be admitted at the price of one adult.

Old Foundation Is Uncovered by Work At Senate House

Custodian Millard Finds Beam, Stonework in Area Believed Unexcavated

Workmen installing a new heating system at the Old Senate House have uncovered old foundation walls which may shed some light on how the nation's oldest public building may have appeared originally.

The walls are within the dimensions of the present kitchen line, indicating that the original kitchen probably was smaller than the present one.

The walls, of stone and about three feet thick, were laid up in mortar with a very fine hair in it—a type considered to be very old, according to Myron S. Teller, local architect, who made a preliminary inspection when the walls were uncovered.

Although the space enclosed by the walls is partly filled by stones and dirt, it is possible that the area once was an excavated basement and had been used to dump excess material at one time or another when the building underwent remodeling.

Previously Thought Unexcavated

It had previously been thought that the area under the kitchen was unexcavated.

Inspecting the area under the kitchen floor, Miss Katherine D. Millard, assistant custodian, found a large hand hewn beam across the area under the Dutch oven in the kitchen. Several iron studs imbedded in the wood were identified by Teller as parts of old hinges.

It is his opinion that the beam once had been the jam of an old Dutch door and had been used as a beam during remodeling.

Whether the present kitchen was an accurate restoration of one that was built above the old, smaller foundation after the burning of the building, or whether it was made larger at a more recent date is uncertain.

Underwent Many Changes

It is known that the Senate

Eisenhower Has Parley With Chiefs

President Will Convene With Both Houses for Delivery of His Talk on Matters

Will Give Program

Points Will Be Covered in General Terms on Several Issues

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower will deliver his State of the Union Message before a joint session of Congress at 12:30 p. m. (EST) next Monday.

House Speaker Joseph Martin announced the date after a conference of the President and his congressional leaders.

They were in session one hour and 55 minutes.

"We had a very interesting conference with the President," Martin said. "We went over all the matters he will treat in his State of the Union Message."

Taft Refuses Statement

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) observed "we can't say exactly what they were, because that's what he's going to talk about when he goes before Congress."

Sen. Millikin (R-Colo) left the conference some time before the other leaders came out. He said "I can't say" when asked the prospective delivery date for the State of the Union Message.

To other questions, Millikin replied: "I think some one representing the President will do the talking."

Under the Eisenhower early-to-work regime, the White House session got under way promptly at 8:30 a. m.

Nixon, Adams Attend

Sitting in with the congressional leaders, Eisenhower and Vice-President Nixon were Sherman Adams, top assistant to the President, and Maj. Gen. Wilton Persons, in charge of liaison with Congress in the new administration.

First to arrive at the White House was Sen. Saltonstall (Mass), assistant Republican leader. He was accompanied by Persons. They showed up at 8:10 a. m.

Then came Sens. Taft of Ohio, majority leader; Knowland of California, Chairman of the GOP policy committee; Bridges of New Hampshire, temporary Senate president, Millikin, chairman of the Senate Republican conference, and Reps. Martin of Massachusetts, speaker of the House; Halleck of Indiana, floor leader, and Arends of Illinois, assistant floor leader.

Martin was the last to turn up. He arrived one minute before the scheduled start of the meeting.

To Discuss Contents

In advance of the session, White House spokesmen said that not only would a date be set for the State of the Union message but that the lawmakers would talk over its contents with Eisenhower.

The message will outline the new President's legislative program in general terms, covering both domestic and foreign issues.

Garageman Held On Larceny Count

Accusation Is Man Took Big Truck, Ran It Into Ditch

Patrick Coyle, 23, Highland garageman, today faces grand jury action on a first degree grand larceny charge as a result of an accusation that he took a tractor trailer without authorization and ran it into a ditch.

State police of Highland said the tractor trailer, loaded with 17 tons of sugar, had been left outside a Highland garage to await a lubrication job. It was owned by Nicholas Potenza of Highland.

Ran Into Ditch

Coyle, according to the troopers' report, "decided to try out the tractor trailer" early Sunday morning, and accidentally ran it into a ditch along the Perkinsville road about one and one-half miles from the garage. Unable to get it out, Coyle borrowed another truck from another garage in an attempt to pull the large vehicle from the ditch, but was unsuccessful, troopers said.

Troopers arrested Coyle about 3 a. m. Sunday for the alleged unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Francis E. Palen of Port Ewen on a charge of first degree grand larceny, Coyle waived examination and was ordered held for the grand jury.

Durkee Is Suicide

Buffalo, Jan. 26 (AP)—The body of Merritt P. Durkee, a former assistant manager of the baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, was found hanging in the basement of his home here Saturday night. He was 51. A medical examiner issued a certificate of suicide. Durkee was with the Hall of Fame for about two years before he came here in 1951 to become an instructor at Nichols School.

Nine Are Sentenced

Skoplje, Yugoslavia, Jan. 26 (AP)—A circuit court here handed out prison sentences ranging from one to 15 years today to nine persons accused of plotting the overthrow of the Yugoslav Communist government by force with the intention of restoring the monarchy.

Taft to Introduce T-H Amendments

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said he is planning to introduce legislation today to amend the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Taft, the Senate majority leader, said as he emerged from the weekly legislative conference at the White House that he was submitting "three or four amending bills" when the Senate convened at noon.

Taft indicated his decision to introduce the bills did not stem from any development at the conference with Eisenhower.

He said his amendments "do not cover the whole field" of possible amendment of the law. He said he might propose other changes later. He mentioned that in the session of GOP leaders with President Eisenhower, the chief executive had brought up the subject of the T-H law in discussion of his upcoming State of the Union message. Taft said he made "some suggestions" to the President.

During the campaign, Eisenhower said he was against repeal of the controversial Taft-Hartley measure, but that he favored amending it.

Taft also has said repeatedly that he favors amending the law so long as none of the provisions he regards as essential be changed.

Half Million Dollar Figure to Be Paid by New York Firm, Source Says

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Kansas City, Jan. 26 (AP)—Ex-President Harry S. Truman, it may now be disclosed, has been assured of contracts providing him enough money for his future needs and to permit him complete freedom to say and write what he pleases.

This reporter was told by one of the former President's closest friends that Truman will write his memoirs for a New York publishing firm at a figure expected to run above a half million dollars over a period of several years.

In addition, Truman will make periodical, carefully selected lecture tours along lines of his own choosing.

The source for this word of Truman's plans would not be quoted by name.

Details of the agreement are being handled for the former President by Matthew J. Connelly, his No. 1 secretary at the White House until the inauguration of Dwight D. Eisenhower last Tuesday.

The source would not say what publishing firm is making the contract for the memoirs of the Missourian who served nearly eight years in the White House during the critical period of the cold war and the aftermath of the atomic bomb development.

Connelly, who flew here Wednesday to help Truman set up private offices in the Federal Reserve Bank building, is returning east some time this week.

Connelly to Continue

Connelly will have his own offices in New York, serving as a consultant on government and business contracts, but he will continue to represent Truman as his secretary.

The former President himself has refused to discuss his future since he has stayed out of the negotiations, but he did set a pattern for the contract. He believes anything he undertakes must be in such strict conformity with the dignity of the high office he held that no one can raise any question about the propriety of what he does.

Truman has turned down more than one $100,000 a year offer to serve as sales manager for manufacturing and other companies. He believes they might try to capitalize on the commercial value of a headline name in a way he considers beneath the dignity of a man who has served as President.

Lectures Also Planned

The agreement under which he will write his memoirs and deliver lectures will provide sufficient income to maintain his private office in Kansas City and his home in nearby Independence, Mo., as well to travel, speak and do other miscellaneous writing.

He will be able to speak freely on politics. And no one who knows him thinks for a minute he will maintain for long his sideline role when the political pots boil.

The source of Truman's future plans said the overriding problem now is to get Truman away for a real vacation and rest before he undertakes his memoir and lecture assignments. The plans now being set up do not contemplate his doing anything for the next six months other than reply to his

Catlin Exhibit Remains

The exhibition of the George Catlin portraits of Indian warriors, now at the Senate House Museum, will be extended to Monday, March 2, by permission of Dr. Remington Kellogg, director of U. S. National Museums, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., it was announced today by the Senate House Association.

Mystery Fire Ravages Ship; Sabotage Might Be Reason

Liverpool, England, Jan. 26 (AP)—A mystery fire raged through the docked liner Empress of Canada and left the 20,235-ton vessel lying on her side today, a gutted and smoldering ruin.

A spokesman for the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., her owner, described the $5,600,000-dollar ship as a "total loss."

Only a dozen workmen were aboard the Empress, which was undergoing an annual overhaul, when the fire broke out amidships yesterday afternoon. All scrambled to safety.

Police Supt. Herbert Balmer made a preliminary investigation of the fast-spreading blaze and asked the British home office for the assistance of scientists. "The possibility of sabotage," he told reporters, "cannot be ruled out."

More than 200 firemen with 40 pieces of apparatus fought the blaze, but it quickly got out of hand and enveloped the ship's entire superstructure.

Flames shot high into the air as portholes melted and deck plates collapsed. Finally the ship began listing sharply from the hundreds of tons of water poured into her and the firemen were called ashore to let the blaze burn itself out.

At 1:38 this morning (8:38 p. m., E.S.T., Sunday), nine and one-half hours after the fire broke out, the Empress of Canada rolled over on her port side.

On the dock watching was Capt. E. A. Shergold, former commander of the vessel who now has a shore job here with Canadian Pacific.

"This is my saddest moment," he remarked; "we were such old friends."

A. G. Greenslade, the chief fire officer, said:

"The cause of the fire is unknown. We believe it started in or near the dispensary, but when we arrived, the smoke was so dense, we could not reach the seat of the outbreak."

The ship could carry 700 passengers and had a crew of 350. Company officials said she had been fully booked for the season to carry coronation visitors between America and England.

Europeans Demand Action Against Mau Mau Terrorists

Nairobi, Kenya, Jan. 28 (AP)—Angry Europeans thronged around Government House today demanding to know what colonial authorities planned to do about the new wave of Mau Mau terrorism that Saturday took the lives of three members of a British family and their native servant.

Sir Evelyn Baring, governor of this British African colony, refused to see the 1,500 white demonstrators, but a spokesman assured them he planned to tighten security measures and keep them informed of executive decisions.

A police patrol last night arrested a band of 30 Negroes suspected of hacking Roger E. G. Ruck, 37, and his wife, Esme, 32, to death with sharp hoes as they strolled after dark in the garden of their remote North Kinangop farm. Their son, Michael, was knifed in his bed.

Troops and police with dogs quickly scoured nearby Abderdare forest for members of the Mau Mau, a terrorist society sworn to drive whites from this British colony.

Yesterday a police reconnaissance plane directed the patrols to 30 Africans in a wooded gorge five miles northeast of the Ruck farm, and the group was rounded up. After another band nearby scattered, a cordon was thrown around the section.

Ruck, a police reserve officer, had been on active duty since an emergency was declared in Kenya last year in an effort to stamp out Mau Mau terrorism. Mrs. Ruck, a doctor, operated a medical dispensary.

A Negro child ran with news of the slayings to district police headquarters, eight miles from the farm.

19 Persons Perish In Plane Mishap

Italian Airliner Crashes Into Mountains on Final Run

Rome, Jan. 26 (AP)—A two-engined Italian airliner making its last flight from Sardinia to Rome crashed in flames today in the mountains east of Cagliari killing all aboard—15 passengers and four crew members.

The DC-3 passenger plane crashed into the Sinnai mountains 10 miles east of Cagliari's Elmos airport 10 minutes after taking off on its morning flight to Rome.

Carabinieri rushed rescue parties to the scene but it took hours to reach the burned wreckage in the isolated mountain district. First reports back to Cagliari said no survivors were found.

The airline company, LAI, said the plane was making its final run. The company planned to terminate its daily Cagliari-Rome flights tomorrow.

Names of the 15 passengers were not immediately disclosed. The plane carried three crew members and a hostess.

14 Hercules Aides Walk Off Jobs; Act 'Unauthorized'

Fourteen employes of the Hercules Powder Company in Port Ewen walked off their jobs this morning, the company revealed.

The company made it clear that the walkout was not authorized by the union (District 50 of the United Mine Workers of America) and that it involved only 14 of the plant's nearly 1,000 employes.

A representative at the union's Albany headquarters said this morning he had not been informed of the incident. He added that there had been some previous reports of complaints in one department of a "more or less grievance nature."

Another UMW representative was reported to be talking with the men this morning, and a meeting with management was scheduled for this afternoon in an attempt to iron out the difficulty.

Lawmakers Face Busy Schedule

Billion Dollar Budget, Other Vital Issues Discussed by Dewey and Aides

No Tax Hike Seen

State Plans to Balance Money Program With No Additional Fees

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 26 (AP)—Gov. Dewey conferred privately today with his top aides and legislative chiefs on the billion dollar plus budget he will send to the Senate and Assembly later this week.

The governor and the lawmakers also drafted Republican strategy on other legislative issues, including Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's $218,700,000 tax program for hard-pressed New York city.

Meanwhile Senators and Assemblymen streamed back to Capitol Hill for one of their busiest weeks in the current session, after a recess for President Eisenhower's inauguration.

In major developments over the weekend:

1. Creation of a permanent, three-member state agency to keep an eye on crime, political corruption and local law enforcement was recommended by the State Crime Commission. The proposal stemmed from the agency's probes in St. Lawrence, Columbia and Richmond counties.

Budget in Two Parts

2. Dewey's budget writers made final changes in the proposed spending program for 1953-54. This year for the first time, Dewey will announce the fiscal plan in two parts, one to cover the state tax revenues returned to localities as financial assistance and the other to detail the state's operating expenses for the year beginning April 1. The first part will be revealed Tuesday, and the second Thursday.

3. Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore worked on the Dewey administration's answer to Mayor Impellitteri's request for new fiscal powers for New York city. Moore, who has handled city-state negotiations for Dewey hopes to release his analysis of the mayor's plan late this week.

4. The Democratic legislative chiefs, Sen. Francis J. Mahoney and Assemblyman Eugene F. Bannigan, announced the minority would propose that the Legislature urge Congress to rewrite the McCarran - Walter Immigration Act. They said the "obnoxious national origin quota feature" of the bill should be eliminated.

5. Sen. Thomas C. Desmond, Newburgh Republican, proposed that heads of all state departments be required to make annual, oral reports on their units' activities before a joint session of the Senate and Assembly.

Dewey's new budget is slated to climb several million dollars higher than the current years' appropriations of $1,109,000,000. But Dewey proposes to balance the program without new or higher taxes.

Dewey is releasing the budget in two sections this year to emphasize that about 55 per cent of the state's tax revenue is returned to localities in state aid for

Permanent Agency Against Crime Is To Be Requested

Would Have Authority to Require Reports of Officials on Prosecutions

Albany, Jan. 26 (AP)—The state crime commission tonight will urge the Legislature to set up a permanent crime-busting agency to help break "a stranglehold" it says the organized underworld has clamped on law enforcement in some areas.

The commission, which has spent more than $600,000 since March, 1951, on a state-wide search for crime and political corruption, said the proposed three-member agency should have authority to require district attorneys and other state and local officials to report on their crime-fighting activities.

Initial Report Handed Up

The recommendations were contained in the commission's initial report to Gov. Dewey and the Legislature. It was released by Dewey last night, without comment. He said the Legislature would receive it tonight.

The group contended that various crime probes in past years had only driven mobsters, gamblers and other offenders under cover.

"The aftermath of such limited action too frequently has been a recurrence of basically evil conditions," it asserted.

"It is the strong view of this commission that the creation of such a permanent Commission of Investigation would be a long step forward in destroying the stranglehold which organized crime has had in various areas upon the administration of the criminal laws," the report asserted.

The commission said that "despite understandable zeal to destroy a grave and insidious evil, there should not be, if it can be avoided, a sacrifice of the principle of local self-government."

The governor termed the idea of a watchdog agency a "brand new concept" in handling the state local relationships of law enforcement. But he said he would make no personal recommendations until the commission had submitted reports on other phases of its work. Those reports will cover the agency's inquiry into conditions on the New York waterfront, the need for any new laws to combat crime and allied recommendations.

The first report, based on the commission's investigations in St. Lawrence, Columbia and Richmond counties, reviewed the highlights of testimony at those inquiries. This material, which indicated the existence of organized gambling, vice and corruption, was made public previously in commission hearings in Ogdensburg and Hudson, and on Staten Island.

Mystery Fire Ravages Ship; Sabotage Might Be Reason

Liverpool, England, Jan. 26 (AP)—A mystery fire raged through the docked liner Empress of Canada and left the 20,235-ton vessel lying on her side today, a gutted and smoldering ruin.

A spokesman for the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., her owner, described the $5,600,000-dollar ship as a "total loss."

Only a dozen workmen were aboard the Empress, which was undergoing an annual overhaul, when the fire broke out amidships yesterday afternoon. All scrambled to safety.

Police Supt. Herbert Balmer made a preliminary investigation of the fast-spreading blaze and asked the British home office for the assistance of scientists. "The possibility of sabotage," he told reporters, "cannot be ruled out."

More than 200 firemen with 40 pieces of apparatus fought the blaze, but it quickly got out of hand and enveloped the ship's entire superstructure.

Flames shot high into the air as portholes melted and deck plates collapsed. Finally the ship began listing sharply from the hundreds of tons of water poured into her and the firemen were called ashore to let the blaze burn itself out.

At 1:38 this morning (8:38 p. m., E.S.T., Sunday), nine and one-half hours after the fire broke out, the Empress of Canada rolled over on her port side.

On the dock watching was Capt. E. A. Shergold, former commander of the vessel who now has a shore job here with Canadian Pacific.

"This is my saddest moment," he remarked; "we were such old friends."

A. G. Greenslade, the chief fire officer, said:

"The cause of the fire is unknown. We believe it started in or near the dispensary, but when we arrived, the smoke was so dense, we could not reach the seat of the outbreak."

The ship could carry 700 passengers and had a crew of 350. Company officials said she had been fully booked for the season to carry coronation visitors between America and England.

Fighter-Bombers Smash at Communists After Ground Units Are Repulsed

Seoul, Jan. 26 (AP)—Allied fighter-bombers ripped into Communist battlefront positions today after UN troops took a licking on the western Korean front in an elaborately-planned "program" raid.

Sabre jets swept north and tangled with Communist MIG-15s near the Yalu river. The U. S. Fifth Air Force said three Red warplanes were damaged.

The 4½ hours raid was the heaviest ground action of the new year. Allied infantry, tanks, flamethrowers, artillery and planes were thrown into the unsuccessful assault on Spud Hill.

High brass and correspondents—provided in advance with a pamphlet describing each phase of the attack—watched from nearby bunkers. Called "Operation Smack," it had been planned since Jan. 19.

But the Chinese Reds were ready. They caught the charging UN infantrymen in a deadly crossfire.

Then the allied troops tried to burn out the Reds with flamethrowers. However, in many instances, the flamethrowers ran out of fuel. AP Correspondent Forrest Edwards reported from the scene—at the southern end of T-Bone Hill—that a hail of artillery shells and napalm (jellied gasoline) also failed to dislodge the Communists.

Needed Flamethrowers

One of the allied wounded told Edwards:

"If we could only have had more flamethrowers we could have burned right through them. We were doing a good job but suddenly there weren't any more flamethrowers."

Another wounded man told AP Photographer Fred Waters that the flamethrowers ran out of fuel and added grimly:

"And so did the guy who was shooting it."

Planes Blanket Front

After the raid, Fifth Air Force and navy carrier planes swarmed over the entire front. The navy reported that planes from the carriers Kearsarge and Oriskany knocked out 300 yards of Communist trenches, nine bunkers, two gun positions and destroyed 36 trucks and 44 buildings.

Fourteen Okinawa-based B29s last night blasted a 30-acre military staff installation at Yangdok and the lateral rail line to Pyongyang.

The U. S. cruisers Los Angeles and Rochester pounded the northeast port of Songjin and Communist supply lines.

In continuing air battles, U. S. Sabre jets destroyed one MIG-15 and damaged another Sunday. The air force said that brought the January total to 39 Red jets destroyed, six probably destroyed and 39 damaged.

AEC Has New Spring Tests On Program

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced today it will test "new and improved nuclear devices" at the Las Vegas, Nev., proving grounds beginning in March.

The announcement did not go into detail about the nature of the new series of tests. It said only:

"The new series of tests is designed to advance development of new and improved nuclear devices and will provide additional weapons performance data essential to military and civil defense effects studies."

Troops to Participate

The AEC said troop maneuvers and training exercises will be part of the testing program. It estimated 18,000 members of the army, navy, air force and marines will take part.

It has been widely expected that the program will include the first field tests of atomic artillery shells for use in the army's new super cannon developed at the Aberdeen (Md.) proving grounds.

This cannon, capable of shooting atomic or conventional missiles 20 miles with pin-point accuracy, was announced late last year and was shown to the public in the Eisenhower inaugural parade last week.

During atomic tests at the Las Vegas proving ground last spring, eight atomic explosions were reported. They brought to 20 the total atomic blasts there since the Nevada site was first used in January, 1951.

The AEC announcement said the Department of Defense, the Civil Defense Administration and other federal agencies will take part in the Las Vegas tests.

And, the agency said, it expects "many secondary results" from the testing program. It said these will help in research and in assessing the atomic program for its value to other government and public programs.

The building of test structure at Las Vegas was begun last fall, the AEC said. The construction included new facilities for "instrumentation work in the technical areas and additions to the permanent establishment at the proving ground."

The testing site is at Yucca Flats in the Nevada desert, not far from the California state line. The city of Las Vegas is 65 miles from Yucca Flats.

Floods Sweep Ceylon

Europeans Demand Action Against Mau Mau Terrorists

Nairobi, Kenya, Jan. 28 (AP)—Angry Europeans thronged around Government House today demanding to know what colonial authorities planned to do about the new wave of Mau Mau terrorism that Saturday took the lives of three members of a British family and their native servant.

Sir Evelyn Baring, governor of this British African colony, refused to see the 1,500 white demonstrators, but a spokesman assured them he planned to tighten security measures and keep them informed of executive decisions.

A police patrol last night arrested a band of 30 Negroes suspected of hacking Roger E. G. Ruck, 37, and his wife, Esme, 32, to death with sharp hoes as they strolled after dark in the garden of their remote North Kinangop farm. Their son, Michael, was knifed in his bed.

Troops and police with dogs quickly scoured nearby Abderdare forest for members of the Mau Mau, a terrorist society sworn to drive whites from this British colony.

Yesterday a police reconnaissance plane directed the patrols to 30 Africans in a wooded gorge five miles northeast of the Ruck farm, and the group was rounded up. After another band nearby scattered, a cordon was thrown around the section.

Ruck, a police reserve officer, had been on active duty since an emergency was declared in Kenya last year in an effort to stamp out Mau Mau terrorism. Mrs. Ruck, a doctor, operated a medical dispensary.

35 Applications Made

The city clerk's office reported a total of 35 completed application forms for the civil service examination for appointment of patrolmen, have been received. The examination is to be held Feb. 14 for the appointment of about 15 new patrolmen prior to the start of a 40-hour work week for the department. Jan. 23 was the deadline for filing applications.

Polio Show Is Slated Tonight at 8 in KHS

The variety show, replacing the regular March of Dimes ball, is scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight in Kingston High School auditorium, featuring talented performers interested in raising money to fight infantile paralysis.

The doors will open at 7 p. m. and tickets will be available for those who need them. Two children will be admitted at the price of one adult.

Old Foundation Is Uncovered by Work At Senate House

Custodian Millard Finds Beam, Stonework in Area Believed Unexcavated

Workmen installing a new heating system at the Old Senate House have uncovered old foundation walls which may shed some light on how the nation's oldest public building may have appeared originally.

The walls are within the dimensions of the present kitchen line, indicating that the original kitchen probably was smaller than the present one.

The walls, of stone and about three feet thick, were laid up in mortar with a very fine hair in it—a type considered to be very old, according to Myron S. Teller, local architect, who made a preliminary inspection when the walls were uncovered.

Although the space enclosed by the walls is partly filled by stones and dirt, it is possible that the area once was an excavated basement and had been used to dump excess material at one time or another when the building underwent remodeling.

Previously Thought Unexcavated

It had previously been thought that the area under the kitchen was unexcavated.

Inspecting the area under the kitchen floor, Miss Katherine D. Millard, assistant custodian, found a large hand hewn beam across the area under the Dutch oven in the kitchen. Several iron studs imbedded in the wood were identified by Teller as parts of old hinges.

It is his opinion that the beam once had been the jam of an old Dutch door and had been used as a beam during remodeling.

Whether the present kitchen was an accurate restoration of one that was built above the old, smaller foundation after the burning of the building, or whether it was made larger at a more recent date is uncertain.

Underwent Many Changes

It is known that the Senate

19 Persons Perish In Plane Mishap

Italian Airliner Crashes Into Mountains on Final Run

Rome, Jan. 26 (AP)—A two-engined Italian airliner making its last flight from Sardinia to Rome crashed in flames today in the mountains east of Cagliari killing all aboard—15 passengers and four crew members.

The DC-3 passenger plane crashed into the Sinnai mountains 10 miles east of Cagliari's Elmos airport 10 minutes after taking off on its morning flight to Rome.

Carabinieri rushed rescue parties to the scene but it took hours to reach the burned wreckage in the isolated mountain district. First reports back to Cagliari said no survivors were found.

The airline company, LAI, said the plane was making its final run. The company planned to terminate its daily Cagliari-Rome flights tomorrow.

Names of the 15 passengers were not immediately disclosed. The plane carried three crew members and a hostess.

Eisenhower Has Parley With Chiefs

President Will Convene With Both Houses for Delivery of His Talk on Matters

Will Give Program

Points Will Be Covered in General Terms on Several Issues

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower will deliver his State of the Union Message before a joint session of Congress at 12:30 p. m. (EST) next Monday.

House Speaker Joseph Martin announced the date after a conference of the President and his congressional leaders.

They were in session one hour and 55 minutes.

"We had a very interesting conference with the President," Martin said. "We went over all the matters he will treat in his State of the Union Message."

Taft Refuses Statement

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) observed "we can't say exactly what they were, because that's what he's going to talk about when he goes before Congress."

Sen. Millikin (R-Colo) left the conference some time before the other leaders came out. He said "I can't say" when asked the prospective delivery date for the State of the Union Message.

To other questions, Millikin replied: "I think some one representing the President will do the talking."

Under the Eisenhower early-to-work regime, the White House session got under way promptly at 8:30 a. m.

Nixon, Adams Attend

Sitting in with the congressional leaders, Eisenhower and Vice-President Nixon were Sherman Adams, top assistant to the President, and Maj. Gen. Wilton Persons, in charge of liaison with Congress in the new administration.

First to arrive at the White House was Sen. Saltonstall (Mass), assistant Republican leader. He was accompanied by Persons. They showed up at 8:10 a. m.

Then came Sens. Taft of Ohio, majority leader; Knowland of California, Chairman of the GOP policy committee; Bridges of New Hampshire, temporary Senate president, Millikin, chairman of the Senate Republican conference, and Reps. Martin of Massachusetts, speaker of the House; Halleck of Indiana, floor leader, and Arends of Illinois, assistant floor leader.

Martin was the last to turn up. He arrived one minute before the scheduled start of the meeting.

To Discuss Contents

In advance of the session, White House spokesmen said that not only would a date be set for the State of the Union message but that the lawmakers would talk over its contents with Eisenhower.

The message will outline the new President's legislative program in general terms, covering both domestic and foreign issues.

14 Hercules Aides Walk Off Jobs; Act 'Unauthorized'

Fourteen employes of the Hercules Powder Company in Port Ewen walked off their jobs this morning, the company revealed.

The company made it clear that the walkout was not authorized by the union (District 50 of the United Mine Workers of America) and that it involved only 14 of the plant's nearly 1,000 employes.

A representative at the union's Albany headquarters said this morning he had not been informed of the incident. He added that there had been some previous reports of complaints in one department of a "more or less grievance nature."

Another UMW representative was reported to be talking with the men this morning, and a meeting with management was scheduled for this afternoon in an attempt to iron out the difficulty.

Officials of The Freeman Publishing Company attended the Mass in a body.

John T. Egan

John T. Egan, 92, of 439 Abeel street, a pioneer barge operator in the early days of the Barge Canal, died here Sunday. Born in Kingston in 1860, son of the late John and Catherine Lawler Egan, he would have been 93 on Feb. 4. Mr. Egan operated a fleet of Barge Canal and river boats for many years prior to his retirement in 1916. In 1921 he disposed of his interests in boat transportation. At one time his barges plied Lake Champlain and made frequent trips to Canada. In another period he operated coal barges on the D&H Canal transporting coal from Honesdale, Pa. to Kingston. Mr. Egan received his early education at the Brothers School, then part of St. Mary's Church, and the public schools at Wilbur. Active in politics, he served two terms as Democratic supervisor of the 13th Ward. He was a charter and life member of St. Luke's Council No. 43, Knights of Columbus, of New York city, and a member of the Holy Name Society of the Church of the Holy Name in Wilbur. Rainfall Heavy, But Missed Flood Stage Proportions

The Esopus Creek and area mountain streams were swelled Saturday morning by the heavy rainfall and melting snow which stopped just below the flood stage point.

The gauge reading along the Esopus at Cold Brook rose rapidly from 6.39 feet at 8:40 a. m. Saturday to 9.23 feet at noon and reached a peak of 10.89 at 3 p. m.

The flood stage is about 11 feet.

The Ashokan Reservoir did not spill over at any time, a report said. It was about seven billion gallons short of its capacity at the time the storm began.

The total rainfall for the storm at Brown Station was reported as 1.56 inches while a total rainfall at Schoharie was recorded at 1.06 inches, it was reported today by the New York City Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

Tells of Gang Terror

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—A fruit and vegetable shipper testified today his firm once was terrorized by a waterfront union leader who exacted thousands of dollars in tribute. John Angelo Costa, of Jersey City, N. J., told the New York State Crime Commission that the shakedowns were collected by henchmen for John (Cockeye) Dunn, a union boss later executed for murder. The witness, first on the stand today as the commission resumed hearings into dock rackets, said he submitted to the shakedown out of fear of Dunn. "No question about that," he said.

President Cancels Calls

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower has "the sniffles" and has canceled his remaining engagements for today, the White House announced. He left his office and retired to his room, where he planned to spend the rest of the day working on his State of the Union message. Assistant Press Secretary Murray Snyder said Eisenhower did not have a fever and that his action was "purely precautionary."

Lodge Asks Check

United Nations, N. Y., Jan. 26 (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, new U. S. chief delegate to the United Nations, wrote J. Edgar Hoover today asking for an FBI investigation of all his subordinates and of all American employes in the UN. This goes far beyond the executive order issued by former President Truman in the last days of his administration. Truman's order called only for an FBI investigation of high-ranking American employes at the UN and for a routine civil service check of the others—about 2,000 in all.

Red Vets Recalled

Hong Kong (AP) — Communist soldiers who were demobilized two years ago in South China's Kwangtung province and who are still under 35 are being called back to active service, according to reports from Canton. The newspaper Kung Sheung Jih Pao said in a Canton dispatch that about 2,500 recalled soldiers have been sent there for training.

More Machinery

Hong Kong (AP) — Russia sent substantial quantities of machinery and equipment to Manchuria during 1952 in an effort to help Chinese Communists to industrialize the area, the Red Chinese news agency reports from Mukden. In the past most of Russia's aid to the Chinese Red industrialization program was in the form of technical advice.

Planes Scare Chickens

Itami, Japan (AP) — Citizens of this southern Japan city are going to bat for their chickens with petitions to the government against U.S. military planes. A big air base is situated near here. Itami citizens protest that the noise of planes landing and taking off frightens the fowl and prevents them from laying.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—A quietly declining trend developed today in the stock market after a steady start.

The decline seldom got out of a minor fractional range, and at the most it extended between 1 and 2 points.

Volume hit a rate of around a million and a half shares for the entire day. That's not too heavy but it is considerably above the 1,340,000 shares traded Friday.

Railroads did rather well in early dealings when the market maintained a steady keel. Later in the day, however, the railroads turned ragged with small gains and losses.

Actually, there was little pronounced movement in any major division. The building materials were definitely lower without activity. Chemicals were a bit more active on the downside without pressure.

The American Stock Exchange showed advancing tendencies. Trading was boosted heavily by unusually fast trading in Burma Mines, mostly unchanged at 5/16. Higher stock included American Republics, Eastern Gas & Fuel, Flying Tiger Line, Glen Alden Coal, National Petroleum, Servomechanisms, and Standard Power & Light. Lower were Consolidated Mining & Smelting and Dumont Lab "A."

Corporate bonds moved narrowly. U. S. Governments in the over the counter market held steady.

Treasurer Married

Andrew J. Gray and his bride, the former Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, the outgoing treasurer of the United States, pose in Washington as they start a trip to southern Maryland. They were married the night before in Alexandria, Va. Gray, 40, is a Washington public relations man. His bride, who will be 53 Jan. 27, is turning over her job to Mrs. Ivy B. Priest, prominent Utah Republican, this week. (AP Wirephoto).

Brakes Tampered, Engineer Claims

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP) — The engineer on a train which later was to crash into Union Station here testified today he is sure someone tampered with the brakes of the Federal Express while it was in New England.

The engineer was William Matta, first witness in an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing into the cause of a wreck here Jan. 15. The train, out of control and its whistle sounding a warning, plunged off the dead end rails and onto the concourse of Union Station. No one was killed, but more than 40 were injured.

Matta was engineer on the first leg of the run from Boston to Washington.

He took it from Boston to New Haven.

It was at a place called Kingston swamp, in Rhode Island, that the train developed brake trouble.

There was such a delay that Matta went back and investigated. As he told the Senate Commerce Committee at a similar investigation last week, he found an angle cock closed on the brake line.

Reward Is Offered

Hong Kong, Jan. 26 (AP)—Chinese Reds have offered a reward of about $80 for the capture of any survivor of the double plane crash in the Formosa Strait Jan. 18, independent Chinese newspapers here reported today. The local press quoted a story from a Communist newspaper in Swatow, near the scene of the tragedy.

House, like most other houses of its period, underwent many changes and additions during its history.

Built in the seventeenth century by Wessel Ten Broeck, colonel of the Ulster County Militia, the building was occupied by Abram Van Gaasbeek in 1777 when he offered it as a meeting place for the first duly elected Senate of the State of New York on the morning of Sept. 10.

The building was burned in the same year by the British, and was rebuilt later. In 1887 it was purchased by the state from the Ten Broeck-Van Gaasbeek descendants, and in 1948-49 its first floor was restored to conform to the rebuilding after the fire of 1777.

Car Mishap Causes Damage to House Of One Operator

An automobile driven by Henry A. Wiese, 68, struck Wiese' own home in Wawarsing as the result of a minor accident Saturday afternoon, state police reported.

Wiese, who lives about one-quarter mile south of the state police station at Wawarsing, was driving from a gasoline station directly across Route 209 to his own driveway when the left rear bumper of his vehicle was in collision with the left front on an automobile driven by Maureen D. Davis, 23, of 66 Hurley avenue, according to the state police report. After the collision, Wiese' car continued 25 yards over his own lawn, damaging a shrub and breaking several asbestos shingles on the siding of his home, troopers said. No personal injuries were reported and no arrest was made.

Detectives Are Assigned

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—A special squad of 25 detective was reported to have been detailed to two stretches of Hudson river piers today to guard against any renewal of the waterfront gang warfare spotlighted by the State Crime Commission. The specially-picked detectives were supposed to take over their new assignments two hours before the commission resumes public hearings in its probe of crime and rackets on the docks.

General Motors Is To Give Cash as Wilson Settlement

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass.) announced to the Senate today that General Motors has agreed to make a cash settlement with Charles E. Wilson instead of giving him additional stock he is due to receive as a bonus for past services.

As chairman of the Senate armed services committee, Saltonstall asked for confirmation of Wilson, former president of GM, to be secretary of defense.

As the debate on Wilson began, Senate Republican leaders were confident of an approving vote for him to become head of the defense department.

Their chief concern was whether they could win approval for the men Wilson has tapped, with President Eisenhower's acquiescence, to be his chief subordinates.

Opposition which has cropped up to two of them was a subject of discussion at a forenoon conference of the President and his congressional leaders at the White House.

Ridgways Take Ride

Garmisch - Partenkirchen, Germany, Jan. 26 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, NATO commander and World War 2 paratroop hero, got a new thrill today—he and Mrs. Ridgway rode a bobsled down the dangerous Olympic course. "That was really something, a thrilling experience," he said. "I've never done anything so exciting in my life," said his pretty wife. They rode on the U. S. No. 2 sled, which will race in next weekend's four-man world championship. The sled was driven by Lloyd Johnson of Rapid City, S. D., with Capt. Hubert Miller of Saranac Lake, N. Y., as brakeman. The general and his wife rode between Johnson and Miller.

Called Repentant Man

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Former government economist William W. Remington was described in court today as a repentant man, who had been played for a sucker by Communists and calculating women. "This is a gullible boy and you've got to weigh the evidence in that light," Attorney John McKim Minton said as he summed up the defense case before a Federal Court jury of one woman and 11 men. They may begin deliberating their verdict late today in Remington's perjury trial, after summations by the state and a charge from the judge. Remington is accused of lying about associations with communism.

John T. Egan

John T. Egan, 92, of 439 Abeel street, a pioneer barge operator in the early days of the Barge Canal, died here Sunday. Born in Kingston in 1860, son of the late John and Catherine Lawler Egan, he would have been 93 on Feb. 4. Mr. Egan operated a fleet of Barge Canal and river boats for many years prior to his retirement in 1916. In 1921 he disposed of his interests in boat transportation. At one time his barges plied Lake Champlain and made frequent trips to Canada. In another period he operated coal barges on the D&H Canal transporting coal from Honesdale, Pa. to Kingston. Mr. Egan received his early education at the Brothers School, then part of St. Mary's Church, and the public schools at Wilbur. Active in politics, he served two terms as Democratic supervisor of the 13th Ward. He was a charter and life member of St. Luke's Council No. 43, Knights of Columbus, of New York city, and a member of the Holy Name Society of the Church of the Holy Name in Wilbur. The only survivor is a daughter, Miss Mary Egan at home. The funeral will be held from the Francis J. McCardle Funeral Home, 99 Henry street, on Wednesday at 9 a. m. thence to the Church of the Holy Name, Wilbur, where a solemn high Mass of Requiem will be offered at 9:30 o'clock. Relatives and friends are invited. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Sugar Plant Ready

Naha, Okinawa (AP)—The Army says the largest centrifugal sugar plant ever established in the Ryuku islands is ready to begin operations. The 750-ton plant was purchased with U.S. funds. The plant is two-thirds owned by Ryukyuana, the Army said, with Okinawa cane farmers holding 50 per cent of its outstanding stock.

Robert T. B. Stevens, left, and Harold Talbott, right, were reported to have been advised by Senators to give up the bulk of their individual holdings or face rejection as Army and Air Force secretaries respectively.

Rainfall Heavy, But Missed Flood Stage Proportions

The Esopus Creek and area mountain streams were swelled Saturday morning by the heavy rainfall and melting snow which stopped just below the flood stage point.

The gauge reading along the Esopus at Cold Brook rose rapidly from 6.39 feet at 8:40 a. m. Saturday to 9.23 feet at noon and reached a peak of 10.89 at 3 p. m.

The flood stage is about 11 feet.

The Ashokan Reservoir did not spill over at any time, a report said. It was about seven billion gallons short of its capacity at the time the storm began.

The total rainfall for the storm at Brown Station was reported as 1.56 inches while a total rainfall at Schoharie was recorded at 1.06 inches, it was reported today by the New York City Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

Tells of Gang Terror

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—A fruit and vegetable shipper testified today his firm once was terrorized by a waterfront union leader who exacted thousands of dollars in tribute. John Angelo Costa, of Jersey City, N. J., told the New York State Crime Commission that the shakedowns were collected by henchmen for John (Cockeye) Dunn, a union boss later executed for murder. The witness, first on the stand today as the commission resumed hearings into dock rackets, said he submitted to the shakedown out of fear of Dunn. "No question about that," he said.

President Cancels Calls

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower has "the sniffles" and has canceled his remaining engagements for today, the White House announced. He left his office and retired to his room, where he planned to spend the rest of the day working on his State of the Union message. Assistant Press Secretary Murray Snyder said Eisenhower did not have a fever and that his action was "purely precautionary."

Lodge Asks Check

United Nations, N. Y., Jan. 26 (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, new U. S. chief delegate to the United Nations, wrote J. Edgar Hoover today asking for an FBI investigation of all his subordinates and of all American employes in the UN. This goes far beyond the executive order issued by former President Truman in the last days of his administration. Truman's order called only for an FBI investigation of high-ranking American employes at the UN and for a routine civil service check of the others—about 2,000 in all.

Red Vets Recalled

Hong Kong (AP) — Communist soldiers who were demobilized two years ago in South China's Kwangtung province and who are still under 35 are being called back to active service, according to reports from Canton. The newspaper Kung Sheung Jih Pao said in a Canton dispatch that about 2,500 recalled soldiers have been sent there for training.

More Machinery

Hong Kong (AP) — Russia sent substantial quantities of machinery and equipment to Manchuria during 1952 in an effort to help Chinese Communists to industrialize the area, the Red Chinese news agency reports from Mukden. In the past most of Russia's aid to the Chinese Red industrialization program was in the form of technical advice.

Planes Scare Chickens

Itami, Japan (AP) — Citizens of this southern Japan city are going to bat for their chickens with petitions to the government against U.S. military planes. A big air base is situated near here. Itami citizens protest that the noise of planes landing and taking off frightens the fowl and prevents them from laying.

Treasurer Married

Andrew J. Gray and his bride, the former Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, the outgoing treasurer of the United States, pose in Washington as they start a trip to southern Maryland. They were married the night before in Alexandria, Va. Gray, 40, is a Washington public relations man. His bride, who will be 53 Jan. 27, is turning over her job to Mrs. Ivy B. Priest, prominent Utah Republican, this week. (AP Wirephoto).

Brakes Tampered, Engineer Claims

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP) — The engineer on a train which later was to crash into Union Station here testified today he is sure someone tampered with the brakes of the Federal Express while it was in New England.

The engineer was William Matta, first witness in an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing into the cause of a wreck here Jan. 15. The train, out of control and its whistle sounding a warning, plunged off the dead end rails and onto the concourse of Union Station. No one was killed, but more than 40 were injured.

Matta was engineer on the first leg of the run from Boston to Washington.

He took it from Boston to New Haven.

It was at a place called Kingston swamp, in Rhode Island, that the train developed brake trouble.

There was such a delay that Matta went back and investigated. As he told the Senate Commerce Committee at a similar investigation last week, he found an angle cock closed on the brake line.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—The position of the Treasury Jan. 22: Net budget receipts, $363,514,-003.31; budget expenditures, $310,-680,540.67; cash balance, $4,911,-344,773.96; customs receipts for month, $34,857,704.74; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $30,188,-127,807.07; budget expenditures fiscal year, $40,352,457,640.61; budget deficit, $10,164,329,833.54; total debt, $267,271,116,584.10; increase over previous day, $10,198,-936.86; gold assets, $23,087,112,-118.62.

Reward Is Offered

Hong Kong, Jan. 26 (AP)—Chinese Reds have offered a reward of about $80 for the capture of any survivor of the double plane crash in the Formosa Strait Jan. 18, independent Chinese newspapers here reported today. The local press quoted a story from a Communist newspaper in Swatow, near the scene of the tragedy.

House, like most other houses of its period, underwent many changes and additions during its history.

Built in the seventeenth century by Wessel Ten Broeck, colonel of the Ulster County Militia, the building was occupied by Abram Van Gaasbeek in 1777 when he offered it as a meeting place for the first duly elected Senate of the State of New York on the morning of Sept. 10.

The building was burned in the same year by the British, and was rebuilt later. In 1887 it was purchased by the state from the Ten Broeck-Van Gaasbeek descendants, and in 1948-49 its first floor was restored to conform to the rebuilding after the fire of 1777.

Car Mishap Causes Damage to House Of One Operator

An automobile driven by Henry A. Wiese, 68, struck Wiese' own home in Wawarsing as the result of a minor accident Saturday afternoon, state police reported.

Wiese, who lives about one-quarter mile south of the state police station at Wawarsing, was driving from a gasoline station directly across Route 209 to his own driveway when the left rear bumper of his vehicle was in collision with the left front on an automobile driven by Maureen D. Davis, 23, of 66 Hurley avenue, according to the state police report. After the collision, Wiese' car continued 25 yards over his own lawn, damaging a shrub and breaking several asbestos shingles on the siding of his home, troopers said. No personal injuries were reported and no arrest was made.

Detectives Are Assigned

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—A special squad of 25 detective was reported to have been detailed to two stretches of Hudson river piers today to guard against any renewal of the waterfront gang warfare spotlighted by the State Crime Commission. The specially-picked detectives were supposed to take over their new assignments two hours before the commission resumes public hearings in its probe of crime and rackets on the docks.

General Motors Is To Give Cash as Wilson Settlement

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass.) announced to the Senate today that General Motors has agreed to make a cash settlement with Charles E. Wilson instead of giving him additional stock he is due to receive as a bonus for past services.

As chairman of the Senate armed services committee, Saltonstall asked for confirmation of Wilson, former president of GM, to be secretary of defense.

As the debate on Wilson began, Senate Republican leaders were confident of an approving vote for him to become head of the defense department.

Their chief concern was whether they could win approval for the men Wilson has tapped, with President Eisenhower's acquiescence, to be his chief subordinates.

Opposition which has cropped up to two of them was a subject of discussion at a forenoon conference of the President and his congressional leaders at the White House.

Ridgways Take Ride

Garmisch - Partenkirchen, Germany, Jan. 26 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, NATO commander and World War 2 paratroop hero, got a new thrill today—he and Mrs. Ridgway rode a bobsled down the dangerous Olympic course. "That was really something, a thrilling experience," he said. "I've never done anything so exciting in my life," said his pretty wife. They rode on the U. S. No. 2 sled, which will race in next weekend's four-man world championship. The sled was driven by Lloyd Johnson of Rapid City, S. D., with Capt. Hubert Miller of Saranac Lake, N. Y., as brakeman. The general and his wife rode between Johnson and Miller.

Called Repentant Man

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Former government economist William W. Remington was described in court today as a repentant man, who had been played for a sucker by Communists and calculating women. "This is a gullible boy and you've got to weigh the evidence in that light," Attorney John McKim Minton said as he summed up the defense case before a Federal Court jury of one woman and 11 men. They may begin deliberating their verdict late today in Remington's perjury trial, after summations by the state and a charge from the judge. Remington is accused of lying about associations with communism.

TIME FOR CAUTION

By Harry C. France

Stock prices are at historic heights. That in itself should make many prospective equity purchasers cautious. Discounting good news about changes in fiscal policy in Washington may well be dangerous.

A "bull" on America said to me this past week (we were discussing a good stock, selling at $72 a share and paying $3 yearly in dividends): "Excess profits taxes will die in June and this corporation will save millions of dollars, thus making possible higher dividends."

"But," I countered, "these tax savings may be passed along to customers in lower prices which, in turn, would increase volume."

To me, corporate tax savings as a sound basis for high stock prices are somewhat illusory. Generally speaking, prices are high. The public is greatly concerned with prices. And it is more important to keep prices down than to increase dividends. The price level is confronted by 155,000,000 people, daily. About 8,500,000 stockholders are wrapped up in dvidends.

Last week, I said in this column that last Tuesday started for America the long trek down the plateau of inflation. Reduced Federal expenditures and tax reductions could be a part of this economic journey. But it would not necessarily be a favorable thing to stockholders. It is too early to know what will come out of Washington in the way of fiscal improvement.

Volatile common stocks that have wide price swings, that are selling in the upper ranges, should be carefully scrutinized by prospective buyers. A safe thing to do is to write down the high and low prices of any given stock for a 10 or 20 year period, ascertain the average high and low price and over against that figure the average yearly dividend. Thus, a good stock paying $3 a share in 1952 and selling for $72 a share that has paid average dividends of $2 a share during 1943-1952, is no bargain and should not be bought.

When risk-laden common stocks (of course, there are always brilliant exceptions) pay 3 per cent and 4 per cent on a decade-old basis, price has usually outrun risk.

I am convinced that money is going to get more expensive. Why is that so? Well, the Federal debt is going to be differently managed. When Uncle Sam's obligations move into the Federal Reserve Banking system, money is created. The tremendous growth of money supplies in America, has kept pace with the growth of the federal debt. And sometime during 1953-1956 we shall see two things happen that will make money more costly (interest rates will rise): (1) the Federal budget will be balanced, making unnecessary any more deficit financing and (2) billions of dollars of government securities now bank-held will move into the hands of individuals, societies and institutions.

America will still have cheap money but not as cheap as it was in 1944 when Uncle Sam paid 1.92% annual interest on his 200-billion dollar debt, nor as cheap as in 1945 when he was borrowing 275-billions at 1.91%.

With money more costly, bank shares will do well. Commercial banks pay nothing for the use of their demand deposits. A big commercial bank with such deposits of $500 million, $1 billion or $2 billion will be in a strategical profit position with money a half of 1% higher.

Just now is a good time to avoid inflation-prosperous common stocks. Now is a good time to buy submerged stocks that inflation has hurt, to accumulate good grade preferred stocks selling to yield 5% and 6%, to acquire (for those who can carry the risk) second grade preferreds paying, on a cost basis, 8% and 10%.

Most "blue chips" are high. Millions of investors will buy only that kind. And sound investment habits are hard to break.

(Q) "You frequently discuss stocks without giving their names. I have $5,000 for common stock investment. What should I buy?" —W. W.

(A) Go to your broker or banker. Get from him a list of 10 stocks: a leading chemical, oil, automobile, utility, bank, food, electrical equipment, merchandising, agricultural equipment and insurance. Study carefully the earning and dividend records of each for the years 1943-1952. Then, exercising the care you would if you were buying $5,000 real estate property, invest $1,000 in each of five of these 10 common stocks.

Harry C. France will answer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

Operations Are Halted

Chicago, Jan. 26 (AP)—A strike by the men who run the trains halted operations Sunday on the Chicago Great Western Railway, mainly a freight carrier serving five midwest states. Edward T. Reidy, vice president and general manager of the railroad, said traffic was being shifted to connecting lines, and perishable freight had been cleared before the strike. Some 800 members of five unions struck over an accumulation of 600 claims and grievances, ranging from pay rates to sanitary conditions on cabooses.

Town of Rochester Names Leaders for 250th Anniversary

The Rev. George Wood, pastor of the Rochester Reformed Church, has been elected chairman of the committee planning the 250th birthday celebration of the township of Rochester, Mrs. A. Breslow, secretary, has announced.

Also serving with the chairman will be Frank Kelder, vice-chairman; Burt Marshall, treasurer, and Mrs. Breslow. The officers were elected at a recent meeting of the planning committee.

Future meetings of the group will be held on the third Monday of each month at which time plans will be formulated for the official celebration to take place during June.

Anyone interested in planning for the project is requested to contact the Rev. Mr. Wood or Mrs. Breslow.

9267th Air Reserves Will Meet on Tuesday

All members of the 9267th Volunteer Air Corps Reserve Training Squadron are requested to attend the meeting Tuesday at 8 p. m., at the Air Reserve Headquarters, 22 Ferry street.

Major Willis Locke, a staff officer of the 9059th VARTO Training Group, will brief members of the squadron on the result of the meeting held by the group of staff officers last week.

Major Orlando Ingalls, squadron training officer, will direct members of the squadron in a training skit outlining the duties and responsibilities of air force inspectors. Major Theodore Lee, commanding officer of the squadron, will conduct a question and answer period relative to the USAF Volunteeer Air Reserve Training program.

Russell J. Maurer, major, USAFR, said today that any reservists who wish clarification on their classification or status as given to the air force survey teams may obtain additional information at the meeting Tuesday night.

STIRRING INAUGURAL ADDRESS

In President Eisenhower's inaugural address, Americans could feel a nobility of utterance which befits the solemnity of his coming to power. A rare, indefinable quality like that of his heralded London Guildhall speech after the war lifted up this first message he offered to an anxious world.

Admirably, he seemed to sense and voice the aspirations of all decent mankind, as he assumed the leadership of the world's most powerful nation at a moment in history when free men's struggle against tyrannical communism is yet unresolved.

His words were free of malice, of partisanship, of the narrow preachments of nationalism. They were meant for all liberty-loving men on all the continents of the earth.

They bespoke intense conviction that the American faith, founded on freedom and democracy, is great and ennobling. Still, the new President's unquestioned pride in that faith was mellowed by deep humility.

Again and again he employed language aptly turned to reassure all the friends of liberty, including those who most often have been doubtful of the nature and steadfastness of American purpose.

Sincerity rang in his declaration that the peoples of every corner of the globe must be viewed and treated as equals, that we Americans do not intend to force upon any of them anywhere the specific tenets which we have derived from our broad faith in freedom.

Ably Mr. Eisenhower appealed to the hearts of the British, the French, the other Europeans, the whole of Asia and of the Western Hemisphere, knowing well how vital it is that they all remain enlisted in the cause of liberty against slavery.

He plainly stated that America, being the strongest of these, must lead the struggle. But he made it just as clear that America can spread its faith only by the excellence of its own example.

This was Mr. Eisenhower at the pinnacle of the talent for which he is most celebrated—the consummate ability not simply to bring men of basically common purpose together but to stir them to brave action in pursuit of that aim. This was Mr. Eisenhower in the role which most explains why he was the presidential choice of 34,000,000 Americans.

Nothing better illustrates the humble spirit of his dedication to high duty than the personal prayer he offered in prelude to his address. In an important sense, it not only set the tone for the words that followed and the actions that are still to come. It revealed the entire character of the man.

All Americans now must utter their own prayer that President Eisenhower will be granted the strength for which he pleads as he assumes the heaviest tasks any human can undertake in this world.

He must have these bulwarks supporting him if he is to help make his own greatest promise come true—that "the future shall belong to the free."

Tea growers from all over the world are uniting in an effort to promote the drinking of their product in this country. Sponsorship of football games over radio and TV networks may work wonders for this tea formation.

AN ASIAN POLICY

The first hint of a union of Britain and the United States in their policy toward Asia came as a result of the meetings between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Prime Minister Winston Churchill. Churchill asked for a common policy in the form of a defense pact against possible Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

The United States already maintains the ANZUS alliance and has defense agreements with Japan and the Philippines. No commitments have been made to countries on the mainland of Asia because these countries are easily accessible to the Communists and would be difficult to defend. It would be unwise to take on promises which we could not fulfill.

The main item blocking adoption of Churchill's suggestion is the divergence of attitude toward Communist China. Britain recognizes the Red government and we do not. Nevertheless the Prime Minister's idea is sound. The Communist unrest in Asia is tied to orders from Moscow and should be resisted as a common menace rather than treated as the isolated problem of each country affected.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

IN GOD WE TRUST

When thousands of men and women come from all parts of the country to see an event, the perspective of each is different. Perhaps each one sees only what he thought he came to see and hear and some are always disappointed because it is human nature to anticipate the impossible.

For instance, I heard some say that what they missed most at the Inauguration Ball was a receiving line. They had expected President and Mrs. Eisenhower to stand for several hours in the two buildings and shake hands with the thousands of citizens who came from all the states. Perhaps that is important to some citizens, but the Secret Service will not permit it and after the tough day the Eisenhowers put in, their physician should have objected.

However, in the armory, where I spent the Inauguration night, an unexpected line did form in front of Senator Robert A. Taft's box and he shook hands as long as the line held. So, those who like to touch the epidermis of the mighty had the satisfaction of telling Senator Taft how much they liked him.

As far me, I enjoyed most the imagination and ingenuity that went into the floats in the parade. Somehow I cannot get too excited about, men marching and I find the gymnastics of the drum majorettes, or whatever you call them, too fantastic to be beautiful. So much squirming distresses me, and I look back to the good old days when a giant of a man walked stiffly while he twirled the baton and threw it into the air. He always wore enormous mustaches when I was a boy.

The floats, however, were stimulating. The three I liked best were the religious one, which restored the words, "in God we trust," to its proper dignity; the Vermont one on the unsplit atom, which was a tone of pride in consistency as a Republican state, never swerving in spite of how the rest of the country went; and finally, the Missouri one that was sloganless but carried a number of beautiful girls in superb mink coats! The only word on that float was "Missouri" and the demonstration was for honesty. It took genius to think that one out.

I want to go back to the religious tone. Many will say that a man may be deeply religious without wearing its symbol on his person. Yet, our people are a religious people who came to this country during the past three centuries to safeguard their religious beliefs. Pilgrim and Puritan, Mennonite and Moravian, Catholic and Jew, Quaker and Baptist and many other religious groups who constituted the population of the first two centuries of our country came here for freedom of conscience, for the right to worship God, each according to his own beliefs. But all were united in a fundamental belief in God, in His guidance and in the efficacy of prayer.

Thus, the phrase "in God we trust" became a symbol of the secular life of America. It was not so much a religious slogan as an affirmation of the American concept of life.

The New Deal was a sophisticated approach to American problems in which dependence upon the supernatural seemed to be very old-fogyish, like the horse and buggy. They trusted to statistics of their own divising and they believed in the efficacy of personal leadership. "Papa knows best" was to them a surer guide than "In God we trust."

The religious float with the words "In God We Trust" blazoned upon it was refreshing in a harsh world, as was President Eisenhower's opening personal prayer. I heard some criticism of the prayer; yet it seemed so natural for General Eisenhower to have opened his new career with personal prayer. His parents were of the Pennsylvania Dutch stock that suvived the hardships of life in the New World by prayer. To this day, the plain people, as they call themselves, live by simple faith and great prayer. A man cannot, in moments of strong emotional stress, move far from the roots of his ancestry. The President's mother was a deeply religious woman to whom prayer was personal, belief in God was personal, and the guidance of God constant in every act of life.

Come what may politically, the Inauguration Day restored two words to our public language, God and patriotism.

HARD OF HEARING

When a man, or a woman find that their eyesight is not as good as it has been, they immediately get the proper prescription, then go to an optician and have glasses made and "fitted."

This was not always so, as in former days glasses were supposed to come only with advancing age. When we see youngsters, even before school age, fitted for glasses, it shows that parents are alert to the needs of the eyes of the child. Regarding loss of hearing, it is only within recent years that men and women with loss of hearing have availed themselves of the advantages of hearing aids. Many of these hard of hearing individuals tried to conceal their hearing defect as if it were some contagious disease; some even learned lip reading rather than admit that their hearing was impaired.

In "Laryngoscope," Dr. Kenneth M. Day, of Pittsburgh, discusses hard of hearing from earliest infancy, the child being born with some loss of hearing due to mother suffering an attack of German measles, or other conditions during pregnancy. Dr. Day then dicusses the great success of the miracle drugs (penicillin and sulfa) in clearing up active inflammations of the ear, and the more recent surgical operations which give many hard of hearing patients complete or almost complete restoration of hearing.

For those who despite treatment by ear specialists, Dr. Day has this to say regarding hearing aids: "Hearing aids have been improved markedly. For persons with conduction or mixed type of deafness, the present hearing aids perform very satisfactorily. Satisfactory aids for persons with nerve deafness are not so easily provided, but fortunately this type of deafness is found almost always in old people, or those who have suffered an injury. For the severely deafened, and especially for young children with defective hearing, the hearing aid must be helped with speech and hearing training.

While most hearing aids, properly fitted, give satisfaction, allowing the individual to become also normal emotionally, there are some patients who do not seem to get satisfactory results. It is for this reason that the American Hearing Society, with branches in most cities, is able to give helpful advice. This non-profit organization is situated at Northwest 14th street, Washington, D. C.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — The Eisenhower - Nixon inauguration will go down in history as a $10 million to perhaps $50 million affair. That's if you include the personal expenses of all the people who came to see it.

The Inaugural Committee expected 500,000 visitors from out of town. If each of them spent $100 during the four days of festivities the total would come to $50 million.

A $100 personal budget would be about average for the four days. To make the de luxe tour, with the best seats at everything and top-price rooms at the best hotels, cost over $200 a head.

It divided like this: Symphony, $12; jubilee festival, $12; parade seat near White House, $15; box seat at inaugural ball, $37.50; hotel room, $40; meals, $40; cabs, $10; tips, $8; miscellaneous sightseeing and entertainment, $25.

The cheapest anybody could get by on, taking in everything in the least expensive seats, staying in friends' homes and eating lunches in drugstores, would be about $30 for the four days.

This doesn't include transportation, either.

Department of Cooperation

Cooperation between the incoming Eisenhower and outgoing Truman administrations for a smooth turnover of government probably reached its high point at the Commerce Department. Republican Secretary Sinclair Weeks came to town to confer with Democratic ex-Secretary Charles Sawyer.

After talking government business for a while, Mr. Weeks mentioned that he'd have to find a place to live.

Mr. Sawyer said, well, why not take his apartment?

It sounded like an idea so they went out to the Westchester to look over the Sawyer diggings. Mr. Weeks liked them, and said he'd take over the lease.

Then Mr. Weeks allowed as how he would have to get a maid.

Mr. Sawyer said, well, why not hire his housekeeper-cook?

Mr. Weeks liked her, too, and hired her on the spot.

Remedy for Severe Blow

There's a quiet move on to make the former Vice President, Alben W. Barkley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Not immediately, perhaps, but sooner or later. There is no thought of trying to push the present chairman, Steve Mitchell, out of his job. But, again sooner or later, Chairman Mitchell is expected to ask voluntarily to go back to his private law practice.

The appointment of Barkley as his successor would make political sense. He is a close friend of Governor Stevenson and is in fact a distance cousin of the Democratic presidential candidate. Barkley certainly knows politics. He is acceptable to both northern and southern Democrats. Union labor political leaders are now somewhat ashamed of the knifing they gave Barkley at the the Chicago convention, so they'd go for him.

It is not expected that Mr. Barkley would do much desk or executive work. But he could make speeches—the thing he likes to do best.

Mr. Barkley has speaking engagements—some of them made as long as a year or more ago—which will keep him busy till May. He has made no announcement as to whether he will keep his apartment in Washington or return to Paducah. For the first time in perhaps his whole life he has nothing to say—on this subject anyway.

But the blow of leaving Washington after 40 years of work here has been severe. A job that he liked and that would keep him in the capital would be welcome.

"Beedle" Smith in Review

With Secretary of State John Foster Dulles scheduled to hop off for Europe soon, and talking about a trip around the world after that, the real job of reorganizing the State Department is going to fall on the new undersecreatry, Gen. Walter Bedell Smith.

While General Smith's military record, his experience as ambassador to Moscow fo three years and as head of Central Intelligence Agency are well known, most people are not familiar with his earlier diplomatic achievements which qualify him for State Department service.

He attended the Paris peace conference after World War 1, and was U. S. representative on the Hungarian treaty commission. After World War 2 he was a member of the U. S. delegation to the London, Moscow and Paris meetings of foreign ministers.

In 1945, acting for General Eisenhower, "Beedle" Smith went to Lisbon and negotiated the surrender of Italy. He negotiated with the Germans for food supplies to Holland, and he signed the German surrender documents. Also, he negotiated with Russia on ending the Berlin blockade.

Voice of Doom

While most economic sages have been predicting continued boom prosperity for this year, the next, and even indefinitely, there are some voices of doom. One of them is Stanton Griffis, ex-U. S. ambassador to Egypt, Spain and the Argentine. Griffis made his millions in Wall Street, and avoided complete disaster in the 1929 crash.

"At the risk of being called an old fogey," writes Griffis in his new autobiography, "Lying in State," "let me observe that we are now undergoing one of those great booms . . . that could conceivably lead to disaster.

"We are told that inflation is here to stay. . . . The cry persists that common stocks are the only safe investments. . . .

"The theories on which this hypothesis is based may be correct, but they have a familiar ring. . . . Today's overwhelming prosperity is bound to have its aftermath. Galileo and Newton were right in insisting that whatever goes up must eventually come down. . . . Great markets have a way of vanishing overnight."

Farewell Quips

As additions to the "Famous Last Words" department, the remarks of some of the departing Truman administration officials are worth remembering.

President Truman, to his last press conference—"I hope you'll have as much fun with my successor as you've had with me."

Secretary of State Dean Acheson—"The one who goes is happier than those he leaves behind."

Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer (who will immediately resume the practice of law in Ohio) "There's a good deal of nonsense in public officials going off for long vacations on leaving office."

Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett (reading a note to one of the incoming defense officials from one of his friends)—"If you can keep your head when those about you are losing theirs, you just don't understand the situation."

Wilson Decision on Selling GM Stock Is Seen Making Matters Worse for U. S. in Future

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 26—Decision of Charles E. Wilson to sell his stocks in General Motors so as to qualify for the post of Secretary of Defense in President Eisenhower's cabinet doesn't solve the problem of "conflict of interest." It really makes matters worse in the future for the government of the United States. It means that some of the most capable men in America will hereafter refuse high government posts rather than undergo either the innuendoes of lack of integrity or the financial sacrifices involved.

The issue is so fundamental that it can do incalculable damage to the defense program now and perhaps later if a war should break out.

Already the three secretaries proposed for the army, the air force and the navy are in hot water. They are being told in effect by the Wilson precedent that they must sell their holdings in order to win Senate confirmation. Mr. Wilson himself is proposing that they be allowed to keep their stocks but be disqualified from sitting in any matter affecting their former business connections or stock ownership. This would be accomplished by a general directive and there is precedent for such delegation of authority in the Defense Department. Louis A. Johnson as secretary of defense issued such a directive placing in the hands of the late Stephen A. Early, undersecretary of defense, all matters relating to the allocating of air force contracts. This was done even though Mr. Johnson had divested himself of all stocks in airplane companies.

There are many men who have made successes in relatively small businesses, family owned, which cannot be sold on the stock exchange or disposed of readly without consequences far more serious than a money loss. Few successful business men will want to become involved in such a tangle in their business and personal affairs just to come to Washington for a relatively brief tour of duty.

Should the Congress allow such a situation to go uncorrected? There is a simple solution. It is to amend the present law so as to require the disqualification of any officer of the government who is confronted with a conflict of interest and to specify that an "alternate" may be appointed by the President from inside or outside the government. Such an "alternate" should be subject to confirmation by the Senate.

It is regrettable that this wasn't canvassed a month ago because Mr. Wilson is paying a penalty that he should not have been required to bear. He offered, it is reported, not only to trustee his stock but to derive no benefit at all from its appreciated value during the time he was in government service and also to give to charity such dividends as might result from the increase in value. This certainly satisfies the intent of the law which prohibits a government official who may be "interested in the pecuniary profits or contracts of a corporation" from transacting busines with such a corporation. It would have made him plainly disinterested. But this offer didn't satisfy senatorial sentiment.

Mr. Wilson is represented as having gotten off on the "wrong foot" in the hearings. He was in reality the victim of an honest conscience, a forthrightness of expression due to a lack of political guile and a disinclination to take seriously the inference and implication voiced in Congress that, because he had once been in General Motors, he couldn't deal fairly and justly with any contracts involving that company.

The broad political issue has been stated with characteristic bluntness by Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon who is quoted as saying:

"It's not a question of whether or not he (Wilson) meets the objection of the law by selling his stock in the General Motors Corporation. I am challenging the matter because it is a question of public policy to have a man with Mr. Wilson's past economic connections sitting in judgment on defense contracts. It violates a basic principle of American justice."

But the same might be said of Martin Durkin, the new secretary of labor, whose "past economic connections" have been with the American Federation of Labor which is an interested party in getting pay increases for its members through government stabilization action. His department through the wage and hour division personnel assists in checking certain control functions on wages. Mr. Durkin also will sit in the cabinet as a judge of labor policies—and rightly so because the President's cabinet must necessarily comprise representative opinion from all groups and classes.

To exclude men with experience in large business enterprises or, in big labor organizations from serving the government on the theory that their views might be damaging to "public policy" is a form of "thought control" which true liberals will be the first to condemn. No honest man should be regarded as ineligible to serve his government because of "past economic connections."

Everyone who knows the facts about defense contracts knows that, while General Motors may get a large dollar share of the business because it is equipped with plants and facilities to do the job economically, the making of such contracts is really an inconsequential and incidental part of the duties of a secretary of defense who normally delegates such matters to subordinates anyway.

Congress modified a law to let General Marshall become secretary of defense despite a provision which forbade anyone being appointed who had served in the armed services within the previous ten years. It was assumed that General Marshall could sit in judgment on matters affecting the navy and the air force without a conflict of service loyalty. Just why Charles E. Wilson was not to be permitted to have the benefit of the doubt in the same way—especially when he could have put his stocks in the hands of a trustee with no share to himself in any increased value of the stocks—will not be understood except as a hypocritical concession to political expediency at the expense of future services to the American government by competent business men. It is a tragedy whose aftereffects cannot but impair the efficiency of the government in future crises and give comfort to the class-conscious partisans who relish every opportunity to exclude men of thrift and business success from the councils of government.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Jan. 25—Just before Harry Truman handed over the job, President Eisenhower bawled him out for bringing home his son, Major John Eisenhower, from Korea for the inauguration. This angry protest was the reason for Truman's placative remark to Ike, "tell the boy that contrary old man in the White House did it."

The whole bunch had gathered in room 49-P in the Capitol, an office where Senator Styles Bridges had held forth as minority leader, to wait for the march to the platform.

Truman was there in a seedy, knee-sprung layout selected with his sure instinct for the prolongation of a quarrel as his retort to Eisenhower's decision to wear a soft hat rather than a topper. Ike, however, was otherwise properly dressed for a formal occasion. His decision against the plug hat was made to withhold from the Truman Socialists the opportunity to depict the new, more-or-less Republican President wearing the crown which has been for half a century the cartoonists' conventional insignia of predatory wealth and Wall street.

Truman himself had worn a plug hat on special occasions, always with the foolish air of a burlesque comedian. Now that Ike had come out in favor of the so-called Homburg, a decision that endeared him the more to the erstwhile heavily Democratic hat cities of Danbury and Norwalk, Conn., Truman apparently rummaged among his old clothes or sent General Harry Vaughan down to the second-hand joints on Seventh street to buy him some thing that would make Ike, in his striped pants, look the part of the sinister agent of the special interests nevertheless.

The party in the room 49-P was small and select. A number of Republicans who hate Truman with undisguised enthusiasm remarked audibly that he looked like a bum. Eisenhower took no part in this discussion but he heard it and the import of the situation didn't escape him although he isn't going to win any medals at repartee or savvy in such situations.

On the way up to the Capitol, Truman, Barkley, Ike, and Senators Briges and Hayden had put in a strained half hour. Ike wouldn't lead and Truman couldn't counter. In the words of a Republican who thinks Ike has been taken over by Henry Luce, the Ford Foundation and Tom Dewey, one word would have led to another and the next word to a punch in the snoot right there on Pennsylvania avenue. So they rode in silence with Ike boiling because Truman had put him in the seeming position of asking for his soldier son a special favor that he never would have asked and, in fact, pointedly had refused to approve.

After some icy amenities in 49-P, Ike walked over to Truman

Admirably, he seemed to sense and voice the aspirations of all decent mankind, as he assumed the leadership of the world's most powerful nation at a moment in history when free men's struggle against tyrannical communism is yet unresolved.

His words were free of malice, of partisanship, of the narrow preachments of nationalism. They were meant for all liberty-loving men on all the continents of the earth.

They bespoke intense conviction that the American faith, founded on freedom and democracy, is great and ennobling. Still, the new President's unquestioned pride in that faith was mellowed by deep humility.

Again and again he employed language aptly turned to reassure all the friends of liberty, including those who most often have been doubtful of the nature and steadfastness of American purpose.

Sincerity rang in his declaration that the peoples of every corner of the globe must be viewed and treated as equals, that we Americans do not intend to force upon any of them anywhere the specific tenets which we have derived from our broad faith in freedom.

Ably Mr. Eisenhower appealed to the hearts of the British, the French, the other Europeans, the whole of Asia and of the Western Hemisphere, knowing well how vital it is that they all remain enlisted in the cause of liberty against slavery.

He plainly stated that America, being the strongest of these, must lead the struggle. But he made it just as clear that America can spread its faith only by the excellence of its own example.

This was Mr. Eisenhower at the pinnacle of the talent for which he is most celebrated—the consummate ability not simply to bring men of basically common purpose together but to stir them to brave action in pursuit of that aim. This was Mr. Eisenhower in the role which most explains why he was the presidential choice of 34,000,000 Americans.

Nothing better illustrates the humble spirit of his dedication to high duty than the personal prayer he offered in prelude to his address. In an important sense, it not only set the tone for the words that followed and the actions that are still to come. It revealed the entire character of the man.

All Americans now must utter their own prayer that President Eisenhower will be granted the strength for which he pleads as he assumes the heaviest tasks any human can undertake in this world.

He must have these bulwarks supporting him if he is to help make his own greatest promise come true—that "the future shall belong to the free."

AN ASIAN POLICY

The first hint of a union of Britain and the United States in their policy toward Asia came as a result of the meetings between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Prime Minister Winston Churchill. Churchill asked for a common policy in the form of a defense pact against possible Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

The United States already maintains the ANZUS alliance and has defense agreements with Japan and the Philippines. No commitments have been made to countries on the mainland of Asia because these countries are easily accessible to the Communists and would be difficult to defend. It would be unwise to take on promises which we could not fulfill.

The main item blocking adoption of Churchill's suggestion is the divergence of attitude toward Communist China. Britain recognizes the Red government and we do not. Nevertheless the Prime Minister's idea is sound. The Communist unrest in Asia is tied to orders from Moscow and should be resisted as a common menace rather than treated as the isolated problem of each country affected.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

IN GOD WE TRUST

When thousands of men and women come from all parts of the country to see an event, the perspective of each is different. Perhaps each one sees only what he thought he came to see and hear and some are always disappointed because it is human nature to anticipate the impossible.

For instance, I heard some say that what they missed most at the Inauguration Ball was a receiving line. They had expected President and Mrs. Eisenhower to stand for several hours in the two buildings and shake hands with the thousands of citizens who came from all the states. Perhaps that is important to some citizens, but the Secret Service will not permit it and after the tough day the Eisenhowers put in, their physician should have objected.

However, in the armory, where I spent the Inauguration night, an unexpected line did form in front of Senator Robert A. Taft's box and he shook hands as long as the line held. So, those who like to touch the epidermis of the mighty had the satisfaction of telling Senator Taft how much they liked him.

As far me, I enjoyed most the imagination and ingenuity that went into the floats in the parade. Somehow I cannot get too excited about men marching and I find the gymnastics of the drum majorettes, or whatever you call them, too fantastic to be beautiful. So much squirming distresses me, and I look back to the good old days when a giant of a man walked stiffly while he twirled the baton and threw it into the air. He always wore enormous mustaches when I was a boy.

The floats, however, were stimulating. The three I liked best were the religious one, which restored the words, "in God we trust," to its proper dignity; the Vermont one on the unsplit atom, which was a tone of pride in consistency as a Republican state, never swerving in spite of how the rest of the country went; and finally, the Missouri one that was sloganless but carried a number of beautiful girls in superb mink coats! The only word on that float was "Missouri" and the demonstration was for honesty. It took genius to think that one out.

I want to go back to the religious tone. Many will say that a man may be deeply religious without wearing its symbol on his person. Yet, our people are a religious people who came to this country during the past three centuries to safeguard their religious beliefs. Pilgrim and Puritan, Mennonite and Moravian, Catholic and Jew, Quaker and Baptist and many other religious groups who constituted the population of the first two centuries of our country came here for freedom of conscience, for the right to worship God, each according to his own beliefs. But all were united in a fundamental belief in God, in His guidance and in the efficacy of prayer.

Thus, the phrase "in God we trust" became a symbol of the secular life of America. It was not so much a religious slogan as an affirmation of the American concept of life.

The New Deal was a sophisticated approach to American problems in which dependence upon the supernatural seemed to be very old-fogyish, like the horse and buggy. They trusted to statistics of their own divising and they believed in the efficacy of personal leadership. "Papa knows best" was to them a surer guide than "In God we trust."

The religious float with the words "In God We Trust" blazoned upon it was refreshing in a harsh world, as was President Eisenhower's opening personal prayer. I heard some criticism of the prayer; yet it seemed so natural for General Eisenhower to have opened his new career with personal prayer. His parents were of the Pennsylvania Dutch stock that suvived the hardships of life in the New World by prayer. To this day, the plain people, as they call themselves, live by simple faith and great prayer. A man cannot, in moments of strong emotional stress, move far from the roots of his ancestry. The President's mother was a deeply religious woman to whom prayer was personal, belief in God was personal, and the guidance of God constant in every act of life.

Come what may politically, the Inauguration Day restored two words to our public language, God and patriotism.

HARD OF HEARING

When a man, or a woman find that their eyesight is not as good as it has been, they immediately get the proper prescription, then go to an optician and have glasses made and "fitted."

This was not always so, as in former days glasses were supposed to come only with advancing age. When we see youngsters, even before school age, fitted for glasses, it shows that parents are alert to the needs of the eyes of the child. Regarding loss of hearing, it is only within recent years that men and women with loss of hearing have availed themselves of the advantages of hearing aids. Many of these hard of hearing individuals tried to conceal their hearing defect as if it were some contagious disease; some even learned lip reading rather than admit that their hearing was impaired.

In "Laryngoscope," Dr. Kenneth M. Day, of Pittsburgh, discusses hard of hearing from earliest infancy, the child being born with some loss of hearing due to mother suffering an attack of German measles, or other conditions during pregnancy. Dr. Day then dicusses the great success of the miracle drugs (penicillin and sulfa) in clearing up active inflammations of the ear, and the more recent surgical operations which give many hard of hearing patients complete or almost complete restoration of hearing.

For those who despite treatment by ear specialists, Dr. Day has this to say regarding hearing aids: "Hearing aids have been improved markedly. For persons with conduction or mixed type of deafness, the present hearing aids perform very satisfactorily. Satisfactory aids for persons with nerve deafness are not so easily provided, but fortunately this type of deafness is found almost always in old people, or those who have suffered an injury. For the severely deafened, and especially for young children with defective hearing, the hearing aid must be helped with speech and hearing training.

While most hearing aids, properly fitted, give satisfaction, allowing the individual to become also normal emotionally, there are some patients who do not seem to get satisfactory results. It is for this reason that the American Hearing Society, with branches in most cities, is able to give helpful advice. This non-profit organization is situated at Northwest 14th street, Washington, D. C.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — The Eisenhower-Nixon inauguration will go down in history as a $10 million to perhaps $50 million affair. That's if you include the personal expenses of all the people who came to see it.

The Inaugural Committee expected 500,000 visitors from out of town. If each of them spent $100 during the four days of festivities the total would come to $50 million.

A $100 personal budget would be about average for the four days. To make the de luxe tour, with the best seats at everything and top-price rooms at the best hotels, cost over $200 a head.

It divided like this: Symphony, $12; jubilee festival, $12; parade seat near White House, $15; box seat at inaugural ball, $37.50; hotel room, $40; meals, $40; cabs, $10; tips, $8; miscellaneous sightseeing and entertainment, $25.

The cheapest anybody could get by on, taking in everything in the least expensive seats, staying in friends' homes and eating lunches in drugstores, would be about $30 for the four days.

This doesn't include transportation, either.

Department of Cooperation

Cooperation between the incoming Eisenhower and outgoing Truman administrations for a smooth turnover of government probably reached its high point at the Commerce Department. Republican Secretary Sinclair Weeks came to town to confer with Democratic ex-Secretary Charles Sawyer.

After talking government business for a while, Mr. Weeks mentioned that he'd have to find a place to live.

Mr. Sawyer said, well, why not take his apartment?

It sounded like an idea so they went out to the Westchester to look over the Sawyer diggings. Mr. Weeks liked them, and said he'd take over the lease.

Then Mr. Weeks allowed as how he would have to get a maid.

Mr. Sawyer said, well, why not hire his housekeeper-cook?

Mr. Weeks liked her, too, and hired her on the spot.

Remedy for Severe Blow

There's a quiet move on to make the former Vice President, Alben W. Barkley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Not immediately, perhaps, but sooner or later. There is no thought of trying to push the present chairman, Steve Mitchell, out of his job. But, again sooner or later, Chairman Mitchell is expected to ask voluntarily to go back to his private law practice.

The appointment of Barkley as his successor would make political sense. He is a close friend of Governor Stevenson and is in fact a distance cousin of the Democratic presidential candidate. Barkley certainly knows politics. He is acceptable to both northern and southern Democrats. Union labor political leaders are now somewhat ashamed of the knifing they gave Barkley at the Chicago convention, so they'd go for him.

It is not expected that Mr. Barkley would do much desk or executive work. But he could make speeches—the thing he likes to do best.

Mr. Barkley has speaking engagements—some of them made as long as a year or more ago—which will keep him busy till May. He has made no announcement as to whether he will keep his apartment in Washington or return to Paducah. For the first time in perhaps his whole life he has nothing to say—on this subject anyway.

But the blow of leaving Washington after 40 years of work here has been severe. A job that he liked and that would keep him in the capital would be welcome.

"Beedle" Smith in Review

With Secretary of State John Foster Dulles scheduled to hop off for Europe soon, and talking about a trip around the world after that, the real job of reorganizing the State Department is going to fall on the new undersecreatry, Gen. Walter Bedell Smith.

While General Smith's military record, his experience as ambassador to Moscow fo three years and as head of Central Intelligence Agency are well known, most people are not familiar with his earlier diplomatic achievements which qualify him for State Department service.

He attended the Paris peace conference after World War 1, and was U. S. representative on the Hungarian treaty commission. After World War 2 he was a member of the U. S. delegation to the London, Moscow and Paris meetings of foreign ministers.

In 1945, acting for General Eisenhower, "Beedle" Smith went to Lisbon and negotiated the surrender of Italy. He negotiated with the Germans for food supplies to Holland, and he signed the German surrender documents. Also, he negotiated with Russia on ending the Berlin blockade.

Voice of Doom

While most economic sages have been predicting continued boom prosperity for this year, the next, and even indefinitely, there are some voices of doom. One of them is Stanton Griffis, ex-U. S. ambassador to Egypt, Spain and the Argentine. Griffis made his millions in Wall Street, and avoided complete disaster in the 1929 crash.

"At the risk of being called an old fogey," writes Griffis in his new autobiography, "Lying in State," "let me observe that we are now undergoing one of those great booms . . . that could conceivably lead to disaster.

"We are told that inflation is here to stay. . . . The cry persists that common stocks are the only safe investments. . . .

"The theories on which this hypothesis is based may be correct, but they have a familiar ring. . . . Today's overwhelming prosperity is bound to have its aftermath. Galileo and Newton were right in insisting that whatever goes up must eventually come down. . . . Great markets have a way of vanishing overnight."

Farewell Quips

As additions to the "Famous Last Words" department, the remarks of some of the departing Truman administration officials are worth remembering.

President Truman, to his last press conference—"I hope you'll have as much fun with my successor as you've had with me."

Secretary of State Dean Acheson—"The one who goes is happier than those he leaves behind."

Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer (who will immediately resume the practice of law in Ohio) "There's a good deal of nonsense in public officials going off for long vacations on leaving office."

Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett (reading a note to one of the incoming defense officials from one of his friends)—"If you can keep your head when those about you are losing theirs, you just don't understand the situation."

Wilson Decision on Selling GM Stock Is Seen Making Matters Worse for U. S. in Future

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 26—Decision of Charles E. Wilson to sell his stocks in General Motors so as to qualify for the post of Secretary of Defense in President Eisenhower's cabinet doesn't solve the problem of "conflict of interest." It really makes matters worse in the future for the government of the United States. It means that some of the most capable men in America will hereafter refuse high government posts rather than undergo either the innuendoes of lack of integrity or the financial sacrifices involved.

The issue is so fundamental that it can do incalculable damage to the defense program now and perhaps later if a war should break out.

Already the three secretaries proposed for the army, the air force and the navy are in hot water. They are being told in effect by the Wilson precedent that they must sell their holdings in order to win Senate confirmation. Mr. Wilson himself is proposing that they be allowed to keep their stocks but be disqualified from sitting in any matter affecting their former business connections or stock ownership. This would be accomplished by a general directive and there is precedent for such delegation of authority in the Defense Department. Louis A. Johnson as secretary of defense issued such a directive placing in the hands of the late Stephen A. Early, undersecretary of defense, all matters relating to the allocating of air force contracts. This was done even though Mr. Johnson had divested himself of all stocks in airplane companies.

There are many men who have made successes in relatively small businesses, family owned, which cannot be sold on the stock exchange or disposed of readly without consequences far more serious than a money loss. Few successful business men will want to become involved in such a tangle in their business and personal affairs just to come to Washington for a relatively brief tour of duty.

Should the Congress allow such a situation to go uncorrected? There is a simple solution. It is to amend the present law so as to require the disqualification of any officer of the government who is confronted with a conflict of interest and to specify that an "alternate" may be appointed by the President from inside or outside the government. Such an "alternate" should be subject to confirmation by the Senate.

It is regrettable that this wasn't canvassed a month ago because Mr. Wilson is paying a penalty that he should not have been required to bear. He offered, it is reported, not only to trustee his stock but to derive no benefit at all from its appreciated value during the time he was in government service and also to give to charity such dividends as might result from the increase in value. This certainly satisfies the intent of the law which prohibits a government official who may be "interested in the pecuniary profits or contracts of a corporation" from transacting busines with such a corporation. It would have made him plainly disinterested. But this offer didn't satisfy senatorial sentiment.

Mr. Wilson is represented as having gotten off on the "wrong foot" in the hearings. He was in reality the victim of an honest conscience, a forthrightness of expression due to a lack of political guile and a disinclination to take seriously the inference and implication voiced in Congress that, because he had once been in General Motors, he couldn't deal fairly and justly with any contracts involving that company.

The broad political issue has been stated with characteristic bluntness by Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon who is quoted as saying:

"It's not a question of whether or not he (Wilson) meets the objection of the law by selling his stock in the General Motors Corporation. I am challenging the matter because it is a question of public policy to have a man with Mr. Wilson's past economic connections sitting in judgment on defense contracts. It violates a basic principle of American justice."

But the same might be said of Martin Durkin, the new secretary of labor, whose "past economic connections" have been with the American Federation of Labor which is an interested party in getting pay increases for its members through government stabilization action. His department through the wage and hour division personnel assists in checking certain control functions on wages. Mr. Durkin also will sit in the cabinet as a judge of labor policies—and rightly so because the President's cabinet must necessarily comprise representative opinion from all groups and classes.

To exclude men with experience in large business enterprises or, in big labor organizations from serving the government on the theory that their views might be damaging to "public policy" is a form o. "thought control" which true liberals will be the first to condemn. No honest man should be regarded as ineligible to serve his government because of "past economic connections."

Everyone who knows the facts about defense contracts knows that, while General Motors may get a large dollar share of the business because it is equipped with plants and facilities to do the job economically, the making of such contracts is really an inconsequential and incidental part of the duties of a secretary of defense who normally delegates such matters to subordinates anyway.

Congress modified a law to let General Marshall become secretary of defense despite a provision which forbade anyone being appointed who had served in the armed services within the previous ten years. It was assumed that General Marshall could sit in judgment on matters affecting the navy and the air force without a conflict of service loyalty. Just why Charles E. Wilson was not to be permitted to have the benefit of the doubt in the same way—especially when he could have put his stocks in the hands of a trustee with no share to himself in any increased value of the stocks—will not be understood except as a hypocritical concession to political expediency at the expense of future services to the American government by competent business men. It is a tragedy whose aftereffects cannot but impair the efficiency of the government in future crises and give comfort to the class-conscious partisans who relish every opportunity to exclude men of thrift and business success from the councils of government.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Jan. 25—Just before Harry Truman handed over the job, President Eisenhower bawled him out for bringing home his son, Major John Eisenhower, from Korea for the inauguration. This angry protest was the reason for Truman's placative remark to Ike, "tell the boy that contrary old man in the White House did it."

The whole bunch had gathered in room 49-P in the Capitol, an office where Senator Styles Bridges had held forth as minority leader, to wait for the march to the platform.

Truman was there in a seedy, knee-sprung layout selected with his sure instinct for the prolongation of a quarrel as his retort to Eisenhower's decision to wear a soft hat rather than a topper. Ike, however, was otherwise properly dressed for a formal occasion. His decision against the plug hat was made to withhold from the Truman Socialists the opportunity to depict the new, more-or-less Republican President wearing the crown which has been for half a century the cartoonists' conventional insignia of predatory wealth and Wall street.

Truman himself had worn a plug hat on special occasions, always with the foolish air of a burlesque comedian. Now that Ike had come out in favor of the so-called Homburg, a decision that endeared him the more to the erstwhile heavily Democratic hat cities of Danbury and Norwalk, Conn., Truman apparently rummaged among his old clothes or sent General Harry Vaughan down to the second-hand joints on Seventh street to buy him some thing that would make Ike, in his striped pants, look the part of the sinister agent of the special interests nevertheless.

The party in the room 49-P was small and select. A number of Republicans who hate Truman with undisguised enthusiasm remarked audibly that he looked like a bum. Eisenhower took no part in this discussion but he heard it and the import of the situation didn't escape him although he isn't going to win any medals at repartee or savvy in such situations.

On the way up to the Capitol, Truman, Barkley, Ike, and Senators Briges and Hayden had put in a strained half hour. Ike wouldn't lead and Truman couldn't counter. In the words of a Republican who thinks Ike has been taken over by Henry Luce, the Ford Foundation and Tom Dewey, one word would have led to another and the next word to a punch in the snoot right there on Pennsylvania avenue. So they rode in silence with Ike boiling because Truman had put him in the seeming position of asking for his soldier son a special favor that he never would have asked and, in fact, pointedly had refused to approve.

Answers Given For Self-Employed

George J. Johnson, manager Kingston, N. Y. Social Security Office submits the following answers made to the questions most often asked at the Kingston office of the Social Security Administration concerning self-employed individuals:

Self-employed people should always list the nature of their business on their social security tax return.

Self-employed people need an account number of their own for social security purposes.

The self-employed who are in an occupation that counts toward old-age and survivors insurance get a social security account number card now if they haven't one already.

Self-employment earnings from most trades or businesses build Federal old-age and survivors insurance for the worker and his family.

Most self-employed people are now earning old-age and survivors insurance rights under social security.

You are required to make a social security report of your self-employment income if you have net earnings of $400 or more in a taxable year from self-employment covered by the law.

A self-employed person makes his yearly social security report on Schedule C, which is a part of the income tax return, Form 1040. His self-employment income up to $3,600 in a year will be credited to his social security account. These earnings will count toward monthly insurance benefit payments for himself and his family in his old-age, and for his dependents if he should die.

You are required to make a return of your self-employment income if you have net earnings of $400 or more in a taxable year from self-employment covered by the law.

Your Federal social security and income tax return is due on or before March 15th.

As Pegler Sees It

and said: "I want to know who was responsible for my son, John, being brought home for this inaugural service! John raised hell and said he didn't want any favortism shown him and asked me to see that the order was revoked. He didn't want his fellow soldiers in Korea to think he was getting special privileges."

Truman said: "I was responsible. I overruled Major Eisenhower and several others who asked that the order be countermanded.

Ike said: "Well, I wanted that cleared up, once and for all."

Truman said: "I felt that any man's son should witness the inauguration of his father as President of the United States."

This is approximate verbatim from a man who was present, who described Ike's demeanor as distant and frigid. He said that in this phase of the inauguration contacts, Dick Nixon refused to say a word to Truman or give him even a nod of recognition. For a time on the platform, just before Nixon took the oath, he ostentatiously turned his back on Truman. This display of unforgiving contempt was observed by many of those present.

However, persons who saw the television show report that at some stage, Nixon relented and shook Truman's hand. Truman had said some time ago that he was sore at Nixon because Nixon had called him a crook. This probably was Truman's interpretation, and not a bad implication, at that, from some of Nixon's remarks about Truman and his coterie although it is not of record that Nixon ever did call him a crook in one monosyllable. Nixon, however, certainly did paste Truman for his defense of Alger Hiss and his sneer at the Hiss expose as a "Red herring." Nixon happened to be under an easy pop fly and got credit for winning the whole ball game in the Hiss case although Martin Dies, J. B. Matthews, Bob Stripling, Lou Russell and several other men had done the work that really broke the treason ring.

Some newspapers have tried to deceive the public by insisting that Ike and Truman parted on good terms and that Truman, after all, wasn't the snarling, malicious vindictive liar that he proved himself to be over a course of years. Eisenhower, however, thus far has restricted himself to the minimum courtesy. However, he is such a biddable character that if Dewey tells him to he may let them take his picture lacing Truman's shoes.

Booklet on Epic Chosin Reservoir Breakout Available

T/Sgt. Charles C. Awkerman, Kingston Marine Corps recruiter, announced today that all combat veterans who served in Korea with the First Marine Division two years ago in its epic breakout from the Chosin Reservoir are entitled to a free booklet about their exploits. The booklet may be obtained at the Kingston Marine Corps Recruiting Office, Central Post Office Building, Room 209, by all those who served with the division between Nov. 1 and Dec. 15, 1950.

Line drawings illustrate the ten pages of descriptive material which is dedicated "to those who were there." The account is derived from official records and from combat correspondents who saw the smashing marine drive through Chinese hordes blocking icy mountain passes.

Sgt. Awkerman also announced a new short-term enlistment program for the Marine Corps that enables qualified applicants to enter the marines for a period of 24 months. Until recently, the marines only accepted men under a three and four year enlistment period. With the new short-term enlistment program, enlistees can be accepted for a two, three or four year period. Sgt. Awkerman is quoted as saying, "Young men that have obligated military service ahead will find this new short-term program beneficial to their future plans, military and civilian."

Detailed information is available at the Kingston Marine Corps Recruiting Office located in the Central Post Office Building.

Marine Sergeant Emery J. Kelder, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Kelder, 14 Adams street, this city, and Marine Pfc. Richard M. Meiswinkel, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Meiswinkel, 18 Hill street, Saugerties, currently serving with the Schools Demonstration Troops, Quantico, Va., took part in President Eisenhower's Inaugural parade on January 20th in Washington, D. C.

Headed by the United States Marine Band, the unit in which Sgt. Kelder and Pfc. Meiswinkel marched, was a specially selected provisional marine infantry battalion supported by field artillery pieces. They were followed by a company of lady leathernecks.

The most colorful military display held in the nation's capital in years, 20,000 members of the armed forces added pomp to the extravaganza.

Prior to entering the marines in March, 1951, Sgt. Kelder attended George Washington U., Washington, D. C. Pfc. Meiswinkel is a graduate of Saugerties High School, 1949, and is a former employe of Electrol, Inc.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I understand that the Temple Emanuel on Abeel street will soon celebrate its 100th anniversary. I have been asked by several members for any information or other data along the historical line of its founding. Although I had been secretary of the Sisterhood of the Temple Emanuel under Mrs. Sam Mann's administration and also Mrs. Alfred Ronder, at no time do I remember seeing any old newspaper clippings or scrapbooks. From time to time I have found in my travels through old newspapers while writing this column, some social event held by the Temple, but it was either in the social or news column and I may have just mentioned it here. I would like to be of help but all I have before me right now is a Daily Freeman of Wednesday, July 5, 1876. In the directory of churches Congregational Emanuel, Union street, is listed with the Rev. Mr. Wolff, being rabbi. The name was later changed to Temple Emanuel. There is also a listing of Congregation Anshe Chesed, Union street, which, according to one member, the two temples may have consolidated years ago.

I understand that Rabbi Wolff was the first rabbi, and have been told by some that he also was the first president of the Sisterhood of the Temple. In the 1876 newspaper are listed also three Jewish societies, Zephaniah Lodge, No. IOBB, which met every other Sunday at Hirsch's Hall, the Strand. The Washington Lodge, 21, KSB, met every other Sunday in Cornell Building and the Lebanon Lodge, No. 55, IOFS of I met every other Sunday night at the Cornell Building.

Perhaps readers of this column have items in their scrap books or newspaper clippings or other information which relates to the Temple Emanuel which is now on Abeel street near the Rondout Creek Bridge. The committee working on the anniversary would appreciate it. Direct contact can be made with Edwin L. Wetterhahn, 50 Wilson avenue.

I received a letter from William G. Tyrrell, historian of the State Education Department, Division of Archives and History, Albany. He writes in part: "A copy of your column, 'Do You Remember,' from the Kingston Freeman in which you mentioned American Heritage has recently been forwarded to me. Thank you very much for your kind words about my article and also for the valuable information that was of considerable help in preparing the brief account of Kingston's history."

To me, an old newspaper has no end of interesting bits of information. This July 5, 1876 anniversary of American independence number is really a museum item. It has a lengthy address by the Hon. William Lounsbery on the history of Kingston and Ulster county. This paper came out four years after Kingston became a full-fledged city with James G. Lindsley being first mayor. In fact, there is quite a story on the discord caused by building the City Hall at the time. Mr. Lounsbery mentioned that Washington visited Ulster county in 1777, and Grant in 1874. He compared their lives as military leaders and as presidents. Perhaps in those days, the mayors did keep a record of the famous people visiting Kingston. Perhaps they even had a guest book for their signatures.

Answers Given For Self-Employed

George J. Johnson, manager Kingston, N. Y. Social Security Office submits the following answers made to the questions most often asked at the Kingston office of the Social Security Administration concerning self-employed individuals:

Self-employed people should always list the nature of their business on their social security tax return.

Self-employed people need an account number of their own for social security purposes.

The self-employed who are in an occupation that counts toward old-age and survivors insurance get a social security account number card now if they haven't one already.

Self-employment earnings from most trades or businesses build Federal old-age and survivors insurance for the worker and his family.

Most self-employed people are now earning old-age and survivors insurance rights under social security.

You are required to make a social security report of your self-employment income if you have net earnings of $400 or more in a taxable year from self-employment covered by the law.

A self-employed person makes his yearly social security report on Schedule C, which is a part of the income tax return, Form 1040. His self-employment income up to $3,600 in a year will be credited to his social security account. These earnings will count toward monthly insurance benefit payments for himself and his family in his old-age, and for his dependents if he should die.

You are required to make a return of your self-employment income if you have net earnings of $400 or more in a taxable year from self-employment covered by the law.

Your Federal social security and income tax return is due on or before March 15th.

The Kingston Office of the Social Security Administration is located in the Central Post Office Building, Broadway, opposite the Trailways Bus Terminal.

As Pegler Sees It

and said: "I want to know who was responsible for my son, John, being brought home for this inaugural service! John raised hell and said he didn't want any favortism shown him and asked me to see that the order was revoked. He didn't want his fellow soldiers in Korea to think he was getting special privileges."

Truman said: "I was responsible. I overruled Major Eisenhower and several others who asked that the order be countermanded.

Ike said: "Well, I wanted that cleared up, once and for all."

Truman said: "I felt that any man's son should witness the inauguration of his father as President of the United States."

This is approximate verbatim from a man who was present, who described Ike's demeanor as distant and frigid. He said that in this phase of the inauguration contacts, Dick Nixon refused to say a word to Truman or give him even a nod of recognition. For a time on the platform, just before Nixon took the oath, he ostentatiously turned his back on Truman. This display of unforgiving contempt was observed by many of those present.

However, persons who saw the television show report that at some stage, Nixon relented and shook Truman's hand. Truman had said some time ago that he was sore at Nixon because Nixon had called him a crook. This probably was Truman's interpretation, and not a bad implication, at that, from some of Nixon's remarks about Truman and his coterie although it is not of record that Nixon ever did call him a crook in one monosyllable. Nixon, however, certainly did paste Truman for his defense of Alger Hiss and his sneer at the Hiss expose as a "Red herring." Nixon happened to be under an easy pop fly and got credit for winning the whole ball game in the Hiss case although Martin Dies, J. B. Matthews, Bob Stripling, Lou Russell and several other men had done the work that really broke the treason ring.

Some newspapers have tried to deceive the public by insisting that Ike and Truman parted on good terms and that Truman, after all, wasn't the snarling, malicious vindictive liar that he proved himself to be over a course of years. Eisenhower, however, thus far has restricted himself to the minimum courtesy. However, he is such a biddable character that if Dewey tells him to he may let them take his picture lacing Truman's shoes.

Booklet on Epic Chosin Reservoir Breakout Available

T/Sgt. Charles C. Awkerman, Kingston Marine Corps recruiter, announced today that all combat veterans who served in Korea with the First Marine Division two years ago in its epic breakout from the Chosin Reservoir are entitled to a free booklet about their exploits. The booklet may be obtained at the Kingston Marine Corps Recruiting Office, Central Post Office Building, Room 209, by all those who served with the division between Nov. 1 and Dec. 15, 1950.

Line drawings illustrate the ten pages of descriptive material which is dedicated "to those who were there." The account is derived from official records and from combat correspondents who saw the smashing marine drive through Chinese hordes blocking icy mountain passes.

Sgt. Awkerman also annonuced a new short-term enlistment program for the Marine Corps that enables qualified applicants to enter the marines for a period of 24 months. Until recently, the marines only accepted men under a three and four year enlistment period. With the new short-term enlistment program, enlistees can be accepted for a two, three or four year period. Sgt. Awkerman is quoted as saying, "Young men that have obligated military service ahead will find this new short-term program beneficial to their future plans, military and civilian."

Helicopters to Aid Search

Beaumont, Tex. (AP) — Two little "aircraft carriers" are being built here for use in off-shore oil explorations. One is a former military craft. Both will be small ships built so that helicopters can land on the aft portion. The Gulf Oil Corp. expects to save money by sending men and supplies via the helicopters to crews at work in the gulf. The usual method is by small boats.

Play for Stakes and Have Fun

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please settle a problem that stumps us in Cut-Throat Canasta," requests a San Francisco reader. "Three of us play the game very often, but our enjoyment is spoiled by the fact that one of the players persists in grabbing the discard pile before it's really worth much.

"As a result, she is usually the big loser, which doesn't bother her at all since we don't play for any stake.

"What burns us up is that we never get a chance ourselves to take a discard pile. We'd like to do that once in a while, but she always gets there first.

"What can we do about this?"

This is the sort of problem that may plague players of many games. The same thing often happens in contract bridge when a player persists in overbidding, just because he or she wants to play all of the hands. It happens in pinochle, when a bidder refuses to be outbid. It happens in poker, when a player refuses to be driven out of a pot.

The problem is usually settled by playing for a stake. The player who won't let the others have a fair share of the fun is a sure loser, and the other players have all the fun when the time comes to pay up.

When the players prefer not to have a stake, there must be a spirit of give and take on all sides. Each player must act as though he or she really cared about the number of points won or lost. If you don't take a game seriously enough for that, you spoil the fun of the other players.

It should be enough to point out that simple fact. If a player persists in her bad habits even though she knows that she is spoiling the game for the other players, the only remedy is to stop playing with her. The only reason for playing game is to have fun; and if somebody spoils that fun, the game is just a waste of time.

Q—Suppose that a player has only one card in his hand. Is he ever, under any circumstances, permitted to take a discard pile that consists of only one card?

A—No; never. In the original rules, this was permitted after the stock pile had been exhausted, but the rule was changed several years ago. Under the present rules a player with only one card may never take a one-card discard pile.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked question in his column.

To Manufacture Tires

Manila (AP) — The Philippines will start manufacturing automobile tires early in 1953. Hermogenes Jacinto, vice-president of Jacinto Rubber and Plastics Inc., announced his concern would set up a $500,000 tire-producing plant. American and Japanese technicians will serve as advisers. Jacinto said $100,000 worth of equipment purchased in the United States is enroute for the new plant.

And Now, the H-Bomb

By FRANK TRIPP

"I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last." Yet man tinkers toward his doom. Civilization moves toward its Omega. A to H—how long to Z? When the Great Destruction? This is a parable:

Once upon a time there was a headstrong son who was educated out from under the influence of his father. He learned so much and became so wise that he set about to rationalize all that was about him — to belittle the works of his father.

The father was an inventor — a creator. He had conjured many things of beauty and utility. His devices were known to all mankind.

He was benefactor of the wide world. Yet countless millions gave him neither credit nor gratitude—in fact millions discredited him. Some ridiculed him.

IT CAME to pass that his own son joined the scoffers, set himself up as critic and proclaimed his father a conjurer of phantoms, the author of a bizarre philosophy.

He vowed that much his father had given to the world approached humbug, that he had played upon the superstitions of the gullible, fooled them as by magic and withheld simple scientific answers to seeming miracles.

THE SON set about to duplicate explainably, and make commonplace, all of the wonders achieved by his father—and on a production basis. He entered upon a gigantic program to "debunk the world."

As time went on the son was able to recreate in his laboratory, and before the eyes of man, much of the handiwork of his father.

Never quite so profoundly or well but with sufficiency to raise doubt, even in the minds of some of his father's most loyal followers.

The father's legion was slipping. His concept became mythology to those who accepted the son's test tube answers.

HOWEVER, there was one formula which the father had hidden well. Its diabolical potentialities were so horrifying that the father had never assembled its elements into the destructive force he knew them to possess.

This devastating secret baffled the son. Until one day he pieced together the atoms of energy which his father had concealed in order that mankind might endure.

THEN, of a sudden, the sphere upon which man lived blasted into myriads of celestial meteors and whirled into space—for eternity.

Man could not control his own creation. His creation? No, he had created nothing—only meddled to his own destruction.

THE FATHER looked down upon His willful son. He had suffered him to conquer darkness, swim under the seas, fly the stratosphere, talk through space, prolong life. He had encouraged his very useful research—and rebuked him not for centuries.

The Father had obscured to the last the secret of the Great Destruction—until, in His wisdom, the civilization which His tolerance had preserved staggered beyond redemption.

Man, by his own deeds, became not worth saving—nor the synthetic world in which he lived. The son had ventured where the Father did not dare to tread.

The earth and all that once lived upon it were no more.

Play for Stakes and Have Fun

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please settle a problem that stumps us in Cut-Throat Canasta," requests a San Francisco reader. "Three of us play the game very often, but our enjoyment is spoiled by the fact that one of the players persists in grabbing the discard pile before it's really worth much.

"As a result, she is usually the big loser, which doesn't bother her at all since we don't play for any stake.

"What burns us up is that we never get a chance ourselves to take a discard pile. We'd like to do that once in a while, but she always gets there first.

"What can we do about this?"

This is the sort of problem that may plague players of many games. The same thing often happens in contract bridge when a player persists in overbidding, just because he or she wants to play all of the hands. It happens in pinochle, when a bidder refuses to be outbid. It happens in poker, when a player refuses to be driven out of a pot.

And Now, the H-Bomb

By FRANK TRIPP

"I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last." Yet man tinkers toward his doom. Civilization moves toward its Omega. A to H—how long to Z? When the Great Destruction? This is a parable:

Once upon a time there was a headstrong son who was educated out from under the influence of his father. He learned so much and became so wise that he set about to rationalize all that was about him — to belittle the works of his father.

The father was an inventor — a creator. He had conjured many things of beauty and utility. His devices were known to all mankind.

He was benefactor of the wide world. Yet countless millions gave him neither credit nor gratitude—in fact millions discredited him. Some ridiculed him.

IT CAME to pass that his own son joined the scoffers, set himself up as critic and proclaimed his father a conjurer of phantoms, the author of a bizarre philosophy.

He vowed that much his father had given to the world approached humbug, that he had played upon the superstitions of the gullible, fooled them as by magic and withheld simple scientific answers to seeming miracles.

THE SON set about to duplicate explainably, and make commonplace, all of the wonders achieved by his father—and on a production basis. He entered upon a gigantic program to "debunk the world."

As time went on the son was able to recreate in his laboratory, and before the eyes of man, much of the handiwork of his father.

Never quite so profoundly or well but with sufficiency to raise doubt, even in the minds of some of his father's most loyal followers.

The father's legion was slipping. His concept became mythology to those who accepted the son's test tube answers.

HOWEVER, there was one formula which the father had hidden well. Its diabolical potentialities were so horrifying that the father had never assembled its elements into the destructive force he knew them to possess.

This devastating secret baffled the son. Until one day he pieced together the atoms of energy which his father had concealed in order that mankind might endure.

THEN, of a sudden, the sphere upon which man lived blasted into myriads of celestial meteors and whirled into space—for eternity.

Man could not control his own creation. His creation? No, he had created nothing—only meddled to his own destruction.

THE FATHER looked down upon His willful son. He had suffered him to conquer darkness, swim under the seas, fly the stratosphere, talk through space, prolong life. He had encouraged his very useful research—and rebuked him not for centuries.

The Father had obscured to the last the secret of the Great Destruction—until, in His wisdom, the civilization which His tolerance had preserved staggered beyond redemption.

Man, by his own deeds, became not worth saving—nor the synthetic world in which he lived. The son had ventured where the Father did not dare to tread.

The earth and all that once lived upon it were no more.

Coach House Players Approve Additional Directors at Meeting

The regular meeting of the Coach House Players was held on Thursday at 8 p. m. at the coach house on Augusta street. A proposal to amend the constitution to increase the number of directors from five to nine, was presented to the membership and nominations given. The election will take place at a future meeting.

Tess Lloyd, Margaret Mellert, and Mrs. Raymond Gross, chairmen of program, refreshment and costume committees respectively, gave their reports.

Following the business meeting a few members of the Coach House presented skits as entertainment for the Players, the first skit being, Millie and Tillie in New York, a comedy about two sisters fresh from the country who go to the city to make good, with Joan Woinoski and Maureen Rice; and Meet Mrs. Stuckopf, with Virginia Bagshaw, Maureen Rice and Joan Woinoski, a skit about two women of opposite social standings who attended the same grade school together and who meet unexpectedly many years later under rather strained and unusual circumstances.

Entertainment has been planned for each meeting. Refreshments were served by Margaret Mellert between skits.

Reflects Credit

It was announced that George Betts, member of the local organization, has been appointed to the nominating committee, New York State Community Theatre Association. In making the announcement, Irving Rose, president of the Players, noted that the appointment "reflected credit to the Coach House Players." Mrs. Raymond Gross also is a member of the state organization.

Mr. Betts was notified of his appointment by Ken Sebring, president, New York State Community Association, who said he was selected "because of his outstanding accomplishment and great interest in community theatre."

County 4-H Girls Score in Pie Baking Contest

Three 4-H members in Ulster county received ribbons at the pie baking contest held Thursday morning in conjunction with the annual New York State Horticultural Society's show in the armory on Manor avenue. Nancy Ellsworth of Port Ewen, left, received a blue ribbon in the cherry pie contest. According to reports, Nancy was given a blue ribbon because her pie "rated better than second place." Enid Goetchius of Hurley (center) baked an excellent currant pie which won a red ribbon, while Faith Bersback (right) also of Hurley, was honored with a white ribbon for her delicious apple pie. (Freeman photo)

Polio Show Committee Lists Added Features For Tonight's Event

Among the features on the program tonight at 8 o'clock for the variety show at Kingston High School auditorium to raise money for the March of Dimes will be solos by Tony Amato, young Kingston television star, and Negro spirituals by the Progressive Gospel Five from the Rev. L. A. Weaver's Progressive Baptist Church.

Amato will sing in the act furnished by the Marion and Sally School of Dancing, doing numbers that popularized him on radio and television.

The Progressive Gospel Five, all students at Kingston High School, two of them seniors, have developed a technique of their own, according to their pastor, which has pleased audiences in Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Albany and other communities where they have played engagements.

Members of the group are Maggie Jackson, pianist and second soprano; Martha Williams, first soprano, and leader; Joan Brown, first soprano; Joyce Neal, first contralto and Minnie Burris, second contralto.

Senator Lehman Attacks Czech Trials

Senator Herbert H. Lehman last week warned more than 500 delegates at the 38th annual meeting of the Joint Distribution Committee, major American agency aiding distressed Jews abroad, that "the recent trials in Prague serve notice that Israel and Zionism are to be made pawns in the internal and external power play of Communist imperialism.

"As Americans, we are threatened in our vital interests, chief among which are peace, security and stability everywhere. As Jews, we must be deeply moved by this new menace to those of our common faith, both in Israel and behind the Iron Curtain."

In addition to Senator Lehman, who is an honorary chairman of the JDC, the delegates also heard Edward M. M. Warburg, JDC chairman and general chairman of the United Jewish Appeal; Moses A. Leavitt, JDC executive vice-chairman; Moses W. Beckelman, JDC director-general for overseas operations; and Judge Maurice Bernon of Cleveland, chairman of JDC's National Council.

Celebrates 89th Birthday

Mrs. Anna Porter of Bloomington is celebrating her 89th birthday today. At a recent meeting of the Missionary Society of the Bloomington Reformed Church, Mrs. Porter was honored by the members and presented with a birthday cake.

Mrs. Porter has received special commendation from members of the society for the "beautiful patch work quilts," she made for gift boxes sent to mission stations.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Nilan of Port Ewen, and their children, Donna Mae and Eugene, recently motored to Milford, Pa., where they joined her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vandenburg, to celebrate the fifth birthday of Donna Mae at a dinner in the Hotel Fauchere. Mrs. Nilan also entertained for her daughter, at a party attended by kindergarten pupils of school 13, Port Ewen.

REFILLING DISH BAD PRACTICE

Again I am asked to settle a family argument. This time it is: "When returning a dish to a neighbor who has sent something she made over to us, is it not proper to return the dish to her with something on it? In my opinion, returning an empty dish is very unappreciative of your neighbor's kindness. Your comment on this will be appreciated."

If you happen to have something that you have just baked and want to send it to her, that is quite all right. But the correct practice is to send back the empty dish and then some day when you have something special to send her, you send it at that time.

Announcing New Wedding Date

Dear Mrs. Post: I was to be married this Saturday but due to an automobile accident a week ago in which my brother was seriously injured, my wedding was postponed. We have been told by his doctor that he should be fully recovered in about six weeks. Will you please tell me the correct way to notify our friends and relatives of the new wedding date? Formal invitations were sent out previously.

Answer: Merely send out cards reading:

Miss Mary Jones
and
Mr. Henry Smith will now take place on Saturday, March 7th
at one o'clock
St. Mary's Church

Position of Napkin

Dear Mrs. Post: In our home-economics class the other day, the question of how the napkin should be placed came up for discussion. Some of the girls thought the folded edge of the napkin should be placed toward the plate and others thought the open edge should be toward the plate. Will you please tell us which is the correct way?

Answer: If it has embroidered monogram or initials, then it has to be put down so that this marking is on top, and right side up! If it is not marked, the open edge is away from the plate, but it is not very important and you may place it whichever way you think it looks best.

Freeman Social Club Holds 38th Annual Banquet at SRS Home

More than 50 members and guests of the Freeman Social Club attended the 38th annual banquet, Saturday evening in the SRS Home, Cottekill. Roland Post, president, welcomed the large group. Joseph Kelly, assistant city editor, Kingston Daily Freeman, and alderman-at-large, served as master of ceremonies. Harry Maisenhelder and his orchestra played for dancing.

Participating in the entertainment program presented during the evening, were Robert Saehloff in Rhymin Time; Robert Carl Fisher, novelty tap dance with rope; Max Wunderlich, piano accordion stylist; and Mehm and Bunce, TV stars, in exceptional acrobatics.

The banquet committee included Knute Beichert, Joe Huber and Walter J. Scharp.

Tribute to Charter Member

A fitting tribute in memory of Arthur J. Carroll was given by Mr. Post when he said, "Art, as he was best known, has been called from his labors here. Cheerful, jovial, even to the end, he will be remembered by all as a good companion, a loyal friend and fellow worker. His sudden passing has saddened all who knew him." Mr. Carroll, a charter member of the organization, died Thursday.

Freeman Social Club Holds 38th Annual Banquet at SRS Home

More than 50 members and guests of the Freeman Social Club attended the 38th annual banquet, Saturday evening in the SRS Home, Cottekill. Roland Post, president, welcomed the large group. Joseph Kelly, assistant city editor, Kingston Daily Freeman, and alderman-at-large, served as master of ceremonies. Harry Maisenhelder and his orchestra played for dancing.

Participating in the entertainment program presented during the evening, were Robert Saehloff in Rhymin Time; Robert Carl Fisher, novelty tap dance with rope; Max Wunderlich, piano accordion stylist; and Mehm and Bunce, TV stars, in exceptional acrobatics.

The banquet committee included Knute Beichert, Joe Huber and Walter J. Scharp.

Tribute to Charter Member

A fitting tribute in memory of Arthur J. Carroll was given by Mr. Post when he said, "Art, as he was best known, has been called from his labors here. Cheerful, jovial, even to the end, he will be remembered by all as a good companion, a loyal friend and fellow worker. His sudden passing has saddened all who knew him." Mr. Carroll, a charter member of the organization, died Thursday.

Marine Corps League Ball Attracts 400, Aids Local Boys Club

Peter J. Mancuso, commandant, Marine Corps League expressed appreciation to the more than 400 persons in attendance at the organization's seventh annual ball, Saturday night in the Elks Club. The Kingston Boys Club shares in the proceeds.

Music for dancing was supplied by Speed Scherer and his orchestra with Bill Livingston as vocalist. As an added attraction, Tony Amato sang special numbers with the orchestra.

Entertainers participating in the gala floor show were enthusiastically received by the large audience. Dorothy Wenzel was a popular singing and dancing emcee. Miss Wenzel recently returned to this country after entertaining the troops in Korea. Ann Barrette, the attractive, dynamic and vivacious comedienne, star of stage and screen, also proved a great favorite.

Another highlight of the evening's entertainment was Raymond Chase, Wizard of the Concertina, who presented specially arranged popular and semi-classic selections, interspersed with musical stories. He had a great fund of humorous material, and the audience enjoyed participation. The skill of the Zemba trio in its acrobatic routines was outstanding.

2,000 Are Homeless

Hong Kong, Jan. 26 (AP)—A fierce six-hour blaze swept through the ramshackle refugee village of Tsai, in Kowloon, today, leaving more than 2,000 Chinese homeless. Some 400 squatters huts were destroyed. Eight persons received minor injuries. Firemen battled in a heavy fog to bring the flames under control. It was the second big fire this year in the wood and straw villages of the British-held strip of Chinese mainland across from Hong Kong. The makeshift settlements house refugees from Communist China.

Huge Gifts Total Given

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—All philanthropic gifts and bequests made in the United States during 1952 are estimated to have totaled more than $4,300,000,000. The John Price Jones Company Inc., New York fund raising and public relations consulants, made this estimate yesterday when it released the results of its 22nd annual survey of philanthropy in 10 major American cities.

Celebrates Birthday

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur celebrates his 73rd birthday today, and staff members of his wartime southwest Pacific command are planning a private dinner for him tonight at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. An aide said the former Far East commander would spend the day working "as usual" in his job as chairman of Remington Rand, Inc.

Frustration Is Blamed

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Loneliness and thwarted ambition, police theorize, led to the death of John C. Montgomery. The 41-year-old State Department official was found hanged early Saturday by Washington attorney A. Marvin Braverman in the home they shared. Dr. A. Magruder McDonald, District of Columbia coroner, announced yesterday he would issue a certificate of suicide.

ON BRIDGE JACOBY

Use Imagination In Bridge Game

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Monday is bridge lesson day, and as usual I will discuss bidding according to the point-count method so that beginners and average players can see how the experts bid. Just in case you're not familiar with the point-count, here it is: count 4 points for each ace in your hand; 3 for each king; 2 for each queen; 1 for each jack.

There are 10 points in each suit, and 40 points in the entire deck. You and your partner usually need 26 points to make a game; 33 points for a small slam; 37 for a grand slam.

North's redouble in today's hand shows more than 10 points and promises that North will either double the opponents or find an aggressive bid later on. South is not interested in a penalty double, so he shows his second long suit while it is still cheap to do so.

Note that North raises hearts even though he has much stronger diamonds than hearts. The chief reason is that the same tricks must be lost at either suit. North would rather encourage a ten-trick game at hearts than an eleven-trick game at diamonds.

The correct play takes some care and a little ingenuity. West opens the king of spades and continues the suit, forcing South to ruff. Now South must take his ten tricks in the red suits, since West's strong bidding makes it evident that South's king of clubs will never win a trick.

If South simply draws four rounds of trumps, he can then run dummy's top diamonds but will be unable to get back to his own hand for the remaining two diamonds. How should South provide for the 4-1 trump break and still run all of the diamonds?

After ruffing the second spade, South draws one round of trumps with the ace and another with the jack. Then he abandons the trumps, on seeing that the suit breaks 4-1. He switches to diamonds, cashing only the ace and king of that suit.

Now, and only now, can declarer return to the trumps. He leads dummy's queen of hearts and overtakes with his own king in order to lead the ten of hearts for the fourth round of trumps. Dummy discards the queen of diamonds on the fourth trump. Now South can cash the jack of diamonds and take the two remaining diamond tricks to make his game contract.

Rita Keeps Quiet On Divorce Today

Reno, Jan. 26 (AP)—A solemn Rita Hayworth, who maintains she has no romantic plans, gets her Nevada divorce today from Aly Khan, playboy Moslem prince she married after a whirlwind, globe-girdling courtship in 1949.

The one time dancer turned glamorous movie queen said she expects to take her and Aly's 3-year-old daughter Yasmin to the Washoe county court hearing tentatively set for 11 a. m. (2 p. m., EST.)

She declined to smile for photographers. She wouldn't discuss either the divorce or Aly, sport-loving son of the fabulously-rich Aga Khan.

Jackson Leighter, Rita's business manager who accompanied her from Hollywood, explained:

"She feels that is in poor taste—a matter to be discussed only with the court."

He added that no financial settlement has been reached with Aly concerning Yasmin, for whom Rita once asked three million dollars. But he said the possibility of a future settlement for the child is still open.

"Miss Hayworth, of course, never has requested anything for herself," Leighter declared.

Rita, who made her film debut as a Spanish dancer under her parents' name of Cansino, qualified for the divorce more than a year ago by establishing the six-week Nevada residence at a rented home overlooking Lake Tahoe.

She separated from Aly less than two years after they were married at his French Mediterranean villa in May, 1949. The romance—and subsequent domestic troubles—made news around the world.

Returns to Korea

With U. S. Second Division, Korea, Jan. 26 (AP)—A young lieutenant who underwent a rare operation to have his forefinger grafted in place of a blown off thumb is back in Korea. Orlando Campisi, 28, Waltham, Mass., lost his right thumb when wounded for the third time in Korea in the 1951 fighting for Bloody Ridge. He was sent to a stateside hospital where he requested the unusual operation. Doctors reworked the bones and muscles of his right hand so the forefinger replaced the thumb and gave the hand normal dexterity and control.

Prominent Russian Dies

Moscow, Jan. 26 (AP)—Pravda reported today the death of the Soviet Union's deputy minister of ferrous metallurgy, Bagrat Nikolaevich Arutyunov. The Communist party organ said he died Saturday after a long illness.

Artcraft Theft Is Investigated

Entrance was gained through a rear window and about $100 in cash was taken. Detectives Clarence Brophy and Frank Sammons, have been investigating. It was indicated that some of the shop's stock might have been taken, but this will not be determined until completion of an inventory.

Golf Ball Kills Boy

Denounces Reds, Artist Asks His Pictures Removed

Artist Paul Meltsner, of Woodstock and New York, protesting the "outrageous anti-Semetic turn of events" in Russia, has asked the Soviet government to remove his pictures from a Moscow museum, the Associated Press said today.

Meltsner's series of 15 pictures of U. S. industrial scenes is the largest single collection of work by an American artist in Moscow's museum of modern western art, which has been closed since 1945 for "repairs."

The artist asked the removal of his works as "a cultural protest" to the Soviet government in a letter to the Russian ambassador to Washington, Georgi N. Zarubin. The letter was released here yesterday by the anti-defamation league of B'nai B'rith, Jewish fraternal organization.

Crater Lake, Ore., was discovered in 1853.

Marine Corps League Ball Attracts 400, Aids Local Boys Club

Peter J. Mancuso, commandant, Marine Corps League expressed appreciation to the more than 400 persons in attendance at the organization's seventh annual ball, Saturday night in the Elks Club. The Kingston Boys Club shares in the proceeds.

Music for dancing was supplied by Speed Scherer and his orchestra with Bill Livingston as vocalist. As an added attraction, Tony Amato sang special numbers with the orchestra.

Entertainers participating in the gala floor show were enthusiastically received by the large audience. Dorothy Wenzel was a popular singing and dancing emcee. Miss Wenzel recently returned to this country after entertaining the troops in Korea. Ann Barrette, the attractive, dynamic and vivacious comedienne, star of stage and screen, also proved a great favorite.

Another highlight of the evening's entertainment was Raymond Chase, Wizard of the Concertina, who presented specially arranged popular and semi-classic selections, interspersed with musical stories. He had a great fund of humorous material, and the audience enjoyed participation. The skill of the Zemba trio in its acrobatic routines was outstanding.

2,000 Are Homeless

Hong Kong, Jan. 26 (AP)—A fierce six-hour blaze swept through the ramshackle refugee village of Tsai, in Kowloon, today, leaving more than 2,000 Chinese homeless. Some 400 squatters huts were destroyed. Eight persons received minor injuries. Firemen battled in a heavy fog to bring the flames under control. It was the second big fire this year in the wood and straw villages of the British-held strip of Chinese mainland across from Hong Kong. The makeshift settlements house refugees from Communist China.

Huge Gifts Total Given

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—All philanthropic gifts and bequests made in the United States during 1952 are estimated to have totaled more than $4,300,000,000. The John Price Jones Company Inc., New York fund raising and public relations consulants, made this estimate yesterday when it released the results of its 22nd annual survey of philanthropy in 10 major American cities.

Celebrates Birthday

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur celebrates his 73rd birthday today, and staff members of his wartime southwest Pacific command are planning a private dinner for him tonight at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. An aide said the former Far East commander would spend the day working "as usual" in his job as chairman of Remington Rand, Inc.

Frustration Is Blamed

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Loneliness and thwarted ambition, police theorize, led to the death of John C. Montgomery. The 41-year-old State Department official was found hanged early Saturday by Washington attorney A. Marvin Braverman in the home they shared. Dr. A. Magruder McDonald, District of Columbia coroner, announced yesterday he would issue a certificate of suicide.

Start the Day Right

...without After-Breakfast Slump

Why start the day feeling dull and logey because of too much acid churning in your stomach? Just 1 or 2 Tums, eaten after breakfast will pull you out of that "after-breakfast slump"—put you back on top of the world again. Tums quickly neutralize excess acid. Contain no soda to over-alkalize or cause acid rebound. No mixing, no water needed. Just eat like candy. Always keep Tums handy for record-fast relief from acid stomach.

ON BRIDGE JACOBY

Use Imagination In Bridge Game

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Monday is bridge lesson day, and as usual I will discuss bidding according to the point-count method so that beginners and average players can see how the experts bid. Just in case you're not familiar with the point-count, here it is: count 4 points for each ace in your hand; 3 for each king; 2 for each queen; 1 for each jack.

There are 10 points in each suit, and 40 points in the entire deck. You and your partner usually need 26 points to make a game; 33 points for a small slam; 37 for a grand slam.

North's redouble in today's hand shows more than 10 points and promises that North will either double the opponents or find an aggressive bid later on. South is not interested in a penalty double, so he shows his second long suit while it is still cheap to do so.

Note that North raises hearts even though he has much stronger diamonds than hearts. The chief reason is that the same tricks must be lost at either suit. North would rather encourage a ten-trick game at hearts than an eleven-trick game at diamonds.

The correct play takes some care and a little ingenuity. West opens the king of spades and continues the suit, forcing South to ruff. Now South must take his ten tricks in the red suits, since West's strong bidding makes it evident that South's king of clubs will never win a trick.

NORTH 26

If South simply draws four rounds of trumps, he can then run dummy's top diamonds but will be unable to get back to his own hand for the remaining two diamonds. How should South provide for the 4-1 trump break and still run all of the diamonds?

After ruffing the second spade, South draws one round of trumps with the ace and another with the jack. Then he abandons the trumps, on seeing that the suit breaks 4-1. He switches to diamonds, cashing only the ace and king of that suit.

Now, and only now, can declarer return to the trumps. He leads dummy's queen of hearts and overtakes with his own king in order to lead the ten of hearts for the fourth round of trumps. Dummy discards the queen of diamonds on the fourth trump. Now South can cash the jack of diamonds and take the two remaining diamond tricks to make his game contract.

Rita Keeps Quiet On Divorce Today

Reno, Jan. 26 (AP)—A solemn Rita Hayworth, who maintains she has no romantic plans, gets her Nevada divorce today from Aly Khan, playboy Moslem prince she married after a whirlwind, globe-girdling courtship in 1949.

The one time dancer turned glamorous movie queen said she expects to take her and Aly's 3-year-old daughter Yasmin to the Washoe county court hearing tentatively set for 11 a. m. (2 p. m., EST.)

She declined to smile for photographers. She wouldn't discuss either the divorce or Aly, sport-loving son of the fabulously-rich Aga Khan.

Jackson Leighter, Rita's business manager who accompanied her from Hollywood, explained:

"She feels that is in poor taste—a matter to be discussed only with the court."

He added that no financial settlement has been reached with Aly concerning Yasmin, for whom Rita once asked three million dollars. But he said the possibility of a future settlement for the child is still open.

"Miss Hayworth, of course, never has requested anything for herself," Leighter declared.

Rita, who made her film debut as a Spanish dancer under her parents' name of Cansino, qualified for the divorce more than a year ago by establishing the six-week Nevada residence at a rented home overlooking Lake Tahoe.

She separated from Aly less than two years after they were married at his French Mediterranean villa in May, 1949. The romance—and subsequent domestic troubles—made news around the world.

Returns to Korea

With U. S. Second Division, Korea, Jan. 26 (AP)—A young lieutenant who underwent a rare operation to have his forefinger grafted in place of a blown off thumb is back in Korea. Orlando Campisi, 28, Waltham, Mass., lost his right thumb when wounded for the third time in Korea in the 1951 fighting for Bloody Ridge. He was sent to a stateside hospital where he requested the unusual operation. Doctors reworked the bones and muscles of his right hand so the forefinger replaced the thumb and gave the hand normal dexterity and control.

Denounces Reds, Artist Asks His Pictures Removed

Artist Paul Meltsner, of Woodstock and New York, protesting the "outrageous anti-Semetic turn of events" in Russia, has asked the Soviet government to remove his pictures from a Moscow museum, the Associated Press said today.

Meltsner's series of 15 pictures of U. S. industrial scenes is the largest single collection of work by an American artist in Moscow's museum of modern western art, which has been closed since 1945 for "repairs."

The artist asked the removal of his works as "a cultural protest" to the Soviet government in a letter to the Russian ambassador to Washington, Georgi N. Zarubin. The letter was released here yesterday by the anti-defamation league of B'nai B'rith, Jewish fraternal organization.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

"Uncle Mike" Jacobs, the former boxing monarch who passed away at 73 in Miami Beach Friday, helped catapult Harry Markson, of the local Markson family, into the boxing spotlight.

On the other hand, erudite, dignified Harry Markson served as Uncle Mike's good right bower in the boom days of the 20th Century Sporting Club. Theirs was a beautiful friendship and affinity that served both well.

Jacobs spotted Markson when Harry was on the staff of the Bronx Home News, an intra-borough sheet of great popularity at that time. Harry's ability to make friends with other scribes insured Jacobs' promotion a solid "press" in New York where hard bitten pros of the ringside are often rough in their evaluation of the average press agent. Mike knew a good man when he saw one.

Harry was always several cuts above the average tub thumper. A college man, he brought dignity to a belabored profession and prospered under Jacobs. He started as press agent for 20th Century and after Jacobs sold out to Jim Norris and company he was made director of the International Boxing Club.

The fine press relations that Markson set up for Uncle Mike during the 20th Century days were carried over to the IBC. Even on days of big fights, when the narrow corridors of the IBC headquarters are crammed with ring personalities, quaint characters and big wheels, director Markson is never too busy to give a few minutes to a visiting fireman.

Harry served Jacobs well and in turn gained a heritage that made him an honored man in the much maligned boxing profession.

Boxing history will rate Uncle Mike Jacobs among the titans of promotion. He was rivalled only by Tex Rickard. Jim Norris is the giant of today but he has a valuable weapon going for him—TV. There was none in the days of Rickard and Jacobs.

"Uncle Mike" was a promotional genius full of contradictions. When the advance sale for a big fistic venture was "going good," he argued and snarled at anyone within range; when business was slow he was as pleasant as Santa Claus.

His colorful career stretched all the way from raising flowers to operating a river excursion steamboat line; from real estate speculation to managing a concert tour for Enrico Caruso, the greatest tenor in history. Once he arranged a speaking tour for Emily Pankhurst, noted British suffragette.

Jacobs had an uncanny knack of making money with almost any kind of venture. When Caruso decided to make a concert tour, Mike offered him $10,000 a night for ten nights in ten towns. His profit was $80,000.

When Dempsey and Luis Firpo of the Argentine fought at the Polo Grounds in 1923, Mike sat on a policeman's horse selling tickets until the fight started.

His "store teeth" were a tradition in that mid-town New York neighborhood named "Jacobs Beach" after him. A strange contradiction in personality, he preferred the prize-winning roses and tulips he grew on his Rumson, N. J. estate to the power he wielded in the boxing world. He would rather have his friends praise his cooking than to swing a million-dollar championship.

It was always Mike's boast that his office was "under my hat." But there was plenty under that scalp.

First Goldback Loss Possibility

While Kingston High faces a powerful Beacon High quintet Tuesday night at the municipal auditorium, a major DUSO League battle will have been resolved that afternoon in Poughkeepsie.

Newburgh Academy's undefeated Goldbacks (6-0) will be seeking their 29th straight victory in the cramped Bridge City gym where many a basketball heart has been broken over the years.

Sam Kalloch's Blues are tied with Kingston at 4 wins and 2 losses each and if ever a team was "up" for a game, you can bet on the Blues Tuesday.

Want This One

The portly "Coach of the Year" had been pointing for Kingston and Newburgh since the basketball campaign got under way. He already has triumphed over the Maroon and now awaits the Goldbacks who could run into serious trouble. The last outing of NFA against Kingston proved the conference champions are merely mortals when real pressure is applied.

Meanwhile, Coach G. Warren Kias can't afford to take the Beacon squad too lightly. The southern Dutchess quintet has a 4-3 record, having knocked off Liberty, 61-39, Friday night at home and in none of the three setbacks were the Beaconites outclassed. They gave NFA a rugged battle and were shaded by Middletown on the Middies court.

Corny Saddler and Pearly Watkins are big threats in the Beacon lineup. Watkins connected for 24 points against Liberty.

Kingston counts on Bill DuBois regaining his home court form against Beacon. The set-shooting ace has found the Broadway boards a scoring paradise this season, but strangely enough hasn't had much luck in road trips.

There is no change planned in the Maroon starting array of Skipper Brodhead, George Telepas, Dick Beezmer, who was a standout performer against Mickey "The Marvel" Burkowski, DuBois and Bill Haber.

In other DUSO engagements, Middletown visits Port Jervis; Ellenville is at Fallsburgh; and Liberty travels to Monticello.

Villanova Wildcats Primed For NC State and Seton Hall

Have Good Chance To Crash Top 10

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Villanova, first on nobody's list of the best college basketball teams, will have a lot to say this week about who does top the rankings.

The Wildcats from the Philadelphia suburbs tangle Wednesday night with North Carolina State, eighth in last week's Associated Press poll. And on Saturday they meet Seton Hall, the nation's No. 1 club and the only major undefeated team.

Seton Hall hasn't had a real good test since it took sole possession of the unbeaten ranks two weeks ago by pasting Fordham. Villanova with its respectable 11-4 record will be no easy hurdle, especially since the game marks one of Seton Hall's infrequent trips away from its South Orange, N. J. campus.

Philadelphia will be the scene of another of the top games this week when fifth ranking La Salle plays Eastern Kentucky, No. 18, on Saturday night.

Schedule Light

The week's choice contests generally are few and far between since many of the squads still are engaged in mid-year exams.

Oklahoma A. and M., No. 7, takes on Wichita Wednesday and Tulsa Saturday. Third-ranking University of Washington travels to Hawaii for three games — Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Fouth-ranking Kansas State meets Iowa State in a Big Seven conference game Saturday and Fordham, No. 10, engages St. John's of Brooklyn Thursday and Yale on Saturday.

Dayton edged Duquesne, 68-66, in two overtimes; Houston beat Tulsa, 61-56; St. Louis defeated Detroit, 92-88, in one extra period; North Carolina edged NC State, 70-69; Washington made it two in a row over Washington State, 60-48, and Kansas State thumped Missouri, 94-85, in some of the other top games Saturday.

The conference races around the country didn't change much during the week. Texas gained sole possession of the lead in the Southwest Conference by the simple method of not playing any league games. Oklahoma A. and M. did the same in the Missouri Valley.

The other races in the major conferences which will automatically qualify their winners for the N.C.A.A., tournaments look like this:

Big Ten—Indiana (8-0), running easily in front but Kansas (3-2) and Kansas State (1-1) remain in contention.

Skyline Six — Wyoming (7-1) well ahead.

Pacific Coast—Washington (8-0) all the way in the Northern division; California (5-1) the power in the Southern.

Southeast—Louisiana State (5-0) the standout here.

Southern—North Carolina (11-1) coasting now until the conference tournament.

Ivy—Cornell (4-0) on top. No competition last week or this.

Rocky Mountain—Idaho State (5-0) takes the week off to let the rest of the schools catch up.

Dick Groat's highest scoring game at Duke came in his final home game when he scored 48 points against North Carolina.

Wiltwycks, Angels Win

Lincoln Park Inn, 50 Club Victims

Favorites continued to dominate second half action in the YMCA Basketball League Saturday, with Harry's high powered Angels, drubbing Lincoln Park Inn, 91-52, and Wiltwyck Motors running over the 50 Club, 74-51.

50 Club put up a semblance of resistance against Wiltwycks, trailing 30-24 at halftime, but the Angels broke the game apart with a 26-9 first period blast against Lincoln Park.

George Carpouzis bucketed 27 points and Big Bill East hit 20 for the Angels, who led 45-28 at the half and gained a 46-24 edge after intermission.

Bob Beaumont rimmed 16 points with Champ Holstein and Orrin Smith getting 12 each for the Angels. George Glaser's 14 sparked the Lincolns and Frank Sass tallied 10.

Klein Sinks 25

Big Bill Kleine's 25 markers and 13 by Cliff Schoonmaker highlighted Wiltwycks' conquest of the 50 Club. Ronnie Brandt and Don Smith racked up 16 and 10 for the 50 Club.

Local Sharpies Pound 2665 at Bowlodrome

Rose Schatzel fired a 626 series and the Dutch Rathskeller keglerettes toppled a hefty 2665 triple to trounce the Kingston Lumber quintet by 290 pins Saturday at the Bowlodrome.

The Rathskeller lassies pounded 851, 927 and 887 in the first half of a home-and-home series which resumes next Saturday at the Central Recs. The Lumberettes posted 2375.

Mrs. Schatzel knocked off 191-205 and 230 in the leadoff spot, with Jessie Burnett and Marge Jansen contributing heavily to the victory. Mrs. Burnett anchored with 222-569; Mrs. Jansen posted 203-548 and Kay Brodhead furnished 513.

None of the Lumberettes crashed the "500" circle, with Ada Markle's 494 and Eleanor Singer's 491 getting top honors for the losers.

Nats' Skein Shattered

(By The Associated Press)

All good things must come to an end—and last night the New York Knickerbockers put a halt to one of the best things in the National Basketball Association.

The Syracuse Nationals saw their nine-game winning streak snapped by the Knicks and also had their 20-game home-floor unbeaten skein shattered. The Knicks, by defeating the Nats 97-62, moved to within one game of league-leading Syracuse in the Eastern Division.

New York broke the contest open in the first period, taking a 22-7 lead. The Knicks built their advantage to 49-21 at halftime, and from there it was smooth sailing.

Worst Loss

The setback was the worst ever suffered by Syracuse.

Harry Gallatin with 22 and Max Zaslofsky with 21 points paced the Knicks, who hit a sizzling 49.2 per cent of their shots from the floor—34 of 69.

The Minneapolis Lakers, leading the Western Division by 3½ games, whipped the Boston Celtics for the fifth time this season, 87-82. The Lakers' big three—George Mikan, Vern Mikkelsen and Jim Pollard contributed 63 points, 30 of them by Mikan.

One Game Retains HVBL Lead For Lumberjacks

Spreer Out At NFA (?)

A DUSO League basketball "rumor" that has been making the rounds for several weeks exploded into a reality over the weekend.

Reports out of Poughkeepsie claim that Bobby Spreer, Newburgh Academy's gifted forward, has been ruled ineligible for the second semester that starts today. That means he will miss the crucial game Tuesday at Poughkeepsie.

A Poughkeepsie source quotes the New York State High School Athletic Association as saying Spreer has completed eight semesters of high school basketball and is no longer eligible.

Newburgh Academy authorities insisted this morning they had not been notified by the state board.

More details later.

Wings Keep Lead In Funny Fashion

(By The Associated Press)

How long can a league-leading team keep from winning and still keep leading?

The anxious followers of the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League hope they don't have to find out the hard way. The Wings are still in first place, just as they were at the season's midway point Jan. 1. But the Detroit Club has salvaged only eight points out of 10 games this month and its lead has dropped from five points to one.

Last night the Wings looked as if they would add to their advantage. On their home ice against the second place Montreal Canadiens they took a 3-2 lead. Then five minutes before the end Bud MacPherson slid through a 60-foot screen shot for Montreal and the contest ended in a 3-3 tie.

The New York Rangers staged a tremendous reversal of form at Boston. Saturday night they were trounced, 9-0. Last night they were superior to the Bruins in every department including scoring and skated off with a 2-1 victory.

Toronto edged Chicago on the Blackhawks' home ice, 4-3. Rookie Gordie Hannigan scored twice, including the winning goal.

Salvage Crucial Set Against Arlington

Meanwhile, Elston's Sport Shop muffed a great chance to flatten the Ellenville Shanahan pennant hopes when they dropped a pair on their home drives.

Rapp's Express snapped out of the doldrums with a 3-0 sweep over the Ellenville Channel Masters at the Bowlodrome.

The tense battle between Miron's and Arlington Lanes was reflected in the surprisingly low totals of 2607 for Arlingtons and 2596 for the Lumberjacks.

The Miron win in the middle set was the difference between one and three games in the loss column for the locals. There wasn't a "600" series in sight. Jerry Tenhope slammed 201-568 to pace the winners. Phil Versace, high average leader at 199-19 before the match started, settled for 515. Charlie Manfro reeled off 203-584 for the Miron's.

Elstons Surprised

Shanahans found Elstons well below usual par and eked out hard fought decisions in the second and third games, although outpinned 2846 to 2826.

Dick Howard maintained his mastery of alleys 7 and 8 with a whopping 666 on 223-218-225. Tom Carlino shot 201-205-592 and Phil Corrado had 214-590.

The Army-bound Rapp's Express squad knocked off 1049-2865 against the Channel Masters with about-to-be-Private Jim Moss slamming 200-194-223-617.

Dodger Rookie Bill Sharman Earns More As Basketeer But Loves Homer in Clutch

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEA Sports Writer

The bonanza of professional athletics is supposed to lie in baseball, but you can't tell that to Bill Sharman.

Bill wants badly to be a big league baseball outfielder, but can't afford not to be a basketball player.

As such he collects from the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association an annual stipend of $13,000, about two and a half times as much as his baseball salary in the high minors. He'll be at Vero Beach again this spring for a last trial with the Brooklyn Dodgers, provided of course, he's not swapped.

There's been much agitation by Boston writers to get him traded to the Braves, where at least he couldn't do worse than the current bevy of outfield misfits. He might realize on the promise that caused Branch Rickey to shell out a bonus figure for his services three seasons ago.

Bill's all for it.

"I can't see me cracking that Brooklyn outfield," he says modestly, "and I'd get a chance to settle down and find out once and for all how well I can play baseball."

Bill's wife is all for it, too.

"She wants me to settle for one sports or the other," continues the soft-spoken Californian. "Our little boy's about ready to go to school, and we have a younger daughter, too. It's about time we roosted. I've been back home only two weeks in three years since I got out of school."

Can Combine Careers

Bill, a rookie Brave pitcher Gene Conley, also a Celtic teammate, and Dick Groat are the only athletes trying to double up in major league sports today. Frankie Baumholtz of the Cubs used to be a basketball pro until the Reds, his baseball affiliate then, inveigled him to quit.

"Yeah, and he promptly dropped back to the minors for a spell," wryly observed Bill. "Actually, I think I can combine both. It doesn't affect my weight. I stay around 185. The constant pounding on my legs might shorten my career a couple of years, although it hasn't seemed to affect my speed."

Reaches Pro Stardom

At 25, Bill has reached true all-star status with the Celts in the NBA. He's basketball's finest one-handed shot in this, his third season of professional play. His 42 points one night against Philadelphia rank second to George Mikan's 46 against Baltimore this season. At Southern California he'd broken Hank Luisetti's Pacific Coast Conference scoring mark for a season.

He is the top field goal shooter in professional basketball, hitting on about 45 per cent of his shots. And his free throw percentage of 83.9 is second best.

Nothing Like Homers

Beacon Here Tuesday; NFA at Poughkeepsie

First Goldback Loss Possibility

While Kingston High faces a powerful Beacon High quintet Tuesday night at the municipal auditorium, a major DUSO League battle will have been resolved that afternoon in Poughkeepsie.

Newburgh Academy's undefeated Goldbacks (6-0) will be seeking their 29th straight victory in the cramped Bridge City gym where many a basketball heart has been broken over the years.

Sam Kalloch's Blues are tied with Kingston at 4 wins and 2 losses each and if ever a team was "up" for a game, you can bet on the Blues Tuesday.

Want This One

The portly "Coach of the Year" had been pointing for Kingston and Newburgh since the basketball campaign got under way. He already has triumphed over the Maroon and now awaits the Goldbacks who could run into serious trouble. The last outing of NFA against Kingston proved the conference champions are merely mortals when real pressure is applied.

Meanwhile, Coach G. Warren Kias can't afford to take the Beacon squad too lightly. The southern Dutchess quintet has a 4-3 record, having knocked off Liberty, 61-39, Friday night at home and in none of the three setbacks were the Beaconites outclassed. They gave NFA a rugged battle and were shaded by Middletown on the Middies court.

Corny Saddler and Pearly Watkins are big threats in the Beacon lineup. Watkins connected for 24 points against Liberty.

Kingston counts on Bill DuBois regaining his home court form against Beacon. The set-shooting ace has found the Broadway boards a scoring paradise this season, but strangely enough hasn't had much luck in road trips.

There is no change planned in the Maroon starting array of Skipper Brodhead, George Telepas, Dick Beezmer, who was a standout performer against Mickey "The Marvel" Burkowski, DuBois and Bill Haber.

In other DUSO engagements, Middletown visits Port Jervis; Ellenville is at Fallsburgh; and Liberty travels to Monticello.

Villanova Wildcats Primed For NC State and Seton Hall

Have Good Chance To Crash Top 10

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Villanova, first on nobody's list of the best college basketball teams, will have a lot to say this week about who does top the rankings.

The Wildcats from the Philadelphia suburbs tangle Wednesday night with North Carolina State, eighth in last week's Associated Press poll. And on Saturday they meet Seton Hall, the nation's No. 1 club and the only major undefeated team.

Seton Hall hasn't had a real good test since it took sole possession of the unbeaten ranks two weeks ago by pasting Fordham. Villanova with its respectable 11-4 record will be no easy hurdle, especially since the game marks one of Seton Hall's infrequent trips away from its South Orange, N. J. campus.

Philadelphia will be the scene of another of the top games this week when fifth ranking La Salle plays Eastern Kentucky, No. 18, on Saturday night.

Schedule Light

The week's choice contests generally are few and far between since many of the squads still are engaged in mid-year exams.

Oklahoma A. and M., No. 7, takes on Wichita Wednesday and Tulsa Saturday. Third-ranking University of Washington travels to Hawaii for three games — Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Fouth-ranking Kansas State meets Iowa State in a Big Seven conference game Saturday and Fordham, No. 10, engages St. John's of Brooklyn Thursday and Yale on Saturday.

Dayton edged Duquesne, 68-66, in two overtimes; Houston beat Tulsa, 61-56; St. Louis defeated Detroit, 92-88, in one extra period; North Carolina edged NC State, 70-69; Washington made it two in a row over Washington State, 60-48, and Kansas State thumped Missouri, 94-85, in some of the other top games Saturday.

The conference races around the country didn't change much during the week. Texas gained sole possession of the lead in the Southwest Conference by the simple method of not playing any league games. Oklahoma A. and M. did the same in the Missouri Valley.

The other races in the major conferences which will automatically qualify their winners for the N.C.A.A., tournaments look like this:

Big Ten—Indiana (8-0), running easily in front but Kansas (3-2) and Kansas State (1-1) remain in contention.

Skyline Six — Wyoming (7-1) well ahead.

Pacific Coast—Washington (8-0) all the way in the Northern division; California (5-1) the power in the Southern.

Border — Arizona (4-1) leads over Hardin-Simmons (4-1).

Southeast—Louisiana State (5-0) the standout here.

Southern—North Carolina (11-1) coasting now until the conference tournament.

Ivy—Cornell (4-0) on top. No competition last week or this.

Rocky Mountain—Idaho State (5-0) takes the week off to let the rest of the schools catch up.

Dick Groat's highest scoring game at Duke came in his final home game when he scored 48 points against North Carolina.

Wiltwycks, Angels Win

Lincoln Park Inn, 50 Club Victims

Favorites continued to dominate second half action in the YMCA Basketball League Saturday, with Harry's high powered Angels, drubbing Lincoln Park Inn, 91-52, and Wiltwyck Motors running over the 50 Club, 74-51.

50 Club put up a semblance of resistance against Wiltwycks, trailing 30-24 at halftime, but the Angels broke the game apart with a 26-9 first period blast against Lincoln Park.

George Carpouzis bucketed 27 points and Big Bill East hit 20 for the Angels, who led 45-28 at the half and gained a 46-24 edge after intermission.

Bob Beaumont rimmed 16 points with Champ Holstein and Orrin Smith getting 12 each for the Angels. George Glaser's 14 sparked the Lincolns and Frank Sass tallied 10.

Klein Sinks 25

Big Bill Kleine's 25 markers and 13 by Cliff Schoonmaker highlighted Wiltwycks' conquest of the 50 Club. Ronnie Brandt and Don Smith racked up 16 and 10 for the 50 Club.

Schatzel's 626 Series Tops Rathskeller Win

Al Roosa Leads Pinmen With 612

Al Roosa's 612 series on progressively better scores of 173-204-235 led Sunday's Tavern Association tenpin action at the Central Recs.

Ray Croswell slumped to 143 in the middle game but opened with 215 and closed with 232 for a 590 runnerup total in the Association. C. Prendergast rammed 574; Bob Dederick 572, Bill Johnson 558, Fred Schryver 201-549, E. Roosa 204-548, Al Bruce 201-546, J. Noble 535, Emil Jordan 533, G. Smith 513, Eddie Heins 512, J. Local Sharpies Pound 2665 at Bowlodrome

The Rathskeller lassies pounded 851, 927 and 887 in the first half of a home-and-home series which resumes next Saturday at the Central Recs. The Lumberettes posted 2375.

Mrs. Schatzel knocked off 191-205 and 230 in the leadoff spot, with Jessie Burnett and Marge Jansen contributing heavily to the victory. Mrs. Burnett anchored with 222-569; Mrs. Jansen posted 203-548 and Kay Brodhead furnished 513.

Nats' Skein Shattered

(By The Associated Press)

All good things must come to an end—and last night the New York Knickerbockers put a halt to one of the best things in the National Basketball Association.

The Syracuse Nationals saw their nine-game winning streak snapped by the Knicks and also had their 20-game home-floor unbeaten skein shattered. The Knicks, by defeating the Nats 97-62, moved to within one game of league-leading Syracuse in the Eastern Division.

New York broke the contest open in the first period, taking a 22-7 lead. The Knicks built their advantage to 49-21 at halftime, and from there it was smooth sailing.

Worst Loss

The setback was the worst ever suffered by Syracuse.

Harry Gallatin with 22 and Max Zaslofsky with 21 points paced the Knicks, who hit a sizzling 49.2 per cent of their shots from the floor—34 of 69.

The Minneapolis Lakers, leading the Western Division by 3½ games, whipped the Boston Celtics for the fifth time this season, 87-82. The Lakers' big three—George Mikan, Vern Mikkelsen and Jim Pollard contributed 63 points, 30 of them by Mikan.

Spreer Out At NFA (?)

Salvage Crucial Set Against Arlington

A DUSO League basketball "rumor" that has been making the rounds for several weeks exploded into a reality over the weekend.

Reports out of Poughkeepsie claim that Bobby Spreer, Newburgh Academy's gifted forward, has been ruled ineligible for the second semester that starts today. That means he will miss the crucial game Tuesday at Poughkeepsie.

A Poughkeepsie source quotes the New York State High School Athletic Association as saying Spreer has completed eight semesters of high school basketball and is no longer eligible.

Newburgh Academy authorities insisted this morning they had not been notified by the state board.

Meanwhile, Elston's Sport Shop muffed a great chance to flatten the Ellenville Shanahan pennant hopes when they dropped a pair on their home drives.

The tense battle between Miron's and Arlington Lanes was reflected in the surprisingly low totals of 2607 for Arlingtons and 2596 for the Lumberjacks.

The Miron win in the middle set was the difference between one and three games in the loss column for the locals. There wasn't a "600" series in sight. Jerry Tenhope slammed 201-568 to pace the winners. Phil Versace, high average leader at 199-19 before the match started, settled for 515. Charlie Manfro reeled off 203-584 for the Miron's.

Elstons Surprised

Dick Howard maintained his mastery of alleys 7 and 8 with a whopping 666 on 223-218-225. Tom Carlino shot 201-205-592 and Phil Corrado had 214-590.

The Army-bound Rapp's Express squad knocked off 1049-2865 against the Channel Masters with about-to-be-Private Jim Moss slamming 200-194-223-617.

Wings Keep Lead In Funny Fashion

(By The Associated Press)

How long can a league-leading team keep from winning and still keep leading?

The anxious followers of the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League hope they don't have to find out the hard way. The Wings are still in first place, just as they were at the season's midway point Jan. 1. But the Detroit Club has salvaged only eight points out of 10 games this month and its lead has dropped from five points to one.

Last night the Wings looked as if they would add to their advantage. On their home ice against the second place Montreal Canadiens they took a 3-2 lead. Then five minutes before the end Bud MacPherson slid through a 60-foot screen shot for Montreal and the contest ended in a 3-3 tie.

The New York Rangers staged a tremendous reversal of form at Boston. Saturday night they were trounced, 9-0. Last night they were superior to the Bruins in every department including scoring and skated off with a 2-1 victory.

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEA Sports Writer

The bonanza of professional athletics is supposed to lie in baseball, but you can't tell that to Bill Sharman.

Bill wants badly to be a big league baseball outfielder, but can't afford not to be a basketball player.

As such he collects from the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association an annual stipend of $13,000, about two and a half times as much as his baseball salary in the high minors. He'll be at Vero Beach again this spring for a last trial with the Brooklyn Dodgers, provided of course, he's not swapped.

There's been much agitation by Boston writers to get him traded to the Braves, where at least he couldn't do worse than the current bevy of outfield misfits. He might realize on the promise that caused Branch Rickey to shell out a bonus figure for his services three seasons ago.

Bill's all for it.

"I can't see me cracking that Brooklyn outfield," he says modestly, "and I'd get a chance to settle down and find out once and for all how well I can play baseball."

Bill's wife is all for it, too.

"She wants me to settle for one sports or the other," continues the soft-spoken Californian. "Our little boy's about ready to go to school, and we have a younger daughter, too. It's about time we roosted. I've been back home only two weeks in three years since I got out of school."

Can Combine Careers

Bill, a rookie Brave pitcher Gene Conley, also a Celtic teammate, and Dick Groat are the only athletes trying to double up in major league sports today. Frankie Baumholtz of the Cubs used to be a basketball pro until the Reds, his baseball affiliate then, inveigled him to quit.

"Yeah, and he promptly dropped back to the minors for a spell," wryly observed Bill. "Actually, I think I can combine both. It doesn't affect my weight. I stay around 185. The constant pounding on my legs might shorten my career a couple of years, although it hasn't seemed to affect my speed."

Reaches Pro Stardom

At 25, Bill has reached true all-star status with the Celts in the NBA. He's basketball's finest one-handed shot in this, his third season of professional play. His 42 points one night against Philadelphia rank second to George Mikan's 46 against Baltimore this season. At Southern California he'd broken Hank Luisetti's Pacific Coast Conference scoring mark for a season.

He is the top field goal shooter in professional basketball, hitting on about 45 per cent of his shots. And his free throw percentage of 83.9 is second best.

Nothing Like Homers

His baseball progress is less spectacular.

"Two or three years ago I would have said he was certainly going to make the grade," says Rickey. "He has intelligence, fine habits and the physical equipment. But he hasn't stood out like a man of his qualities should."

Due to basketball, he's usually six weeks behind the other hitters. Nevertheless, Bill's hitting has improved with each jump in class until last year he compiled .294 for St. Paul of the American Association and would have topped .300 but for a 1-for-9 doubleheader finale. The rangy 6-2 outfielder walloped 16 homers.

"With all my basketball, there's still nothing to compare for kicks with that big home run in the clutch," says Bill.

Until they come regularly in the big time, however, Bill feels basketball has its points. And better compensation, too.

Rose Stops Vic Seixas

Adelaide, Australia, Jan. 26 (AP)—Lefty Mervyn Rose of Australia defeated Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 2-6, 11-9, today to win the South Australian tennis championship.

Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., continued her triumphant tour of this country by winning the women's singles title. She defeated Julie Sampson of San Marino, Calif., 6-3, 6-2.

Seixas had a great chance to win the title. He took a 7-6 lead in the fifth set by breaking Rose in the 13th game.

But from deuce in the next game, Rose tied it up 7-7. He gained the advantage by smacking one down the sideline, then pulled even in games with a neat passing shot.

Maureen previously had won the New South Wales, Victorian and Australian National Singles titles, and combined with Miss Sampson to win doubles titles in all those tourneys, plus the one here. Which is about as close to a monopoly as one can get.

Frank Kovacs Wins Pro Clay Courts

Hollywood, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP)—Although favoring a twisted ankle, Frank Kovacs, Oakland, Calif., won the National Professional Clay Courts tennis championships Sunday, blasting Miami Beach's Bobby Riggs, 7-5, 8-6, 6-0, in the finals.

Funeral Services For Mike Jacobs Today in New York

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Mike Jacobs, the fabulous boxing promoter who guided Joe Louis during the Brown Bomber's reign as heavyweight champion, was to be buried today at his family's plot in Washington Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Notables from the sports world and boxing, including Louis, were among the mourners for the 72-year-old Jacobs, who died Saturday in Miami Beach after suffering a heart attack.

Since he was stricken by a stroke six years ago, Jacobs became increasingly inactive in boxing until he retired completely three-and-a-half years ago to divide his time between his homes in Miami Beach and Rumson, N. J.

The Rev. Dr. Julius Mark, senior rabbi at the Congregation Emanuel, was to conduct funeral services at the Riverside Memorial Chapel. The services were scheduled for 1:15 p. m. (EST).

Blue Angels Stop Boys Club, 41-38

With Anderson and J. Van Buren setting the pace, the Boys Club led 35-28 going into the stretch but Uhl and Leonard sparked a 13-3 advantage for the Angels in that period.

Uhl was the top scorer with 14 points and Jack Redmond hit 11 for the winners. Anderson and J. Van Buren had a dozen each for the Boys Club.

The score:

Blue Angels (41)—Leonard f 7, Hook f 2, Marable f, Levenson c 2, Uh! g 14, Redmond g 11, Grimaldi g 5.

Boys Club (38)—D. Van Buren f 1, Perpetua f, J. Van Buren f 12; Anderson c 12, Smith g 5, Sember g 8, Weeks g, McDonald g.

Heavy Schedule Slated This Week For Boxing TV

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Although there is considerable activity on the television front, the one bout this week involving a world champion will not be telecast.

Archie Moore, the light heavyweight champion, makes his first outing since winning the crown tomorrow in Toledo when he tangles with Toxie Hall, a young Chicago heavyweight in a non-title 10.

Tonight at Eastern Parkway Arena in Brooklyn, Danny (Bang Bang) Womber of Chicago and Joe Giambra of Buffalo, N. Y., clash in the top bout that will be televised to some sections of the country over Dumont.

The International Boxing club will telecast (CBS) two bouts on Wednesday from Chicago pitting Floyd Patterson, the Olympic 165-pound champion who is undefeated as a pro, against Chester Mieszala of Chicago, and Bill Noble against Larry Watson, a couple of light heavyweights from Omaha. Both bouts are listed for six rounds.

The feature of the night matching Luther Rawlings and Orlando Zulueta, however, won't be televised.

The Friday night TV feature from Madison Square Garden will send Vince Martinez, the rookie of the year as chosen by the boxing Writers Association, against Carmine Fiore in a 10. NBC will carry the battle.

Featherweights Pat Marcune of Brooklyn and Joe Cam of Boston meet in a 10 in Boston that will be telecast Saturday night over ABC.

Nagele's 24 Points Pace Trinity Win

Big Gene Nagele poured 24 points through the hoop to lead Trinity Lutheran to a 32-28 victory over First Dutch, Saturday in a Junior Protestant Church League basketball game on the Y boards.

Big Gene bucketed 12 deuces and his steady shooting proved the difference. The losers outscored Trinity, 24-14 in the second half after trailing 18-4 at the intermission.

Oudemoool and Bell each hit 11 points for the losers.

Ramblers, Aces Midget Winners

Led by Smith the Ramblers of the Midget Basketball League of the Boys Club handed the powerful Blue Jays their first loss of the season Saturday, a 14-13 squeaker.

Victor Locke accounted for 12 of the 13 Blue Jay markers. The teams were tied 8-8 at the half.

Cedar Aces overcame a 4-3 halftime deficit to shade the Globe Trotters, 9-8, in the companion piece. Keizer rimmed 7 points for the Cedar Aces, while Ray Reilly and Ellsworth hit 4 apiece for the Trotters.

Hot Stove Sparks In Baseball

Chicago (AP)—Phil Cavarretta, manager of the Chicago Cubs, has played on three pennant winners and three tail-enders in Cub livery. In 1935, 1938 and 1945 Phil was a member of National League championship teams. In 1948, 1949 and 1951 he was with the last place Chicago entry.

San Francisco (AP)—The Pacific Coast League attendance in 1952 was the lowest for that diamond circuit in nine years. In '52 the PCL drew 2,164,195 customers. In 1943 the attendance for the loop was 1,117,209. The '52 season also marked the third consecutive year of steady decline in attendance.

Philadelphia (AP)—Veteran Johnny Wyrostek and young Mel Clark, who will compete for the regular right-field spot on the Phils, compiled identical batting marks in their first two seasons in organized baseball. Wyrostek hit .332 with Kinston, N. C., of the Coastal Plain League in 1937 and again in 1938. Clark batted .347 with Appleton in the Wisconsin State League in 1947. He repeated with the same figure in 1948 for Baton Rouge in the Evangeline Loop.

Mangrum Holds Four Stroke Lead

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 26 (AP)—Just as it was here one year ago, and three weeks ago at Los Angeles, golf star Lloyd Mangrum figured to have a difficult time today losing the $10,000 Phoenix Open tournament.

Last year the handsome 38-year-old Mangrum man went into the final round here with a comfortable three-stroke lead over the field. He finished the 72 holes five strokes ahead and, at 274, 10 strokes under par.

Mangrum staged a triumphant tour of the 6,578-yard, par 36-35-71 Phoenix Country Club course yesterday and when he was through he had knocked eight strokes off par.

His 32-31-63 tied the course record and with previous rounds of 71-68, gave him a 54-hole total of 202.

PORT EWEN NEWS

Port Ewen, Jan. 26—On Sunday, Jan. 18, Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Nilan and daughter, Donna and son Eugene, motored to Milford, Pa., where they met Mrs. Nilan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vandenburg. In honor of their daughter, Donna Mae, they entertained at a birthday dinner party at the Hotel Fauchere in Milford. On Tuesday, Jan. 20, Mrs. Nilan was hostess to the pupils of the kindergarten room at School 13, Mrs. Eltinge Ellsworth, teacher, to celebrate Donna's birthday. Rose Stops Vic Seixas

Adelaide, Australia, Jan. 26 (AP)—Lefty Mervyn Rose of Australia defeated Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 2-6, 11-9, today to win the South Australian tennis championship.

Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., continued her triumphant tour of this country by winning the women's singles title. She defeated Julie Sampson of San Marino, Calif., 6-3, 6-2.

Seixas had a great chance to win the title. He took a 7-6 lead in the fifth set by breaking Rose in the 13th game.

But from deuce in the next game, Rose tied it up 7-7. He gained the advantage by smacking one down the sideline, then pulled even in games with a neat passing shot.

They fought hard until the 20th game, when Rose crashed through Seixas to wrap it up.

Maureen previously had won the New South Wales, Victorian and Australian National Singles titles, and combined with Miss Sampson to win doubles titles in all those tourneys, plus the one here. Which is about as close to a monopoly as one can get.

Frank Kovacs Wins Pro Clay Courts

Hollywood, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP)—Although favoring a twisted ankle, Frank Kovacs, Oakland, Calif., won the National Professional Clay Courts tennis championships Sunday, blasting Miami Beach's Bobby Riggs, 7-5, 8-6, 6-0, in the finals.

Funeral Services For Mike Jacobs Today in New York

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Mike Jacobs, the fabulous boxing promoter who guided Joe Louis during the Brown Bomber's reign as heavyweight champion, was to be buried today at his family's plot in Washington Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Notables from the sports world and boxing, including Louis, were among the mourners for the 72-year-old Jacobs, who died Saturday in Miami Beach after suffering a heart attack.

Since he was stricken by a stroke six years ago, Jacobs became increasingly inactive in boxing until he retired completely three-and-a-half years ago to divide his time between his homes in Miami Beach and Rumson, N. J.

The Rev. Dr. Julius Mark, senior rabbi at the Congregation Emanuel was to conduct funeral services at the Riverside Memorial Chapel. The services were scheduled for 1:15 p. m. (EST).

Blue Angels Stop Boys Club, 41-38

With Anderson and J. Van Buren setting the pace, the Boys Club led 35-28 going into the stretch but Uhl and Leonard sparked a 13-3 advantage for the Angels in that period.

Uhl was the top scorer with 14 points and Jack Redmond hit 11 for the winners. Anderson and J. Van Buren had a dozen each for the Boys Club.

The score:

Blue Angels (41)—Leonard f 7, Hook f 2, Marable f, Levenson c 2, Uhl g 14, Redmond g 11, Grimaldi g 5.

Boys Club (38)—D. Van Buren f 1, Perpetua f, J. Van Buren f 12; Anderson c 12, Smith g 5, Sember g 8, Weeks g, McDonald g.

Heavy Schedule Slated This Week For Boxing TV

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Although there is considerable activity on the television front, the one bout this week involving a world champion will not be telecast.

Archie Moore, the light heavyweight champion, makes his first outing since winning the crown tomorrow in Toledo when he tangles with Toxie Hall, a young Chicago heavyweight in a non-title 10.

Tonight at Eastern Parkway Arena in Brooklyn, Danny (Bang Bang) Womber of Chicago and Joe Giambra of Buffalo, N. Y., clash in the top bout that will be televised to some sections of the country over Dumont.

The International Boxing club will telecast (CBS) two bouts on Wednesday from Chicago pitting Floyd Patterson, the Olympic 165-pound champion who is undefeated as a pro, against Chester Mieszala of Chicago, and Bill Noble against Larry Watson, a couple of light heavyweights from Omaha. Both bouts are listed for six rounds.

The feature of the night matching Luther Rawlings and Orlando Zulueta, however, won't be televised.

The Friday night TV feature from Madison Square Garden will send Vince Martinez, the rookie of the year as chosen by the boxing Writers Association, against Carmine Fiore in a 10. NBC will carry the battle.

Featherweights Pat Marcune of Brooklyn and Joe Cam of Boston meet in a 10 in Boston that will be telecast Saturday night over ABC.

Nagele's 24 Points Pace Trinity Win

Big Gene Nagele poured 24 points through the hoop to lead Trinity Lutheran to a 32-28 victory over First Dutch, Saturday in a Junior Protestant Church League basketball game on the Y boards.

Big Gene bucketed 12 deuces and his steady shooting proved the difference. The losers outscored Trinity, 24-14 in the second half after trailing 18-4 at the intermission.

Oudemoool and Bell each hit 11 points for the losers.

Triangles Rout Boys Club, 70-33

The YMCA Triangles got off to an early lead to overpower the Boys Club, 70-33, for their second straight win Saturday on the Y court.

Two big periods—a 24-point opening blast and a 32-point finisher—overwhelmed the losers.

Ramblers, Aces Midget Winners

Led by Smith the Ramblers of the Midget Basketball League of the Boys Club handed the powerful Blue Jays their first loss of the season Saturday, a 14-13 squeaker.

Victor Locke accounted for 12 of the 13 Blue Jay markers. The teams were tied 8-8 at the half.

Cedar Aces overcame a 4-3 halftime deficit to shade the Globe Trotters, 9-8, in the companion piece. Keizer rimmed 7 points for the Cedar Aces, while Ray Reilly and Ellsworth hit 4 apiece for the Trotters.

The scores:

Hot Stove Sparks In Baseball

Chicago (AP)—Phil Cavarretta, manager of the Chicago Cubs, has played on three pennant winners and three tail-enders in Cub livery. In 1935, 1938 and 1945 Phil was a member of National League championship teams. In 1948, 1949 and 1951 he was with the last place Chicago entry.

San Francisco (AP)—The Pacific Coast League attendance in 1952 was the lowest for that diamond circuit in nine years. In '52 the PCL drew 2,164,195 customers. In 1943 the attendance for the loop was 1,117,209. The '52 season also marked the third consecutive year of steady decline in attendance.

Philadelphia (AP)—Veteran Johnny Wyrostek and young Mel Clark, who will compete for the regular right-field spot on the Phils, compiled identical batting marks in their first two seasons in organized baseball. Wyrostek hit .332 with Kinston, N. C., of the Coastal Plain League in 1937 and again in 1938. Clark batted .347 with Appleton in the Wisconsin State League in 1947. He repeated with the same figure in 1948 for Baton Rouge in the Evangeline Loop.

Mangrum Holds Four Stroke Lead

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 26 (AP)—Just as it was here one year ago, and three weeks ago at Los Angeles, golf star Lloyd Mangrum figured to have a difficult time today losing the $10,000 Phoenix Open tournament.

Last year the handsome 38-year-old Mangrum man went into the final round here with a comfortable three-stroke lead over the field. He finished the 72 holes five strokes ahead and, at 274, 10 strokes under par.

In the $20,000 Los Angeles Open last Jan. 5, Mangrum at 54 holes was five shots in front, and he finished five strokes in front.

Today, Mangrum was four shots in front of his nearest threat, rookie pro Bo Wininger from Oklahoma City, and seven ahead of the next nearest and another rookie, Lionel Herbert of Pittsburgh.

Mangrum staged a triumphant tour of the 6,578-yard, par 36-35-71 Phoenix Country Club course yesterday and when he was through he had knocked eight strokes off par.

His 32-31-63 tied the course record and with previous rounds of 71-68, gave him a 54-hole total of 202.

PORT EWEN NEWS

Port Ewen, Jan. 26—On Sunday, Jan. 18, Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Nilan and daughter, Donna and son Eugene, motored to Milford, Pa., where they met Mrs. Nilan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vandenburg. Newburgh Cited For Improvement

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Eleven U. S. municipalities today won citations from the National Municipal League as " All-America Cities" for self-improvement work through "citizen action."

The awards, announced in Look magazine, went to Baltimore; Bemidji, Minn.; Brookfield, Ill.; Compton, Calif.; Manhattan Kans.; Miami and Dade county, Fla.; Minneapolis; Newburgh; Owensboro, Ky.; Roanoke, Va.; and Woonsocket, R. I.

Dr. George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion and head of a 12-man selection panel, said:

"The citations are given not for good government or efficient municipal administration or some specific improvement but rather on the basis of energetic, purposeful, intelligent citizen effort."

Newburgh was cited for citizen efforts which pulled the community out of the red and put it on a sound financial basis.

Band Is Chased Back

Jerusalem, Jan. 26 (AP)—An Israeli army spokesman reported today that an Israel army patrol chased a band of pipe-stealing Arabs back into Egypt early Sunday after an all-night running battle. In the action in the western Negeb desert the Arabs were believed to have suffered serious losses, the spokesman said. The marauders were stealing irrigation pipes from a Jewish settlement, he explained. It was the first serious clash reported on the Israeli-Egyptian frontier in recent weeks. Israel's government has been increasingly concerned, however, by frequent recent clashes on the Israel-Jordan border and these are now the subject of high-level government discussions.

Why We Say--

. . . Not a sound

This expression started with the English secret service police. When they said "mum's the word" they actually meant no sound at all should be uttered. Because when you form the letters "mm" your mouth does not open. . . . This undoubtedly is the best way to keep a secret.

Briefs Are Filed In Estate Case

Final briefs were filed Saturday with Surrogate John B. Sterley in the Eugene Wood estate matter in which two women allege they were married to the truck driver who was killed in a collision at Paramus, N. J., Sept. 30. Mrs. Anna Hauck Wood of Saugerties, respondent, through her attorney Max Goldstein of Albany on Saturday filed replying briefs. Briefs on behalf of Mrs. Jean P. Wood of Schagticoke were filed Jan. 16 by her attorney Fred C. Schwartz, Jr., of Troy. Respondent had 10 days to file following the submission of papers by the petitioner.

Both women claim they were married to the truck driver. Mrs. Anna Hauck Wood of Saugerties, following the death of Wood obtained letters of administration from Surrogate John B. Sterley in Ulster county. The second woman, Mrs. Jean P. Wood then sought to have the letters revoked.

With all papers now before the court, Surrogate John B. Sterley said today that he would make a determination in the matter as quickly as possible. It is expected that a week or two will be necessary to pass upon the mass of evidence before the court and make a legal determination in the matter.

State of Union

was devoted largely to his view of the foreign situation, and his ideas about meeting the problems it presents. He has not gone into detail on domestic policies.

In that field, Congress is waiting to hear what he will have to say about the Taft-Hartley Act; taxes and the national budget; controls on wages, prices and rents; the allocation and priority system on production, and the reorganization of government.

Sentiment Developes

On taxes, some sentiment has developed for an early reduction of the levies on personal income. But the question is tied closely to the question of balancing the national budget.

Sen. Byrd of Virginia—the only Democrat requested by Republicans to head a Congressional committee—said yesterday that must be the first objective. He is chairman of a Senate-House committee that keeps tabs on government payrolls.

Byrd told the Gannett News Service in an interview that individuals and corporations, alike, are entitled to tax relief. But he said he was not in favor of lowering tax rates "until we have reduced federal expenditures to balance the budget, eliminating the necessity for deficit spending and increasing the debt."

Is Major Question

Whether controls shall be continued, and if so on what basis, is a major question confronting Congress. Some strong sentiment has developed to let the restrictions on wages, prices and rents expire April 30 when the present law runs out.

In the field of foreign affairs, one of Eisenhower's top lieutenants indicated last week that changes are coming in American foreign policy. Harold E. Stassen, designated to head the Mutual Security Administration, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee:

"I think the State of the Union Message will make very clear the manner in which foreign policy and its implementation takes on certain changes."

He did not say what they may be.

Eisenhower left the White House yesterday to attend religious service at the National Presbyterian Church. He scheduled nothing else for the day.

Mrs. Eisenhower did not accompany him to church. She has a cold and stayed indoors on doctor's orders. However, she planned to receive 800 members of the Women's Forum on National Security at the White House today.

Total average taxes paid by each man, woman and child in the United States in 1952 was $514.

Eskin Plans Trip To Haiti Shortly

Woodstock, Jan. 26—Sam Eskin, folk singer, who recently returned from a trip to the west coast and Mexico, will leave shortly for Haiti, along with Angelo diBenevetto, a painter and long-time friend of Eskins from Central City, Colo. Eskin's friend has lived and painted in Haiti and a number of his paintings were reproduced in Life magazine some time ago. They plan to remain in Haiti for three months, where Eskin will collect folk songs, tales, voodoo and drum rhythms which he plans to record while there. They will travel in Eskin's specially equipped Jeep which will carry all of his recording equipment. They hope to make excursions into the back country and jungles.

During his recent trip to California, Eskin prepared special programs for the University of California, Berkeley Campus for the Committee on Drama, Lectures and Music. His programs which were presented Nov. 17 and Nov. 24, and were titled Folk Music Alive. Through his efforts the following prominent folk singers appeared: Haywire Mac, hobo songs and Americana; Lannis Sutton, traditional songs and ballads; K. C. Douglas, Negor ballads; Dorothy Mehrton, traditional songs and ballads; Capt Leighton Robinson, sea chanties. The program Nov. 24 was broadcast over station KPFA in San Francisco.

Eskin also presented programs at the Bridge Theater and at the Episcopal Church in San Francico.

While in Mexico, his third trip to that country, he collected folk songs which he recorded as well as those from New Mexico and California where he discovered several old English songs which had been brought there in the pioneer days. These, he said, were the more traditional ballads from England.

Odd Fellow Officers Are Installed Friday

Post Office Jobs Irk GOP Patronage

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP) — House Republicans, shy on patronage for 20 years, are casting a jaundiced eye at a law which bars them from control of thousands of postmaster jobs.

The law, enacted 15 years ago when Democrats were calling the shots, had the effect of giving postmasters lifetime civil service tenure. It didn't bother the Republicans at the time because, as the party out of power, they weren't able to reward the politically faithful with patronage jobs.

But it's different now that a Republican occupies the White House and the GOP controls Congress.

Report on Polio Vaccine Will Be Revealed Tonight

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Progress in developing a safe vaccine against polio is expected to be reported tonight to a special meeting of trustees of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The Foundation would give no advance hint of how close science has come to a vaccine that might end the tragedies of polio "crippling and death.

But it is known—and has been reported—that a polio vaccine is very close to reality. Only one or two final barriers have been standing in the way of a practical, abundant and safe vaccine.

Some of the first main steps were taken in the last few years.

One was discovery that there are just three types of polio virus that can cause human paralysis. A vaccine must contain all three.

To be safe in a vaccine, the virus must first be killed. Yet it must keep its ability to stimulate the human body to produce its own, long-lasting antibodies against virus.

The usual way of doing this is to treat the virus with formalin. Formalin works with other kinds of viruses for other vaccines, and apparently works on polio virus this way.

Monkeys already have been protected, against all three types of polio, with vaccines made with formalin-treated virus.

This kind of vaccine may be ready now for human trials next summer. Such trials would have to precede general use on children and adults—assuming that enough vaccine can be made. Large-scale production of vaccine might be farther off.

Barkley Goes to TV

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Alben W. Barkley, no longer the vice president, is to be a TV news commentator for NBC on a program called "Meet the Veep." Barkley told a news conference yesterday he will do a 15-minute broadcast at 5:30 p. m. EST, each Sunday with veteran newscaster Earl Godwin "holding my hand." The first show is next Sunday. The 75-year-old Kentuckian said he has no sponsor nor any contract. He would not say how much pay the broadcasts will bring him.

Car Hits Pole, Fence

An automobile owned and driven by Michael Anthony Annese, 28, of 226 West Bridge street, Catskill, struck a pole and wire fence when it skidded on the side of the road at Lake Katrine about 1:15 a. m. today, according to a sheriff's office report. No one was hurt, Annese told Deputy Sheriff Thomas J. Mayone. The gasoline tank straps, rear fender, tail pipe, front bumper and a chrome strip on the automobile were damaged, according to the report.

Michael Quinn, 52, of RD 4, Kingston, was arrested Saturday afternoon on a warrant charging him with leaving the scene of an accident. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky, Quinn pleaded innocent and was released on $250 bail for hearing Tuesday at 7 p. m. State police said Quinn was accused on the warrant of leaving the scene of a minor accident in Rosendale Thursday night. Details of the accident were not reported to troopers.

Clumsiest Intruder

San Francisco, Jan. 26 (AP)—Police today nominated Gene W. Hoffman, 26, as clumsiest intruder. Hoffman was booked on suspicion of attempted burglary after his identification card, complete with photograph and fingerprint, was found at a downtown apartment house where residents reported a prowler.

Pope's Condition Called Improved

Vatican City, Jan. 26 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, suffering from bronchial pneumonia, was reported slightly improved today. Vatican sources already had said there was no cause for concern.

No official bulletin was issued today on the condition of the 76-year-old Pontiff, who has been in bed since Thursday. His ailment at first was described as influenza but Vatican sources confirmed yesterday it was bronchial pneumonia.

No official information has been released on the treatment given the Pope. Sources at the Vatican, said, however, it could be assumed that such modern medicines as penicillin were being administered.

The Pontiff's persistent fever late last night hovered around the 101 mark. His doctor, Prof. Riccardo Galezaai-Lisi has been staying at the Vatican since Friday to be more readily available if needed.

The Pontiff's attention to church duties continued despite his illness.

The only reference to the Pope's ailment in the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano was published on Saturday. It said his illness was accompanied by "irritations of the respiratory tract."

Never robust, the thin and ascetic Pope has been troubled frequently with bronchitis in the past.

Sees Important Step

In urging creation of a permanent crime-watchdog agency, the State Crime Commission said the action would be "a long step forward in destroying the stranglehold which organized crime has had in various areas upon the administration of the criminal laws."

Dewey said the recommendation would go to the Legislature without his personal backing—at least for the present. He said he would make no proposals for crime busting until the commission had submitted the rest of its reports. These will cover the commission's current probe of the New York waterfront, and possible new laws to intensify the statewide battle against crime and corruption.

May Visit Hawaii

The plan is for Truman to take a long cruise in the South Pacific with Mrs. Truman and Margaret as soon as it can be set up. There is a possibility they will visit Hawaii.

As these future plans became known, the ex-President pursued his present role of a country squire in Independence. He returned to his Kansas City office today to handle correspondence, following the pattern he set last week.

Yesterday he took a morning stroll through Independence, reciting to reporters the history of the first Jackson county courthouse and other buildings in the town.

He didn't attend Sunday services at the Baptist Church because he wants the hometown folks get used to having him around before he takes part in public activities.

Truman Changes Tune

In New York last night, Truman was quoted in an American Broadcast Company program as saying that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's trip to Korea probably did some good.

Previously, Truman had twice referred to Eisenhower's campaign promise to go to Korea as demagoguery.

Bryson Rash, American Broadcasting Company correspondent, last night reported on an interview he had with Truman Jan. 15. Rash, appearing on a television program ("All Star News"), said the statement on Korea was not cleared for release until after Eisenhower took office as President.

Truman was quoted as saying in the interview:

"It was demagoguery for a political nominee to say he was going to Korea with the implied promise to all the wives, mothers and sweethearts of the men at the front that he would end the war."

Rash said Truman then added that the trip itself "was not demagoguery. I was in favor of that and it probably did some good."

Newburgh was cited for citizen efforts which pulled the community out of the red and put it on a sound financial basis.

Band Is Chased Back

Jerusalem, Jan. 26 (AP)—An Israeli army spokesman reported today that an Israel army patrol chased a band of pipe-stealing Arabs back into Egypt early Sunday after an all-night running battle. In the action in the western Negeb desert the Arabs were believed to have suffered serious losses, the spokesman said. The marauders were stealing irrigation pipes from a Jewish settlement, he explained. It was the first serious clash reported on the Israeli-Egyptian frontier in recent weeks. Israel's government has been increasingly concerned, however, by frequent recent clashes on the Israel-Jordan border and these are now the subject of high-level government discussions.

Why We Say--

. . . Not a sound

This expression started with the English secret service police. When they said "mum's the word" they actually meant no sound at all should be uttered. Because when you form the letters "mm" your mouth does not open. . . . This undoubtedly is the best way to keep a secret.

Briefs Are Filed In Estate Case

Final briefs were filed Saturday with Surrogate John B. Sterley in the Eugene Wood estate matter in which two women allege they were married to the truck driver who was killed in a collision at Paramus, N. J., Sept. 30. Mrs. Anna Hauck Wood of Saugerties, respondent, through her attorney Max Goldstein of Albany on Saturday filed replying briefs. Briefs on behalf of Mrs. Jean P. Wood of Schagticoke were filed Jan. 16 by her attorney Fred C. Schwartz, Jr., of Troy. Respondent had 10 days to file following the submission of papers by the petitioner.

Both women claim they were married to the truck driver. Mrs. Anna Hauck Wood of Saugerties, following the death of Wood obtained letters of administration from Surrogate John B. Sterley in Ulster county. The second woman, Mrs. Jean P. Wood then sought to have the letters revoked.

With all papers now before the court, Surrogate John B. Sterley said today that he would make a determination in the matter as quickly as possible. It is expected that a week or two will be necessary to pass upon the mass of evidence before the court and make a legal determination in the matter.

State of Union

was devoted largely to his view of the foreign situation, and his ideas about meeting the problems it presents. He has not gone into detail on domestic policies.

In that field, Congress is waiting to hear what he will have to say about the Taft-Hartley Act; taxes and the national budget; controls on wages, prices and rents; the allocation and priority system on production, and the reorganization of government.

Sentiment Developes

On taxes, some sentiment has developed for an early reduction of the levies on personal income. But the question is tied closely to the question of balancing the national budget.

Sen. Byrd of Virginia—the only Democrat requested by Republicans to head a Congressional committee—said yesterday that must be the first objective. He is chairman of a Senate-House committee that keeps tabs on government payrolls.

Byrd told the Gannett News Service in an interview that individuals and corporations, alike, are entitled to tax relief. But he said he was not in favor of lowering tax rates "until we have reduced federal expenditures to balance the budget, eliminating the necessity for deficit spending and increasing the debt."

Is Major Question

Whether controls shall be continued, and if so on what basis, is a major question confronting Congress. Some strong sentiment has developed to let the restrictions on wages, prices and rents expire April 30 when the present law runs out.

In the field of foreign affairs, one of Eisenhower's top lieutenants indicated last week that changes are coming in American foreign policy. Harold E. Stassen, designated to head the Mutual Security Administration, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee:

"I think the State of the Union Message will make very clear the manner in which foreign policy and its implementation takes on certain changes."

He did not say what they may be.

Eisenhower left the White House yesterday to attend religious service at the National Presbyterian Church. He scheduled nothing else for the day.

Mrs. Eisenhower did not accompany him to church. She has a cold and stayed indoors on doctor's orders. However, she planned to receive 800 members of the Women's Forum on National Security at the White House today.

Total average taxes paid by each man, woman and child in the United States in 1952 was $514.

Eskin Plans Trip To Haiti Shortly

Woodstock, Jan. 26—Sam Eskin, folk singer, who recently returned from a trip to the west coast and Mexico, will leave shortly for Haiti, along with Angelo diBenevetto, a painter and long-time friend of Eskins from Central City, Colo. Eskin's friend has lived and painted in Haiti and a number of his paintings were reproduced in Life magazine some time ago. They plan to remain in Haiti for three months, where Eskin will collect folk songs, tales, voodoo and drum rhythms which he plans to record while there. They will travel in Eskin's specially equipped Jeep which will carry all of his recording equipment. They hope to make excursions into the back country and jungles.

During his recent trip to California, Eskin prepared special programs for the University of California, Berkeley Campus for the Committee on Drama, Lectures and Music. His programs which were presented Nov. 17 and Nov. 24, and were titled Folk Music Alive. Through his efforts the following prominent folk singers appeared: Haywire Mac, hobo songs and Americana; Lannis Sutton, traditional songs and ballads; K. C. Douglas, Negor ballads; Dorothy Mehrton, traditional songs and ballads; Capt Leighton Robinson, sea chanties. The program Nov. 24 was broadcast over station KPFA in San Francisco.

Eskin also presented programs at the Bridge Theater and at the Episcopal Church in San Francico.

While in Mexico, his third trip to that country, he collected folk songs which he recorded as well as those from New Mexico and California where he discovered several old English songs which had been brought there in the pioneer days. These, he said, were the more traditional ballads from England.

Post Office Jobs Irk GOP Patronage

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP) — House Republicans, shy on patronage for 20 years, are casting a jaundiced eye at a law which bars them from control of thousands of postmaster jobs.

The law, enacted 15 years ago when Democrats were calling the shots, had the effect of giving postmasters lifetime civil service tenure. It didn't bother the Republicans at the time because, as the party out of power, they weren't able to reward the politically faithful with patronage jobs.

But it's different now that a Republican occupies the White House and the GOP controls Congress.

Report on Polio Vaccine Will Be Revealed Tonight

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Progress in developing a safe vaccine against polio is expected to be reported tonight to a special meeting of trustees of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The Foundation would give no advance hint of how close science has come to a vaccine that might end the tragedies of polio "crippling and death.

But it is known—and has been reported—that a polio vaccine is very close to reality. Only one or two final barriers have been standing in the way of a practical, abundant and safe vaccine.

Some of the first main steps were taken in the last few years.

One was discovery that there are just three types of polio virus that can cause human paralysis. A vaccine must contain all three.

Second was discovery that polio virus can be grown in test-tubes, on body tissues, from animals or humans, other than nerves.

There have been hints that virus can be produced in fairly large-scale lots this way. Getting enough virus has been one of the barriers.

To be safe in a vaccine, the virus must first be killed. Yet it must keep its ability to stimulate the human body to produce its own, long-lasting antibodies against virus.

The usual way of doing this is to treat the virus with formalin. Formalin works with other kinds of viruses for other vaccines, and apparently works on polio virus this way.

Monkeys already have been protected, against all three types of polio, with vaccines made with formalin-treated virus.

This kind of vaccine may be ready now for human trials next summer. Such trials would have to precede general use on children and adults—assuming that enough vaccine can be made. Large-scale production of vaccine might be farther off.

Barkley Goes to TV

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Alben W. Barkley, no longer the vice president, is to be a TV news commentator for NBC on a program called "Meet the Veep." Barkley told a news conference yesterday he will do a 15-minute broadcast at 5:30 p. m. EST, each Sunday with veteran newscaster Earl Godwin "holding my hand." The first show is next Sunday. The 75-year-old Kentuckian said he has no sponsor nor any contract. He would not say how much pay the broadcasts will bring him.

Car Hits Pole, Fence

An automobile owned and driven by Michael Anthony Annese, 28, of 226 West Bridge street, Catskill, struck a pole and wire fence when it skidded on the side of the road at Lake Katrine about 1:15 a. m. today, according to a sheriff's office report. No one was hurt, Annese told Deputy Sheriff Thomas J. Mayone. The gasoline tank straps, rear fender, tail pipe, front bumper and a chrome strip on the automobile were damaged, according to the report.

Michael Quinn, 52, of RD 4, Kingston, was arrested Saturday afternoon on a warrant charging him with leaving the scene of an accident. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky, Quinn pleaded innocent and was released on $250 bail for hearing Tuesday at 7 p. m. State police said Quinn was accused on the warrant of leaving the scene of a minor accident in Rosendale Thursday night. Details of the accident were not reported to troopers.

Clumsiest Intruder

San Francisco, Jan. 26 (AP)—Police today nominated Gene W. Hoffman, 26, as clumsiest intruder. Hoffman was booked on suspicion of attempted burglary after his identification card, complete with photograph and fingerprint, was found at a downtown apartment house where residents reported a prowler.

Pope's Condition Called Improved

Vatican City, Jan. 26 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, suffering from bronchial pneumonia, was reported slightly improved today. Vatican sources already had said there was no cause for concern.

No official bulletin was issued today on the condition of the 76-year-old Pontiff, who has been in bed since Thursday. His ailment at first was described as influenza but Vatican sources confirmed yesterday it was bronchial pneumonia.

No official information has been released on the treatment given the Pope. Sources at the Vatican, said, however, it could be assumed that such modern medicines as penicillin were being administered.

The Pontiff's persistent fever late last night hovered around the 101 mark. His doctor, Prof. Riccardo Galezaai-Lisi has been staying at the Vatican since Friday to be more readily available if needed.

The Pontiff's attention to church duties continued despite his illness.

The only reference to the Pope's ailment in the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano was published on Saturday. It said his illness was accompanied by "irritations of the respiratory tract."

Never robust, the thin and ascetic Pope has been troubled frequently with bronchitis in the past.

Sees Important Step

In urging creation of a permanent crime-watchdog agency, the State Crime Commission said the action would be "a long step forward in destroying the stranglehold which organized crime has had in various areas upon the administration of the criminal laws."

Dewey said the recommendation would go to the Legislature without his personal backing—at least for the present. He said he would make no proposals for crime busting until the commission had submitted the rest of its reports. These will cover the commission's current probe of the New York waterfront, and possible new laws to intensify the statewide battle against crime and corruption.

May Visit Hawaii

The plan is for Truman to take a long cruise in the South Pacific with Mrs. Truman and Margaret as soon as it can be set up. There is a possibility they will visit Hawaii.

As these future plans became known, the ex-President pursued his present role of a country squire in Independence. He returned to his Kansas City office today to handle correspondence, following the pattern he set last week.

Yesterday he took a morning stroll through Independence, reciting to reporters the history of the first Jackson county courthouse and other buildings in the town.

He didn't attend Sunday services at the Baptist Church because he wants the hometown folks get used to having him around before he takes part in public activities.

Truman Changes Tune

In New York last night, Truman was quoted in an American Broadcast Company program as saying that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's trip to Korea probably did some good.

Previously, Truman had twice referred to Eisenhower's campaign promise to go to Korea as demagoguery.

Bryson Rash, American Broadcasting Company correspondent, last night reported on an interview he had with Truman Jan. 15. Rash, appearing on a television program ("All Star News"), said the statement on Korea was not cleared for release until after Eisenhower took office as President.

Truman was quoted as saying in the interview:

"It was demagoguery for a political nominee to say he was going to Korea with the implied promise to all the wives, mothers and sweethearts of the men at the front that he would end the war."

Rash said Truman then added that the trip itself "was not demagoguery. I was in favor of that and it probably did some good."

The committee in charge of arrangements was Charles Hoppe, Ralph Finnigan and Charles Troll. The presentations were made by the pastor and Paul Terpening, president of the church board.

Eastern States Are Cold; Central Area Is Warmer

(By The Associated Press)

A bitter chill blanketed eastern United States today while southerly winds warmed up the nation's midsection from Texas to the eastern great plains and Missouri Valley.

Arctic air lay from the upper Mississippi valley to the Atlantic coast. It was below zero in Michigan—22 below at Pellston—and temperatures were below freezing in the southeast. The thermometer read 25, for example, at Greensboro, N. C.

Sharp northerly winds and snow flurries heightened the discomfort from New England to West Virginia.

It was cooler in the Pacific northwest, and scattered showers were reported from Seattle to San Francisco.

World War 2 Ace Missing in Korea

Seoul, Jan. 26 (AP)—Lt. Col. Edwin H. Heller, one of the top American fighter pilots of World War 2, was lost over North Korea Friday, the Fifth Air Force said today.

Cannon fire from a Communist MIG 15 presumably blasted Heller's Sabre Jet only one day after he had destroyed two Communist jets and was promoted from major.

Heller, 33, of Wynnewood, Pa., is listed as missing in action.

On 58th Mission

His Korean score was 3½ MIGs destroyed and one damaged.

A Fifth Air Force spokesman said other pilots in the 51st fighter interceptor wing, busy in dogfights, did not see whether Heller's jet was hit, but saw it going down.

He said there was no report of Heller parachuting.

Heller was on his 58th mission in Korea. He flew 146 missions over Europe in P-47s and P-51s.

14,500 Military Craft Are to Be Produced

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—The nation's aircraft industry will produce 14,500 military airplanes this year—more than in 1951 and 1952 combined—Mundy I. Peale, president of Republic Aviation Corp., said today.

And sometime during the year, Peale told the American Legion Security Commission in a prepared address, the aircraft industry will become the nation's largest employer of manufacturing workers — bigger even than steel or automobiles or textiles.

Peale said Russia still will outproduce the United States in airplanes this year, but the United States will be far ahead in quality of aircraft and pilots.

The civilian labor force in the United States increased 13.9 per cent from 1939 to 1951.

Petty-Cash!
Some loose change - - - a few dollar bills - - - in a little tin box. In business, they call it "petty cash." Every home has its "petty cash" too - - - maybe in Mother's sugar bowl - - - maybe in Dad's back pocket. And isn't it amazing how low "petty cash" gets by the time next payday rolls around? If you figure on saving "what's left," you may not get very far.

Omitted From Roll

It was announced at Kingston High School today that the name of Frank Becker was omitted from the school's 85 per cent honor roll listing.

Trinity Lutheran Council Has Testimonial Dinner

Members of the Trinity Lutheran Church Council and their wives, gave a testimonial dinner at Hoppey's restaurant on Saturday evening, to honor Fred Paulus who was retiring after 26 years as treasurer of the church. Mr. Paulus was presented with a gift from the church. Among those in attendance were from left, seated, Herman Osmers, Fred Paulus, the Rev. Dr. Frank L. Gollnick, pastor; and Paul Terpening; standing, also from left, Charles Hoppe, Ralph Finnigan, Oscar Lawatsch, Charles Troll and Robert Schwenk.

Also honored was Oscar Lawatsch who is the retiring president of the church council. Mrs. Charles Baxter, assistant financial secretary, was remembered with a gift for her faithful work. Fred W. Ahlers, former president of the congregation for many years, brought a message of congratulations to Mr. Paulus.

The committee in charge of arrangements was Charles Hoppe, Ralph Finnigan and Charles Troll. The presentations were made by the pastor and Paul Terpening, president of the church board.

World War 2 Ace Missing in Korea

Seoul, Jan. 26 (AP)—Lt. Col. Edwin H. Heller, one of the top American fighter pilots of World War 2, was lost over North Korea Friday, the Fifth Air Force said today.

Cannon fire from a Communist MIG 15 presumably blasted Heller's Sabre Jet only one day after he had destroyed two Communist jets and was promoted from major.

Heller, 33, of Wynnewood, Pa., is listed as missing in action.

On 58th Mission

His Korean score was 3½ MIGs destroyed and one damaged.

A Fifth Air Force spokesman said other pilots in the 51st fighter interceptor wing, busy in dogfights, did not see whether Heller's jet was hit, but saw it going down.

He said there was no report of Heller parachuting.

Heller was on his 58th mission in Korea. He flew 146 missions over Europe in P-47s and P-51s.

14,500 Military Craft Are to Be Produced

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—The nation's aircraft industry will produce 14,500 military airplanes this year—more than in 1951 and 1952 combined—Mundy I. Peale, president of Republic Aviation Corp., said today.

And sometime during the year, Peale told the American Legion Security Commission in a prepared address, the aircraft industry will become the nation's largest employer of manufacturing workers — bigger even than steel or automobiles or textiles.

Peale said Russia still will outproduce the United States in airplanes this year, but the United States will be far ahead in quality of aircraft and pilots.

The civilian labor force in the United States increased 13.9 per cent from 1939 to 1951.

Eastern States Are Cold; Central Area Is Warmer

(By The Associated Press)

A bitter chill blanketed eastern United States today while southerly winds warmed up the nation's midsection from Texas to the eastern great plains and Missouri Valley.

Arctic air lay from the upper Mississippi valley to the Atlantic coast. It was below zero in Michigan—22 below at Pellston—and temperatures were below freezing in the southeast. The thermometer read 25, for example, at Greensboro, N. C.

Sharp northerly winds and snow flurries heightened the discomfort from New England to West Virginia.

It was cooler in the Pacific northwest, and scattered showers were reported from Seattle to San Francisco.

Preparation of leather is the oldest craft known to man.
